New Ruling For Shipping Live Stock

A recent ruling of the railroad required shippers of calves to bring them to the station by 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon to be shipped Wednesday morning. This ruling caused considerable dissatisfaction among the farmers in this community, and County Agent C. Z. Keller was asked to take the matter up with the proper railroad officials, and in compliance with this request communicated with the supervising agent at Cape Charles and explained that livestock was being held all night in open pens without feed, bedding or protection from the weather, and asked that this ruling be changed so the calves could be received the morning of shipment. Mr. Keller received the following reply from Mr. King, the supervising agent:

"I have your esteemed favor of the 24th with reference to the shipping of calves at Princess Anne and other points north in the State of Maryland being received the night before to be moved by our train D-6. Would advise that we have recently changed the schedule of this train to leave Cape Charles at 11.00 p. m. instead of 7 p.m., which will enable us to receive calves on Wednesday mornings at Princess Anne until 8 o'clock, and we have so advised our agents at Princess Anne, Loretto, Eden and Fruitland."

Store And Dwelling Burned

A fire about eight o'clock last Wednesday night destroyed the dwelling and store on the Ford property at Dames Quarter. The fire is supposed to have caught from an overheated stove. The property was formerly owned by the late Edwin H. Ford, of Somerset county, who was engaged in the oyster commission business in Baltimore. After the death of Mr. Ford the property was sold to Fred and Berenice Phoebus, of Oriole. The fire started in the store building. The wind was blowing strong which carried the sparks to the dwelling about 100 feet away. The loss was a total one partly covered by insurance.

Vegetable And Flower Seeds Free

Senator O. E. Weller will be very glad to distribute, free of charge, his quota of vegetable and flower seeds for spring planting to any resident of Maryland who will write him, by postal or letter, to Room 227 Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C., on or before November 15th, 1921. He will send each applicant one package containing five varieties of seeds, or a larger number of packages if requested. Care should be taken to give the correct name and address for mailing.

THREE HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Machine Demolished And Men In Hospital With Broken Bones

An automobile owned and operated by Linwood N. Morris, of Salisbury, was wrecked on the State road just north of Loretto Station, three miles from Princess Anne, about 11.30 o'clock last Wednesday night. In addition to Morris the occupants of the car were Ralph Wimbrough, William Windsor and Claude Nock, all of Salisbury.

The car was badly wrecked. Mr. Morris sustained a fractured leg, while Wimbrough had both legs broken. Both are in the Peninsula General Hospital. Morris did not regain consciousness until Thursday morning. Windsor was badly cut about the face, while Nock escaped with several scratches and bruises.

Dr. Ruby, of Oriole, and Mr. George W. Colborn, Jr., of Princess Anne, were the first to reach the scene of the accident. In making a search for the occupants of the car, who were picked up in different directions, Morris was found in the bottom of the ditch pinned by the rear of his car, which had to be jacked up in order to extricate him. Dr. Ruby and Mr. Colborn each took two of the men in their automobiles to the hospital in Salisbury.

After going over the railroad crossing at Loretto the car went in the ditch on the right hand side of the road. The car then swung sharply across the road to the left, striking a concrete culvert on the left-hand side of the road. The machine then went about 50 yards beyond the culvert and stopped in the ditch along the side of the road.

It is said that before coming to a full stop the car turned over and slid a part of the distance on her top, then coming up on her wheels again. All the standards were broken and the leather torn and burst in many pieces. Three of the wheels of the car were broken down entirely, both sides of the car bent and burst in, as was also the running boards and mud guards.

It is understood that Nock stated that the lights on the car went out, confusing the driver, which was the cause of the accident.

W. N. Porter Loses Life In Accident

Mr. Wilbur Newman Porter, of Salisbury, met with a fatal accident while at work painting the house of Mr. W. S. Gordy, Jr., on Lemon Hill, last Tuesday morning about 8.30 o'clock.

Mr. Porter was alone at the time of the accident, and was working outside the third-story gable window on the west side of the residence. The "jack," or painter's board, upon which he was working gave way, and precipitated him the full three flights to the ground, his body being badly crushed in the fall. All of the ribs on his right side were broken and his chest badly crushed. He was rushed to the Peninsula General Hospital, but died within five minutes after being taken there.

The deceased was 47 years of age and was born in Somerset county, near Princess Anne. While he had lived some time in Philadelphia and Wilmington, most of his years had been passed in Salisbury. He is survived by his widow, two daughters, Mrs. Preston Short and Miss Dorothy Porter, and one stepdaughter, Mrs. Madge Nugel, of Philadelphia.

Funeral services were held last Thursday afternoon from his late residence on Main street, conducted by Dr. Joseph T. Herson. Interment was in Allen cemetery.

Farm Buying Concern Organized

Out of the gathering of farmers of Maryland, representing every branch of the industry, at the Rennert Hotel, Baltimore, last Thursday, was born the Agricultural Corporation of Maryland, the aim of which is to center the purchasing power of the farmers of the State into one big organization. Eventually, it was stated, it is intended to create a sales department with a view of eliminating the middle man, or commission merchant, in the flow of farm commodities from the producer to the consuming public.

The organization formed is regarded as temporary until the first meeting of the stockholders on the second Wednesday in January, when permanent officers will be chosen. Mr. Bryan was made president, and D. Fred Shamberger, of Baltimore county, secretary-treasurer. A board of directors, one from each county, was elected. Mr. Charles C. Gelder was elected director from Somerset county, who, with Messrs. C. Z. Keller, of Princess Anne, and Paul Gunby, of Marion Station, were present at the meeting.

News stories from Los Angeles may yet inspire some modern Horace Greeley to say: "Young man, go west and licker up with the country."

Shore League Elect Officers

Mr. Walter B. Miller, of Salisbury, was chosen as president of the newly organized Eastern Shore Baseball League, at a meeting of the league's representatives held at Salisbury Friday night, the 21st ulto. Mr. Hale Harrison, of Berlin, was elected the league's secretary, and Mr. Robert B. Matthews, of Cambridge, will serve as treasurer of the league.

Owing to the fact that Worcester county was awarded three births in the circuit when the league was first organized, and since the impression has prevailed that three teams in one county would curtail the drawing power, a change in organization was effected that night by substituting Parksley, Va., and the withdrawal of Snow Hill. As the league now stands it is comprised of Cambridge, Crisfield, Pocomoke, Salisbury, Princess Anne, Berlin, Parksley and Laurel.

It was decided to start the season around the middle of June, and a 70-game schedule will be run off. This will permit each team to play five games in each town comprising the wheel. The following representatives attended the meeting: Messrs. J. D. Wallop, of Princess Anne; M. B. Thawley, of Crisfield; W. H. Schoolfield, of Pocomoke City; L. W. Gunby, of Salisbury; Dr. A. S. Williams, of Laurel; T. M. Purnell, of Berlin; C. W. Corddrey, of Snow Hill, and W. T. Gibbett, of Cambridge.

This Weeks' Photoplays

Scenes of gaiety among the gayest of New York's gay along the well-known Gay White Way; the merriment in the famous cabarets and cafes, and life in the most squalid quarters of New York's East Side have been woven in a masterly manner in the big Fox production, "While New York Sleeps," which will be shown at the Auditorium Tuesday night.

A photoplay that is as full of action as an egg is of meat, is William S. Hart's latest Paramount picture, "O'Malley of the Mounted," which will be shown at the Auditorium Thursday night. From the opening scenes in Canada when O'Malley is ordered to "get" a man wanted for murder, until the final fade out when he resigns his commission rather than arrest the man whose sister he loves, there is not an instant drag. Besides Mr. Hart in the cast are Eva Novak, Leo Willis, Antrim Short, Alfred Allen and Bert Sprotte.

Historic Morro Castle and the harbor of Havana furnished the interesting locale for the opening episodes of the Universal serial "Do or Die" featuring Eddie Polo, will be shown Saturday night. The fact that the Universal players actually filmed the scenes on the island of Cuba lends additional interest to the story which has an abundance of snap and punch. The principal players that support Eddie Polo are Inez McDonnell, J. P. McGowan, Jay Marchant, Jean Perkins and Magda Lane.

Pocomoke's New Bridge Opened

Pocomoke City staged one of the biggest days in its history last Friday when the new State road bridge across the Pocomoke river was officially opened.

The bridge, which was built by the State Roads Commission at a cost of something like $100,000, has been under construction for about 18 months, and is said to be one of the handsomest of its kind in the State.

Albert C. Ritchie, Governor of Maryland, was present and delivered a very appropriate address. Other notable visitors were former Governor Emerson C. Harrington, Chairman Mackall, of the State Roads Commission, and Senator Orlando Harrison, of Worcester county.

The old river bridge which has been used for vehicle traffic for many years, will be taken over by the State Roads Commission and entirely removed.

Soil Testing Campaign Nov. 1st to 10th

An opportunity will be given every farmer in the county to have his soil tested for lime requirements. This test will not only indicate whether or not lime is needed but will tell the amount of lime that should be used.

From one-half to two-thirds of the farm land in our county requires lime to produce a profitable crop. It is a well known fact that the poor unproductive land of this section is invariably sour and that many of our good soils would be more productive if lime was used more liberally.

The experience of our best farmers has shown that when the soil begins to need lime it is a waste of time and fertilizer to continue to cultivate it until this need has been supplied.

County Agent Keller has arranged to receive soil samples at his office during the first ten days of November for farmers living in the vicinity of Princess Anne. Farmers living in other sections of the county can leave their samples at the stores in their neighborhood or at the schools and notify the County Agent and the samples will be collected.

The directions for taking soil samples are as follows: With a spade or shovel dig a square hole to the depth of about six inches, lay a piece of clean paper in the bottom of the hole and then shave a thin slice from one side of the hole, allowing the soil to fall on the paper. Lift the paper and soil slice from the hole and proceed to another place in the same field and repeat the operation.

If the field is small and fairly uniform two holes will be sufficient to give a representative sample. But if the field is large and uneven it will be better to secure samples from at least four different places. The samples thus secured from different places in the same field should then be mixed together, and from the mixture a half pint of soil should be taken for the test. This half-pint sample should be wrapped in paper or put in a clean bag and numbered or marked on the outside of the package. The samples from each field should be wrapped and numbered separately, then all packed together in a box or package for shipment by parcel post.

Pilchard To Be Tried At Cambridge

When the Worcester County Circuit Court convened at Snow Hill last Tuesday morning to begin the trial of John Pilchard, a farmer of Stockton, charged with murder in the first degree of a negro, counsel for the defendant surprised the court by filing a petition for the removal of the trial to another county.

The attorneys for the prisoner declared they could not get a fair trial in Worcester and petitioned the court to remove the hearing to another county, where public opinion is not so evident. Associate Judges Joseph L. Bailey, of Salisbury, and Robert F. Duer, of Princess Anne, ordered that the trial be removed to Cambridge, Dorchester county, on November 21st.

The negro was Stephen H. Long, county superintendent of colored public schools of Worcester county. Long had an excellent reputation and was liked by both white and colored people. About 600 persons flocked to Snow Hill on Monday and Tuesday to hear the trial. On Tuesday, three hours before court was to begin, groups of men stood in front of the Court House. By 9.45 the first-floor corridor and the stairs leading to the court room were jammed with white and colored people.

The boat on the Baltimore and Lov Point Ferry leaves Baltimore on Saturdays at 3.15 p. m. and Love Point at 6 p. m., instead of 2 p. m. and 6.30 p. m. respectively.

MR. SPIVA WINS DAMAGE CASE

Mrs. Tarr Loses $25,000 Suit For Alleged Injuries In Accident

After deliberating about 20 minutes the jury sitting in the Circuit Court for Worcester county at Snow Hill last Thursday returned a verdict for the defendant, Wm. B. Spiva, in the suit of Mary L. Tarr against Mr. Spiva for alleged injuries to Mrs. Tarr growing out of the collision between the car driven by Mr. Spiva and the automobile in which Mrs. Tarr was riding, near Wye Mills, in Queen Anne's county, in August, 1920. At the time of this accident Mrs. Margaret D. Spiva, the wife of Wm. B. Spiva, was instantly killed and Mr. Spiva very seriously injured. Mrs. Tarr sued for $25,000 damages.

In the trial the plaintiff was represented by William J. Rickards and Lewis & Knotts, of Denton, and ex-Judge Wm. F. Johnson, of Snow Hill, and the defendant was represented by Miles & Myers, of Princess Anne, and John W. Staton, of Snow Hill.

Following the accident Mrs. Tarr brought suit against Mr. Spiva, which was moved to Queen Anne's county, but when the case was called for trial last May the plaintiff dismissed the suit. A second suit was then instituted which, at the suggestion of the plaintiff, was again moved and this time to Worcester county. The case has created a great deal of interest all over the Eastern Shore because of the tragic circumstances connected with the accident. Mr. Spiva is cashier of the Bank of Somerset and is well known in banking circles all over the State.

The principal witnesses for the plaintiff at the trial in Snow Hill were Mary L. Tarr, the plaintiff; her sister, Mrs. Ivens, and the driver of the car, Ernest Kemp, in which the two sisters were riding. The witnesses testified that they were going over the county road leading from Stevensville to Starr and that the accident occurred at the intersection of this road with the State road leading from Wye Mills to Centreville. The plaintiff's testimony was that when they reached the State road they saw Mr. Spiva's car about ten feet away coming up the State road running from 40 to 50 miles an hour; that the Kemp car got one foot up on the stone road when it was struck on the right front wheel by the Spiva car.

The contention of the defendant was that Mr. Spiva had the right of way and that Kemp, who was coming out of a by-road approaching from the left, did not look or take any precaution but drove up on the State road striking the rear of Mr. Spiva's car. Mr. Spiva testified that as the result of his injury he could not remember anything that happened on the day of the accident and that he was in a state of coma at the Easton Hospital and at the Hopkins Hospital for four weeks afterwards.

The principal witness for the defendant was Raymond Warner, of Easton, who reached the scene a few minutes after the accident. He testified that the tracks made by the Spiva car showed that Mr. Spiva was over on the right hand side of the State road, with the right wheels of the Spiva car running along the dirt part of the road. He testified that there was no damage to the front of the Spiva car but that there was a deep cut in the rear of the running board on the left side of the car; that the left rear mud guard was smashed in and a deep gash cut in the tire on the left rear wheel. Warner is the Cadilac agent at Easton and took charge of the Spiva car, which was a Cadilac, after the accident. Pictures were taken of the car and were introduced by the photographer at the trial showing the blow received by Mr. Spiva's car. The tracks made by the Spiva car and the condition of the car were also testified to by Dr. Harry Fisher, Robert Coursey, Howard Price and Charles M. West and other witnessess living in and near Centreville who were on the scene soon after the accident. These witnesses also testified that the Kemp car was found after the accident lying to the right of the centre of the State road.

It was also shown that the description of the accident given by the plaintiff's witnesses at the trial in Snow Hill was entirely different from the statements made by them at the time of the accident and at the coroner's inquest held over the body of Mrs. Spiva. Warner testified that when he reached the scene of the accident he asked Kemp how it occurred and Kemp replied "I hit him, I hit him," meaning the car. Robert Coursey, the coroner, Howard Price and Charles M. West, members of the inquest, testified that at the coroner's inquest the people in the Kemp car stated that they did not see the Spiva car until the crash between the two cars occurred and that all of the plaintiff's principal witnesses stated at the time that the accident was unavoidable and that Mr. Spiva lost his wife and probably his own life in an effort to save the people in the Kemp car.

Mr. Tarr testified that as a result of the accident one of her little fingers was stiff; that she was in a nervous condition, and that her knee was injured. A number of physicians testified in the case including Dr. Harry Fisher, of Centreville, who rendered first aid and took Mr. Spiva to the Easton Hospital; Dr. Philip Travers, of Easton, who with Dr. Dandy, the surgeon of Hopkins Hospital, performed the operation on Mr. Spiva after the accident occurred.

The case was submitted to the jury after argument by Mr. Lewis, of Denton, attorney for Mrs. Tarr. The defendant's attorneys submitted the case without argument. The many friends of Mr. Spiva throughout Somerset county are deeply gratified at the result of the trial.

NO SOCIAL EQUALITY OF RACES

President Harding Says Equal Opportunity Along Separate Paths

The right of the American negro to broader political, economic and educational advantages, based on a pride of race but never on an aspiration for social equality, was championed by President Harding last Wednesday in a plainly-worded enunciation of his views on the whole American race problem.

The President's address, which took him from Washington on his first extended trip into the South since inauguration, was delivered at a semi-centennial celebration of the founding of the city of Birmingham, Alabama. It was devoted almost exclusively to the race question, although Mr. Harding also took occasion to praise the South for its industrial recovery and to renew his faith in the world leadership of a reunited nation.

These are some of the principles on which the President appealed to the nation to "lay aside old prejudices and old antagonisms" and give support to a constructive policy of racial relationship:

"Politically and economically there need be no occasion for great and permanent differentiation, provided on both sides there shall be recognition of the absolute divergence in things social and racial."

"I would say let the black man vote when he is fit to vote; prohibit the white man voting when he is unfit to vote."

"I wish that both the traditions of a solidly Democratic South and the tradition of a solidly Republican black race might be broken up."

"I would insist upon equal educational opportunity for both."

"Men of both races may well stand uncompromisingly against every suggestion of social equality. This is not a question of social equality, but a question of recognizing a fundamental, eternal, inescapable difference."

"Racial amalgamation there cannot be. Partnership of the races in developing the highest aims of all humanity there must be if humanity is to achieve the ends which we have set for it."

"The black man should seek to be, and he should be encouraged to be, the best possible black man and not the best possible imitation of a white man."

Florida Storm Damage $5,000,000

Property damage in that section of the Florida peninsula swept Tuesday and Tuesday night by the tropical hurricane is estimated at $5,000,0000 by insurance men. The damage in Tampa is estimated at between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000. The known death list last Thursday stood at five, which included two at St. Petersburg and three in Tampa and vicinity.

While there was no loss of life at Pass-a-Grille, a Gulf resort southwest of St. Petersburg, property damage at the settlement probably will amount to $50,000. The property loss at St. Petersburg was estimated at between $500,000 and $1,000,000. Six piers on the waterfront valued at $250,000 were swept away. South Florida suffered damage estimated to run well into millions of dollars by the Gulf hurricane.

Of the cities and towns within a radius of forty miles of Lakeland, that could be reached by automobile, Tampa appears to have suffered the greatest damage. The Bay Shore drive residential section from Franklin street to Fort Tampa is a panorama of destruction.

Sunset Beach, a popular resort of Tampa, was completely destroyed.

The storm appeared to concentrate its full force on Ybor City, a section of Tampa. Nearly 500 houses were wrecked in that section. All the dwellings in the Palmetto section were completely demolished.

People who think the world isn't growidg better are gently reminded that there are no more pug dogs.

"Well! I shall be able to write a book on 'The Sunny Side of Prison Life,' if I stay here!" It was Miss Brown who spoke. As she did so, she tossed a note upon the desk of her employer.

He had come into the office an hour earlier. That he was out of sorts and much depressed, was evident. His stenographer had greeted him with her usual, good-natured smile, but he had ignored her, plunging at once into the letters and telegrams.

He looked up when she spoke and reached for the paper mechanically. He had quite forgotten her existence. It was as though a chair had spoken, or the clock. She meant no more to him than the clock, or the files, or any necessary part of the office equipment.

But her words had caught his ear. What met his eye, however, was not a dissertation upon Sunshine in Prison, which he had been led to expect, but three prosaic sentences: "I can't stand the gloom. I am going for a walk. Please, please smile when I come back."

She had gone. He read these words dully, as he heard the click and hum of the elevator going down.

Meanwhile, it was good to be alone. The situation might as well be faced now and here. He began to pace the floor. He had not been sleeping for several nights; when he had managed to close his eyes, his dreams were most disturbing, tantalizing ones, that wakened him again and renewed his mental agonies. Now as he walked back and forth, his mind reverted to a line of argument that had occupied his thoughts of late.

For the one-hundredth time he convinced himself that none had ever been as ruthlessly treated by fate as he. He felt the utmost pity for John Ranhope, "one of our rising attorneys," as the Times identified him on the society page. And judging from the frequency with which his name was mentioned on this same society page, a casual reader would conclude that John was not suffering from the slightest form of social eclipse. His career seemed gay enough; but that proved nothing. The attentions of his numerous hostesses and their charming daughters had never roused more than a passing interest.

Ever since his arrival in the city, and that was two years ago, he had secretly cherished a dream—a dream of a day when he should go back to the girl of his heart in the old home town, and tell her why he had worked so relentlessly for the two years just past; that he wanted to work for her happiness all the rest of his life.

What undaunted, simple faith he had had! They were meant for each other; of this there could be no doubt. She must have realized something of the subtle bond between them.

What a hero he had counted himself, when the hour of parting had come! He had been strong enough, and square enough to leave her without confessing his love; he had asked for no assuring sign from her, no pledge of loyalty. His trust was too big for words or promises.

At last, by means of fortunate investments and through the successful handling of several important legal cases, his financial footing was secure. He was preparing to go to his dream girl and lay his most compelling arguments before her, when suddenly, in the form of a home newspaper, came an icy blast that froze all his dearest ambitions! Her engagement to Windon was announced!

He was too late!

He had been a fool! Endless regrets chased one another through the gray, cold numbness of his brain. No girl was faithful, or guessed at the meaning of the word. There was not one in the world who was true!

But each assertion fell flat, as he uttered it. He knew that in his heart he would stake his very soul upon the fineness of Ruth. She could not be false.

Windon was wealthy, distinguished, and good. Why should she not choose him? The world looked upon Windon as a great man, a man of influence.

He was older than Ruth, much older, but that was no fault of his. Ranhope recalled the fact that she had frequently just come in from a drive or a sail with Windon, on days when he had telephoned for permission to call.

Well, Windon had evidently stood the test of love. He had won.

This was the end! It was over. He swallowed hard. His hopes were palsied. What was there to work for now? It must be work for work's sake.

He heard the door open gently. Someone entered. There was a light step, the rustle of a woman's gown. She drew near. For an instant, a wild instant when the blood surged through his veins, and his heart stopped beating, he thought. . . .

Then he remembered. He looked up dazedly and brought himself back with a visible effort. He smiled, though feebly.

As his stenographer took her place, she remarked: "I hope you and your smile have come back to stay, sir."

"We have, Miss Brown," he answered colorlessly, and began dictation.

Heartless.

"I think she's heartless."

"What makes you say that?"

"She goes fishing with her husband and baits her own hook."

SAYS LITTLE BUT DOES MUCH

The clerk of the British house of commons is appointed by the prime minister with a salary of £2,000 a year. This is a much bigger salary than he received in the Eighteenth century. In those days he lived chiefly on fees and presents from members of parliament.

The clerk sits at the upper end of the table of the house, and wears a wig and gown. He has the custody of records, signs certain addresses and orders, and reads various documents in the house. He controls the staff of the house, and is responsible for many details in the management of business.

In addition, he is the speaker's principal adviser, and that is why even now speakers seldom make mistakes. He is the great authority on procedure and on all the complicated rules of the house.

This official is usually silent and unobtrusive. The exception occurs when a new speaker is elected.

His position has been described as "the highest and most important official post in the house, and one of the most respected in the civil service; its occupancy has long been a personal distinction and the recognition of eminent capacity."

BANK ACCOUNT FOR BABY

Recommended as the Surest Foundation That Can Be Laid for a Happy Future.

What are you doing for your baby's future happiness?

Have you thought of opening a bank account for your baby?

These are questions that should be given a thought by every parent, writes Cecelia Anthony in Thrift Magazine.

Many newly born babes are presented with gifts in the form of money. Why not start an account for the baby with this money and watch it grow by making regular weekly contributions, instead of using the money to buy clothes or some other articles?

The weekly deposit of $1 at 4 per cent interest for ten years will amount to $638.04; in fifteen years, $1,075.75, and in twenty years, $1,601.86. If a deposit of $3 is made regularly every week for ten years the child will have in its favor the sum of $1,914; in fifteen years the amount will be $3,227.25 and in twenty years $5,378.75.

Of course, as the child grows older he or she will save the pennies, nickels and dimes, and help toward the regular weekly deposit, which will lessen the drain on the parents' pocketbook. In time to come the child will be the sole depositor.

What Is Satisfactory Telephone Service?

TELEPHONE users want and are entitled to satisfactory telephone service. And our idea of service is something more than the completing of individual telephone messages.

Mr. H. B. Thayer, the head of the Bell System, has said: "Satisfactory telephone service means that the user shall be satisfied."

Service is dependent upon every department of the Company and each individual employee. It requires good operating at the switchboard, good engineering of equipment and facilities, good maintenance of the Company's plant, accurate accounting and unfailing courtesy toward our patrons.

These are the technical requirements of good service. But we are not satisfied to go so far and stop. Our aim is to furnish a service of such a quality that we may be certain it gives public satisfaction.

This is the spirit with which every man and woman in our organization tackles the job.

Source of Mosquito's Humming.

There is an apparatus for a long time overlooked or neglected by the investigators, at the base of the mosquito's wings, whereby the characteristic humming of that insect may be produced. The species examined is the anopheles maculipennis and the apparatus consists of a slightly movable bar provided with a series of well-marked teeth, which, as the wings are raised and lowered, rasp across a series of ridges.—Brooklyn Eagle.

The Shortest Chapter?

A London newspaper trying to find the novel with the shortest chapter concluded that the prize went to Bulwer-Lytton, in whose "What Will He Do With It?" the chapter headed "Denouement" consists of only one word "Poodle;" but an English critic has hastened to announce that the shortest chapters in existence are in Laurence Sterne's "Tristram Shandy," for in chapters 17 and 19 Sterne put nothing but dashes.

Olive Tree's Enemies.

Besides the birds, there are numerous insects which attack the fruit, the wood and the leaves of the olive tree. The most dreaded of these is a small fly called Dacus eleae, which is about half the size of a common house fly. The female has a sting like a wasp, with which she punctures the fruit where she deposits her eggs. It is calculated that a single fly will thus destroy 300 or 400 olives.

The Time to Sell.

Mr. Jones was fattening a calf for market. His little daughter, Mary, was so pleased with the new possession that she made some announcement about it on every occasion. Upon being asked what they were going to do with the calf she replied, "Father's going to sell it when it gets ripe."

FAIL TO RESPECT PROPERTY

Great Body of Americans Need Education Concerning Proper Usage of Public Places.

The mental make-up of men and women who scatter papers along the highroads, who trample down growing crops, who break down farmers' fences, and who are responsible for surrounding our woodland streams with a beadwork of tomato cans is quite easy to understand. Such people are merely primitive individualists. They have not yet advanced in civilization to a point where they can visualize the property rights of others.

There is another group of wayfarers which, though allied closely to the first, we both dislike and cannot understand. This is the group which not only scatters refuse over private lands, but also leaves a trail, which he who runs may read, over the land belonging to cities, states and the nation. A public park, whether it be but a triangle of grass at the intersection of three village streets, or a rolling meadow land set down in the heart of a great city, or a forest reserve of a hundred thousand acres of the national domain, is property to which each and every one of us has an inalienable right. To scatter trash over a bit of green in the heart of a city or to slash off the top of a pine tree in a national park is to damage part of the common land to which every citizen is heir.

We can understand how a man can disregard the rights of a neighbor, but it is not so easy to understand how a man can destroy the beauty of land which is his own and his children's. If we are to continue to build parks in our cities and set aside wildernesses for our recreation, we must also build up, in the mind and heart of every citizen, a spirit of jealousy for the beauty of these green places.

Perhaps the present generation of Americans is already past the cure, but there is another generation of citizens in the making, and, if we are wise, we will do for them what the forestry association has been doing in the city of Washington. If we catch Young America young enough, our parks of tomorrow may be as pop bottleless as the beech-shaded sward of Hampstead heath.—The Outlook.

CAN CUT DOWN FIRE LOSSES

Abundant Proof That Carelessness Is the Chief Cause of Many Disastrous Conflagrations.

The Society for Electrical Development, dissatisfied with a recent report of the National Board of Fire Underwriters in which electricity was blamed as the chief cause of fire losses, has made an exhaustive examination, taking the year 1919 as a basis. It publishes in the Electrical World the results of this investigation. The report shows that in 345 cities, with an aggregate population of 28,495,851 persons, there were 138,553 fires in 1919, of which those apparently of electric origin numbered 3,568, or 2.57 per cent of the total.

Reginald Trautschold, writer of the report, remarks that "a large proportion of electric fires, if not the majority, are caused by careless disregard of quite obviously necessary precautions, such as leaving an electric flatiron with the current turned on upon an inflammable ironing-board." Though fires resulting from such causes usually cause only trifling damage, it is easy to see how they may result in very serious conflagrations.

The House and Its Site.

Most houses should appear to have some connection with the surrounding landscape and should be built of some suitable material. Stone, brick, marble or wood may each be inappropriate to some surroundings. Have you not seen, perhaps, a white marble house situated where a brown wooden one should be built? Or white garden furniture placed on a lawn where the house was finished in tones of brown? These scattered white spots produce a very unpleasant sensation. Geography plays an important part in the color and material of a house.

Flats Supplanting Dwellings.

The single dwelling with a front and back yard is giving way, even in the smaller cities of the United States, to the modern apartment house, according to a report of 1920 building operations issued by the United States chamber of commerce. It shows that last year 70 per cent of the families provided with new homes got one-family dwellings; 11 per cent, two-family dwellings, and 19 per cent, a multi-family dwelling. The proportion of multi-family dwellings was largest in the small cities.

Good Community Work.

It was the community spirit in play as well as in work, the spelling matches and singing schools that made the life of the pioneer tolerable. The Country Life association has found the way to lead the people back to the soil in thus providing community comforts and community amusements.

THE Ford worm-driven, One-Ton Truck with demountable rims and pneumatic tires, are dependable, as well as serviceable. This, probably more than any other factor, accounts for their popularity. There is no evidence so convincing as that which comes from long practical experience. Like the Ford car, the Ford One-Ton Truck —Ford-built throughout—has proven itself. In it are combined the Ford principles of simplicity, with strength, lowest first cost, lowest operating cost, durability.

In the city, on the farm, carrying its loads between cities—everywhere you will find the Ford One-Ton Truck doing duty. Merchants, manufacturers, farmers, have come to know it as the truck of utmost service.

"Ford—A Business Utility" is a new booklet of solid facts and figures about Ford cars and the Ford One-Ton Truck in business service. Get a copy. They are free for the asking.

MORE and more every day the demand for Fordson Tractor increases because the Fordson has demonstrated so much usefulness, so much economy, so much labor saving, so much money saving, along so many lines of activity. The farmer has discovered that not only for plowing, harrowing, discing, seeding, mowing, reaping or threshing, but a multitude of other uses; cutting wood; feed; grinding feed; churning; washing; furnishing water in the house; making electric light possible in the house and around the barns, so that, as a matter of fact, there is hardly an hour in the day when the Tractor cannot be made a profitable servant. There is ditching to do; there are roads to fix; and so on all down along the line of the enormous calls that constantly face the farmer the Fordson steps in and does the work, shoulders the complete burden of the toil and the hard work, one might almost say "drudgery." There isn't any oil left to pour on the troubled waters as it takes all there is to keep our automobile bearings from squeaking.

"Harding takes hand in rail dispute" says dispatch. He should not merely take a hand, but the seats of some people's trousers.

It may be a good idea to hitch your wagon to a star, but there should be something besides thin air for the wagon to stand on.

The railroad men say the people will have to walk in case of strike but the people will do something with their feet besides walking.

It is not true that all the men are out driving automobiles at church time Sunday morning because a lot of them are in the kitchen home brewing.

The present outlook is that the nation that got licked in the war is licking the rest of us in business as the result of having no army or navy to support.

The disarmament delegates should pay a good war tax on all their cigars and other refreshments so that the horrors of war will be ever present in their minds.

The folks who lose all these liberty bonds and rolls of money out of their trunks and bureau drawers are usually the ones who do not think banks can be trusted.

After looking through the personal columns and not finding their own name there some people think the newspapers are filling their space with very unimportant stuff.

Formerly they used to erect signs at railroad crossings to warn drivers. Now the motorists expect railroad engineers to stop, look and listen to see if an automobile is coming.

The people who think an outrage is committed when their automobiles are searched for liquor have not found any fault because travelers have their trunks searched for smuggled jewelry.

The people who want their own community boomed can assist that good cause by observing Home Town Paper Week, November 7th to 12th, taking that occasion to pay their subscription to the Marylander and Herald which is working in every issue for the promotion of home town progress.

THE DEMOCRATIC TICKET

We bespeak for our candidates whose names appear at the head of this column, the earnest and hearty support of every Democrat in the county. We go further, for these men are of such high character and so well qualified to fill with honor to themselves and credit to our county the offices they seek, that we are encouraged to ask the aid of our citizens, irrespective of party, who love Somerset county, to cast their ballots for them.

If you wish to help perpetuate the principles of the Democratic party in the State of Maryland, cast your ballot for Mr. William S. Gordy, Jr., for State Comptroller, for there is no man better qualified for the place than he.

A vote for John B. Roberts for county treasurer will mean that the county's finances will be safeguarded; a vote for Hardy B. Cullen for register of wills will mean that the records of that office will be correctly kept; a vote for Frank Harrington for county commissioner will mean a business man for that office, and a vote for Charles P. Barnes for sheriff will mean that your laws shall be executed properly.

A vote for Cassius M. Dashiell, Thos. S. Dougherty and C. Gray Lawson, the legislative candidates, will insure the carrying out of the reforms promulgated by the Democratic State platform. In short—a vote for the Democratic nominees from top to bottom will help to perpetuate a government of the people, by the people and for the people of this grand old commonwealth.

PEACE WITH GERMANY

The American people are mighty glad that after three years bickering our statesmen have been able to get together and agree on some kind of a treaty with Germany. People may not be wholly satisfied with the deal, but no possible end is gained by continuing a technical state of war that exists only in dreamland.

Our folks in this country are magnanimous and forget wrongs quickly if others show reciprocal spirit. If the Germans will quit their war talk and cultivate the arts of peace they will make friends fast enough. If they still cherish ideas of dominating the world they will find that their every motion is watched and the world will be in league against them.

RAILROADING COSTS

A travelling man was telling the other day of an instance he had heard of giving an illustration of how railroad costs have mounted up.

In a little country railroad station 200 miles from any large city the agent concluded that his stove was too near the wall and he wrote to the general office asking for a piece of zinc. His idea was to tack it on himself as it seemed a perfectly simple matter.

In a short time two men came out from the office and looked the place over and measured it and went back to the city. Then later two men came out and did the job. The whole thing cost $60, whereas the agent supposed it could have been done for $2 or $3.

A great many costly practices grew up during the war and the idea of many people has apparently been to make work cost as much as possible rather than as little. Arbitrary rules and classifications have been arranged so that frequently the work can not be done in a simple way but a number of different men have to give their time to it, thus making the expense mount up.

MANUAL LABOR

It has been noted in the cities where unemployed men have resorted that many of them are not willing to take up the heavier tasks of manual labor. The man who takes that attitude gives the impression that he is not very anxious to work and the public may not have much sympathy for him. Still there are many men who have always worked indoors, who would be physically unable to work in the fields or dig in the dirt.

It is an unfortunate thing that the indoor worker loses the physical ability to do active forms of manual labor. The strong and vigorous mechanic, who, in dull times in the factories, is willing to take hold at any kind of a job has a resource that will tide him over many periods of business depression. He commands warm respect for his willingness to take hold of anything. It is exceedingly desirable that people should so far as possible retain this ability to do hard work. It keeps them young and it promotes good physical condition.

A great many office and indoor workers would be far better off if they would make more effort to perform manual tasks. Those who make it their habit to mow their own lawns, who dig in their gardens and the like, not merely save considerable expense and raise some valuable food products, but they have kept themselves from physical decay.

The business man who feels that he must turn over to some laborer the hard work about his place, may save a few minutes of his valuable day, but he is giving up the habit of physical activity that is worth more to him than the little time he has saved.

Man was made to labor with his hands in the open air. Those who entirely give up the habit drift away from the life that nature intended for them. Sooner or later they pay a penalty therefor.

Good Health

If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well, when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle.

Receipts Of Motor Vehicles Increase

A total of 9,245,195 passenger automobiles, trucks, and commercial vehicles, 28,114 trailers, and 177,234 motor cycles were registered in the 48 States and the District of Columbia during the first six months of the present year, according to the Bureau of Public Roads, United States Department of Agriculture. As a result of these registrations and the licensing of drivers, the States and District collected during that period a total gross revenue of $108,213,165. The figures show an increase of nearly $6,000,000 over the full year of 1920, when such revenues totaled $102,546,212.

"Of the 1920 registration revenues," says the bureau, "$97,671,742, or 95 per cent. was available for road work. Of the registration revenues collected during the first six months of the current year $101,793,416 is available for road work, either by the State highway departments or local road officials."

THE HARDWARE QUESTION SOLVED

Do You Need a New Cook Stove

It's a waste of time and energy to try to cook and bake with the old-fashioned cook stove—and, worse still, an actual waste of fuel. The modern kitchen stoves and ranges are marvels of efficiency, economy and convenience in comparison. They make cooking and baking easier, cheaper and more uniform.

We have them in the best makes—for small families and for large—with coal or wood grates—malleable, rust-proof and with the latest inventions and attachments.

We are always glad to show our stock and to point out the features that make ours the best.

October 30th to November 5th is "Cancer Week."

After spending a week in Pocomoke City with her sisters, Mrs. Donald Duncan and Mrs. W. E. Bounds, Miss Mildred Holland has returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Clement Wilkins Barnes, of Baltimore, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a daughter October 24th, 1921. Mrs. C. W. Barnes, before her marriage, was Miss Leila Scott, of Somerset county.

The Circuit Court for Somerset County, which adjourned October 8th, reconvened last Thursday with Judge Duer on the bench. Several cases were disposed of during the week and the petit jury discharged last Saturday, when court adjourned at noon.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Charlton Rivers, of New York and Princess Anne, announce the engagement of their daughter, Anita, to Mr. Douglas Welbourne Mapp, son of Mrs. Upshur Mapp, of Baltimore, Md., and Virginia. Wedding to take place in November.

This week will be known all over Maryland as cancer week. Its object is to bring hope and not despair, to teach people that cancer can be cured if taken in time. A cancer never starts as a cancer, but as a lump, a mole, a wart, a bruise, a small ulcer, a burn, a bleeding or a sore. If you consult your physician in time, all cancers can be cured.

This is "Cancer Week." Consult your physician in time and your cancer can be cured.

Mrs. Rush P. Marshall, of Philadelphia, is visiting her sisters, Mrs. H. Fillmore Lankford and Mrs. Joseph G. Scott.

Rev. H. E. Oldaker is conducting revival services in Perryhawkin Christian Church. They are being well attended and much interest manifested.

Mrs. Norton M. Little, Miss Doris Little and Mr. Hayward Marshall, of Washington, spent the week-end as guests of Mrs. H. Fillmore Lankford at "Beckford."

Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Holland entertained for dinner last Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Marion Duncan, Mrs. W. E. Bounds and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Duncan, all of Pocomoke City.

Messrs. Joseph G. Scott and Marshall Scott, students at the University of Maryland, spent Saturday and Sunday with their mother, Mrs. Joseph G. Scott, on Beckford avenue.

A Red Cross meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. William H. Gale tomorrow (Wednesday) afternoon, November 2nd, at 3.30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present, as the matter of making over old clothing for the children of those in distress in foreign countries will be taken up.

Baptist Church notice, by the pastor, J. A. Tumblin—Sunday School at 10 a. m.; preaching at 11 a. m. All services now held in the new church. Subject of morning message: "Baptist and the Supper of Our Lord. Are we Rightfully called, Close Communists." No night or mid-week services until lights are in.

Mr. Thomas Dunn, the oldest white man in Kent county, died at his home near Massey, Md., last Tuesday. He was 96 years old. Mr. Dunn cut wood and kept up active habits on the farm to the end. He died sitting in a chair. He leaves five sons and a daughter. He was an active worker in the Democratic party.

The Board of Election Supervisors—Messrs. Albert B. Fitzgerald, James H. Cullen and George H. Ford—met in their office in the Court House last Tuesday and made arrangements for the coming election. The ballot was made up and given to the printer. On our 8th page will be found a list of the candidates with their names as they appear on this fac-simile official ballot to be voted at the election on November 8th.

The Civic Club met last Wednesday afternoon at the home of the president, Mrs. George W. Maslin, and was well attended. The main purpose of the meeting was to arrange for a bazar to be held December 7th to raise money to pay for a memorial to the 11 soldiers from this county who lost their lives in the war. The memorial will be situated east of the State road approach to the memorial bridge in the northern part of town. The committee to solicit articles includes Mrs. H. J. Waters, Mrs. Herrman Cohn, Mrs. R. F. Duer and Mrs. Albert Krause.

Rev. Dr. Archbold and family will leave for their new home in Norfolk, Virginia, on the afternoon train this (Tuesday) afternoon. Dr. and Mrs. Archbold wish to express in this public way their appreciation of the many kindnesses received from the citizens of Princess Anne, and leave with many regrets. Owing to several reasons they were prevented from personally seeing many of their valued friends before their departure. They wish Princess Anne and her citizens much prosperity and will ever bear in mind the gracious hospitalities received, while residents, with keenest appreciation.

Last evening, October 31st, was All Saints' Night, or "All Hollowe'en." It is a survival of an old heathen festival. In ancient days people believed that they should share the fruits of the harvest with the spirits of the departed. The last of October, just at the harvest time, was chosen for this ceremony. If pleased, the spirits would help foretell the future, the people thought. Later, All Saints' Day (November 1) was adopted as a Christian holiday. The evening before has come to be celebrated with games and harvest feasts. Traces of the old beliefs still remain in the games and decorations used in our own Hallowe'en parties. Young people like to play that witches and hobgoblins are about on that night.

From several points come the assertion that the chestnut trees of the State are dying. Some years ago it was feared that a blight had gained possession of this famous nut and that a slow dying out was its ultimate fate. It is to be hoped that such a time-honored institution will escape the fate predicted, for chestnutting times in Maryland have for generations been looked forward to, especially by young people, as among the most enjoyable of the season, and it was a regular sight of the fall to see parties, large and small, from country and city, especially the latter, go forth, "lunched and well prepared," for a day's outing to seek for the fruit dropping from the trees, the search being attended by hilarious mirth, to say nothing of the incidental love-making in the lovers' lanes always found on chestnutting grounds. The country chestnut party is too dear an institution to be relinquished without a pang.—Baltimore News.

Celebrities Call On President

The three World War heroes who arrived in the United States recently, General Diaz, of Italy; Admiral Earle Beatty, of Great Britain, and Lieutenant-General Baron Jacques, of Belgium, formally paid their respects last Tuesday to President Harding and other high officials of the government.

Accompanied by a cavalry escort, each of the three called at the White House and, after being formally received by the President, made visits of courtesy to Secretary of State Hughes, Secretary of War Weeks and Secretary of the Navy Denby.

Later they were luncheon guests of President Harding and Mrs. Harding.

Before they began their round of calls, each of the three distinguished officers visited the Embassy of his country. In calling at the White House, Admiral Beatty was accompanied by Sir Auckland Geddes, the British Ambassador; General Jacques by Baron de Cartier, of Belgium, and General Diaz by the Italian Charge.

How Not To Take Cold

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over-heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.

RAILROAD PLAN TO GET RATES DOWN

Propose to Reduce Wages and Return All the Saving by Reduction in Charges.

FULL TEXT OF THE PROPOSAL

Statement by Thomas de Witt Cuyler, Chairman of the Association of Railway Executives on the Situation.

Following a meeting in Chicago, October 14, 1921, of the presidents of nearly all the leading railroads in the country, Mr. Thomas De Witt Cuyler, Chairman of the Association of Railway Executives, made the following statement:

At a meeting of the Association of Railway Executives today, it was determined by the railroads of the United States, to seek to bring about a reduction in rates, and as a means to that end to seek a reduction in present railroad wages which have compelled maintenance of the present rates.

An application will be made immediately to the United States Railroad Labor Board for a reduction in wages of train service employees sufficient to remove the remainder of the increases made by the Labor Board's decision of July 20, 1920 (which would involve a further reduction of approximately ten per cent), and for a reduction in the wages of all other classes of railroad labor to the going rate for such labor in several territories where the carriers operate.

To Reduce Rates as Wages Go Down

The foregoing action is upon the understanding that concurrently with such reduction in wages the benefit of the reduction thus obtained shall, with the concurrence of the Interstate Commerce Commission, be passed on to the public in the reduction of existing railroad rates, except in so far as this reduction shall have been made in the meantime.

The managements have decided upon this course in view of their realization of the fact that the wheels of industrial activity have been closed down to a point which brings depression and distress to the entire public, and that something must be done to start them again in operation.

The situation which confronts the railroads is extremely critical. The railroads in 1920 realized a net railway operating income of about $62,000,000, upon a property investment of over $19,000,000,000, and even this amount of 62 million included back mail pay for prior years received from the government of approximately $64,000,000, thus showing, when the operations of that year alone are considered, an actual deficit before making any allowance for either interest or dividends.

The year ended in serious depression in all branches of industry, and in marked reduction of the market demand for and the prices of basic commodities, resulting in a very serious falling off in the volume of traffic.

Roads Forced to Defer Maintenance

In this situation, a policy of the most rigid economy and of postponing and cutting to the bone the upkeep of the properties was adopted by the railroads. This was at the price of neglecting and for the time deferring work which must hereafter and in the near future be done and paid for. This is illustrated by the fact that, as of September 15, 1921, over 16 per cent or 374,431 in number, of the freight cars of the carriers were in bad order and needing repairs, as against a normal of bad order cars of not more than 160,000, as is further illustrated by the deferred and inadequate maintenance of other equipment and of roadway and structures.

Even under those conditions, and with this large bill charged up against the future,—which must soon be provided for and paid if the carriers are to perform successfully their transportation duties,—the result of operations for the first eight months of this year, the latest available figures, has been at a rate of net railway operating income, before providing for interest or dividends, amounting to only 2.6 per cent, per annum on the valuation of the carrier properties made by the Interstate Commerce Commission in the recent rate case, an amount not sufficient to pay the interest on their outstanding bonds.

Roads' Earnings Far Below Reasonable Returns

It is manifest, from this showing, that the rate of return of 5½ or 6 per cent for the first two years after March 1, 1920, fixed in the Transportation Act as a minimum reasonable return upon railroad investment, has not been even approximated—much less reached; and that the present high rates accordingly are not due to any statutory guarantee of earnings, for there is no such guarantee.

In analyzing the expenses which have largely brought about this situation, it becomes evident that by far the largest contributing cause is the labor cost.

Today the railroads pay out to labor approximately 60c on the dollar they receive for transportation services, whereas in 1916, 40c on the dollar went to labor.

On the first day of January, 1917, when the government took charge of wages through the Adamson Act, the labor cost of the railroads had not exceeded the sum of about $1,468,000,000 annually. In 1920, when governmental authority made the last wage increase, the labor cost of the railroads was about $3,696,000,000 annually, or, if continued throughout the year instead of for the eight months during which the wage increases were in effect, the labor cost, on an annual basis, would have been largely in excess of $3,900,000,000—an increase, since the government took charge of railroad wages in the Adamson Act, of approximately $2,450,000,000 annually.

In the light of these figures, it is manifest that the recent reduction of wages authorized by the Labor Board, estimated at from 10 to 12 per cent in no sense meets or solves the problem of labor costs and in no way makes it possible for the railroads to afford a reduction in their revenues.

Thousands of Rates Already Reduced

Indeed, during the past year there have been between four and five thousand individual reductions in freight rates. On some railroads the reductions in rates have amounted to more than the reductions in wages so far made, and on many other railroads the reductions in wages allowed no net return on operations, but merely provided against the further accumulation of a deficit.

The point is often made that agriculture and other industries are also suffering the same immediate difficulties as the railroads, why, therefore, do not the railroads take their medicine like anybody else? The answer lies in several facts:

1. The railroads were not permitted, as were other industries, to make charges during the years of prosperity, making possible the accumulation of a surplus to tide them over the present extreme adversity. According to the reports of the Interstate Commerce Commission, the rate of return on property investment of the railroads of the United States for the past several years has been as follows:

RATE OF RETURN EARNED BY RAILROADS OF THE UNITED STATES ON THEIR PROPERTY INVESTMENT.

1913	5.15%
1914	4.17%
1915	4.20%
1916 (fiscal year)	5.90%
1916 (calendar year)	6.16%
1917	5.26%
1918	3.51%
1919	2.46%
1920	0.32%

It will thus be noted that during the years when other industries were making very large profits, when the prices of farm products and the wages of labor were soaring to unheard-of heights, the earnings upon railroad investment in the United States were held within very narrow limits and that they have during the past four years progressively declined.

Roads Handicapped More Than Other Business

2. The railroads are responsible to the public for providing adequate transportation. Their charges are limited by public authority, and they are in very large respects (notably for labor) compelled to spend money on a basis fixed by public authority. The margin within which they are permitted to earn a return upon their investment or to offer inducements to attract new capital for extensions and betterments is extremely limited. However much the railroads might desire, therefore, to reduce their charges in times of depression, it will be perceived that the limitations surrounding their action do not permit them to give effect to broad and elastic policies which might very properly govern other lines of business not thus restricted.

It has been urged upon the railroads that a reduction in rates will stimulate traffic and that increased traffic will protect the carriers from the loss incident to a reduction in rates. The railroad managements cannot disguise from themselves that this suggestion is merely conjectural and that an adverse result of the experiment would be disastrous not only to the railroads, but to the public, whose supreme need is adequate transportation. Consequently the railroad managements cannot feel justified in placing these instrumentalities, so essential to the public welfare, at the hazard of such an experiment based solely upon such a conjecture.

Farmers Especially Need Lower Rates

It is evident, however, that existing transportation charges bear in many cases a disproportionate relationship to the prices at which commodities can be sold in the market and that existing labor and other costs of transportation thus imposed upon industry and agriculture generally a burden greater than they should bear. This is especially true of agriculture. The railroad managements are feeling sensitive to and sympathetic with the distressing situation and desire to do everything to assist in relieving it that is compatible with their duty to furnish the transportation which the public must have.

At the moment railroads in many cases are paying 40c. and hour for unskilled labor when similar labor is working alongside the railroads and can easily be obtained by them at 20c. an hour. The railroads of the country paid in 1920 a total of considerably over $1,300,000,000 to unskilled labor alone. However desirable it may be to pay this or that schedule of wages, it is obvious that it cannot be paid out of railroad earnings unless the industries which use the railroads are capable of meeting such charges.

The railroads, and through them the people generally, are also hampered in their efforts to economize by a schedule of working rules and conditions now in force as a heritage from the period of Federal control and upheld by the Railroad Labor Board. These conditions are expensive, uneconomic and unnecessary from the point of view of railroad operation and extremely burdensome upon the public which pays the bill. This schedule of wages and of working conditions prevents the railroads from dealing equitably with their labor costs in accordance with rapidly changing conditions and the great variety of local considerations which ought to control wages in different parts of the country. The railroads are seeking to have these rules and working conditions abrogated.

The railroads will seek a reduction in wages now proposed by first requesting the sanction of the Railroad Labor Board. The railroads will proceed with all possible dispatch, and as soon as the Railroad Labor Board shall have given its assent to the reduction of wages the general reduction in rates will be put into effect.

Wellington's Census Return.

Although old census papers are supposed to be destroyed after the necessary data have been obtained and the reports finished, a fortunate English collector still possesses a paper filled out by the duke of Wellington for the census of 1851. To the question, Any deaf or dumb in household? he replied, I am deaf, and to the question, Where born? he replied, Born in Ireland—believe in Athy. The Iron Duke was wrong as to his birthplace, however, for records show that he was actually born in Upper Merrion street, Dublin.—The Living Age.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Medicine fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

Indigestion

Many persons, otherwise vigorous and healthy, are bothered occasionally with indigestion. The effects of a disordered stomach on the system are dangerous, and prompt treatment of indigestion is important. "The only medicine I have needed has been something to aid digestion and clean the liver," writes Mr. Fred Ashby, a McKinney, Texas, farmer. "My medicine is for indigestion and stomach trouble of any kind. I have never found anything that touches the spot, like Black-Draught. I take it in broken doses after meals. For a long time I tried pills, which griped and didn't give the good results. Black-Draught liver medicine is easy to take, easy to keep, inexpensive."

LEGION IN LOAN BUSINESS

Fargo, N. D. Post Adjutant Works Out Plan for the Benefit of His Buddies.

The first instance in which the American Legion has gone into the trust, savings and loan business is reported from Fargo, N. D.

To encourage thrift and to help the needy, the post, on January 1, 1921, instituted an American Legion Bonus Loan association from plans worked out by Arthur F. Collar, post adjutant. Four hundred of the post's 700 members already have deposited sums from $5 to $25 on which five per cent interest is paid. A Legion man wishing to borrow assigns his state compensation claim to the Legion—it will require eight years for North Dakota to pay all service men the bonus awarded them. The borrower may obtain up to 50 per cent of the amount to be awarded him by the state. He pays interest at 8 per cent.

Business is transacted through a Fargo bank. To date more than fifty loans have been made and more than $20,000 has been paid into the savings fund. A dividend is paid semi-annually to depositors. Immediately upon being granted a loan, the person to whom it is made must open a savings account to insure proper expenditure of the money. Legion posts in many states have written the Fargo post for information upon which to base a similar system.

THINK HE WILL BE GOVERNOR

People of Washington State See Bright Future for Their Soldier Lieutenant-Governor.

"He's just naturally lucky," the people of Washington say of William Jennings Coyle, their lieutenant-governor, who they claim, is the youngest man in the world holding that office.

Coyle has been a "natural athlete" since kindergarten days. For four years he was Gil Dobie's quarterback on the famous University of Washington team. He pitched and fielded for the varsity baseball team and he was a star hurdler. Following graduation he was a reading clerk in three sessions of the Washington legislature.

During the war, he claims, his luck held. He was promoted from second lieutenant to captain for bravery, was wounded in the Argonne while serving with the 363d Infantry, and was awarded a Distinguished Service Cross for gallantry. He is 33 years old, the father of two girls and sells farm tractors when not occupied with his official duties as lieutenant-governor. The people of Washington declare he will be lucky enough to be the youngest governor in the United States after next election.

PROBLEMS OF THE NAVY MEN

Conference of Legion Committee to Devise Ways for Benefit of Members of Branch.

Problems of the navy men who are members of the American Legion and policies affecting naval ex-service men generally will be discussed at a conference of the naval affairs committee of the Legion in Chicago this fall. The meeting has been called by Edward E. Spafford, New York, chairman of the committee, who will announce the date of the conference later.

"The fact that there were eight times as many men in the army as there were in the navy during the World war has tended to minimize the needs of the navy ex-service men," Mr. Spafford declared in announcing the conference. "Few persons know of the high percentage of tubercular cases developed by men in the subchaser and submarine service, for instance."

The members of the committee, besides Mr. Spafford, are: Benjamin Briscoe, Michigan; Philander Briscoe, Maryland; Claudius G. Pendill, Wisconsin; Fred A. Tillman, California, and C. W. Neville, Jr., Louisiana. The members ranged in rank from lieutenant commander to petty officer.

LEGION MAN HOLDS RECORD

Former Lumber Jack Who Put College Professors to Flight in Intelligence Test.

Positions as instructor in philosophy, bacteriology and English have been offered by several large universities of the west to Michael J. Nolan, Seattle Wash., before the war a lumberjack, during it a sapper in the Royal Engineers and after it a patient in army hospitals for 49 weary weeks.

Shortly after America opened hostilities with Germany, Nolan, 88 years old, tried to enlist. He was refused enlistment because of his age, but he went to Canada and took on with the Dominion forces. Following severe service in France, he was invalided to a hospital at Folkestone, England, where he suffered from shellshock, influenza and jaundice all at the same time. He was held there for almost a year.

When he reached Seattle in 1919 he was so weak that he could not lift his hand to shave himself. He entered the University of Washington for vocational education in December 1919.

Nolan's remarkable accomplishments in collegiate intelligence tests have been announced to the country. Competing with four professors, he answered without error 60 questions in 92 seconds while the brightest of the professors answered but 54 in 30 minutes. Due to his ability, Nolan is finishing a four year complete course in 18 months.

SEVERAL JOBS AS CHAPLAIN

Toledo (O.) Divine Is Much in Demand With Veterans' and Other Organizations.

Chaplain for six different organizations, Rev. H. F. MacLane, Toledo, O., is a dangerous contender for the champion "sky pilot" belt.

Every time another organization elects him chaplain, he says he feels like Bob Fitzsimmons, the former world's heavyweight, who, after receiving a telegram announcing the birth of a son, cried: "Hooray, I'm another father!"

Chaplain MacLane was wounded while "sky piloting" the Thirty-seventh division in the Meuse-Argonne offensive. Returning to Toledo after the war he joined the Harry E. Kern post of the American Legion and they at once elected him chaplain. He also is chaplain of the Lucas County (Ohio) council of the Legion and of the following other organizations: Soldiers' class of the Toledo Scottish Rite; Thirty-seventh Division Veterans' association; Second regiment, Ohio National Guard, and Toledo chapter, Disabled Veterans of the World War.

SHE'S DRY LAND SAILOR ACE

Michigan Girl Prize Winner in Canoe Carnival Served as Yeoman F, First Class.

The standing joke that the war-time Yeomanette could not tell the difference between a schooner and a scow loses its tang when one considers Miss Ethelyn Meter, a so-called dry-land sailor, who won a prize in the recent canoe carnival at Belle Isle, Detroit, Mich.

Miss Meter of Benton Harbor served as a yeoman F, first class in the bureau of navigation at Washington, where she knew all about salt water craft, at least from the pictures and records. It may have been there that she learned the fine points of driving the rocky skiffs through the water fast enough to shame the best of the gobs who competed against her in the water carnival.

"I believe that a girl can paddle her own canoe, too, literally and figuratively," Miss Meter says. She was one of the organizers of the Benton Harbor post of the American Legion and in the race the Legion colors flew from her winning craft.

To Honor General Ward.

Americans in China will make pilgrimages to the grave of Gen. Frederick Ward, the American, on Memorial day hereafter, the custom being instituted this year by the American Legion post of Shanghai. While the Civil war was being fought in America, General Ward, under commission of the Chinese government, organized what afterwards was known to the Chinese as the "Ever Victorious Army" and suppressed the great Taiping rebellion. While directing his attack on the town of Tsz Ki, the American, formerly an officer on a Chinese gunboat, was killed at the head of his troops. The Chinese erected a monument to him at Sungkiang, where he fell.

FEEBLE BLOOD WORKS HAVOC

Gude's Pepto-Mangan Makes Red Blood; Liquid and Tablet Form

When blood becomes thin and weak it is due to a falling off in the number of red blood cells. It is easily recognized by pallid skin or a blemished complexion, loss of appetite or unnatural irritability and a sensation of weakness. It is not dangerous at first. In fact, many people scarcely notice it and go on for days, thinking they will be better the next day.

The great danger is in the possibility of becoming seriously ill from disease, which can work havoc in a body that lacks the endurance and resistance in rich, red blood.

Taken in time and steadily, a few bottles of Gude's Pepto-Mangan are a great help. It improves the quality of the blood by adding red blood cells. They check the weakness, improve the appetite, and clear the complexion.

You can get Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid and tablet form at your druggist's. Get the genuine with the uame "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" on the package.—Advertisement.

Many "Treasure Islands."

A large number of islands in various parts of the world have had the reputation of holding buried treasure. Stevenson's "Treasure Island" had no foundation in fact, but is stated to be the real result of his reading of stories by Defoe, Washington Irving and Poe, also Johnson's "Lives of Pirates and Highwaymen," supplemented by his own experience on sailing ships. Stevenson himself said that the germ of the story was the map drawn for the wall of his stepson's playroom.

To Make Parchment Paper.

Paper can be made to look like parchment by the following simple process. To three or four parts of water add one part of sulphuric acid—add the acid to the water, never pour water into acid; immerse the paper for a few seconds in this solution, and then wash it in weak ammonia.

Deal's Island

Oct. 29—Mr. and Mrs. F. T. Webster have returned home after spending a week in Baltimore.

Mrs. Spurgeon Webster and Mrs. John Bennett are attending the State Council of the Daughters of Liberty in Baltimore.

Mrs. T. P. Bradshaw, who has been visiting relatives in Baltimore and Washington, D. C., returned home Sunday morning.

Many of our boatmen left Monday for Baltimore. From there they go to take charge of their boats, which will soon begin work in the bay.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Webster and their two sons motored here from Baltimore on October 27th. They intend to spend a few days with their parents.

Mr. E. Browne Webster, a prominent merchant of Deal's Island, has been visiting friends and relatives in Baltimore and Washington for the past week.

Our bridge, which has been under reconstruction, is now finished. Since its completion there has been a surprising amount of traffic to pass to and fro.

The Misses M. Elizabeth Anderson, Doris E. Duffy, Addie W. Bradshaw, Sadye C. Webster and L. Elizabeth Brown, of Deal's Island High School, and Miss Edna Anderson, of Wenona grammar school, attended a teachers' meeting in Princess Anne on Saturday, October 22nd.

LAME EVERY MORNING

A Bad Back is Generally Worse in Morning. Princess Anne People Are Finding Relief

A back that aches all day and causes discomfort at night is usually worse in the morning. Makes you feel as if you hadn't slept at all.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for weakened or disordered kidneys—been gratefully recommended by thousands. Ask your neighbor!

Harry E. Muir, Upper Fairmount, Md., says: "I can certainly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills as a remedy of merit. My kidneys were weak and a source of annoyance for some time. I often had severe soreness and a dull aching across the small of my back. Mornings, especially, I felt lame and the action of my kidneys was irregular. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and in a few days I was free from the aches and pains and my kidneys didn't trouble me any longer."

Oct. 29—Mrs. Thomas Howard, of Worcester county, is spending some time at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Durant West.

Quite a number of people met at the home of Mr. W. A. Riggin Thursday evening of last week to organize a literary society. Mr. B. T. Dykes was made chairman for the evening. Officers were elected as follows: President, Mr. W. A. Riggin; vice-president, Mrs. J. T. Spencer; secretary, Mrs. Bowland; treasurer, Mr. Honeywell; program committee, Mrs. J. T. Spencer. Miss Geneva Wilson, Miss Annie Bowers and Messrs. Bowland and B. T. Dykes. The society will meet at the school house at Whitesburg Thursday evening of each week.

A Timely Suggestion

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.

GAME SEASON OPENS THURSDAY

Unlawful To Hunt Without License And Arm Tag

The season on upland game opens on Thursday, November 10th, and continues until January 1st inclusive. This includes partridge or quail, native pheasant, woodcock, rabbit, wild turkey and squirrel. The open season on doves is September 1st to December 15th; railbirds, September 1st to November 30th; reed birds, September 1st to October 30th; wild fowl, including ducks, geese, brant, jacksnipe and crowbill, November 1st to January 31st; muskrat and otter, January 1st to March 15th.

It is unlawful to kill more than 12 partridge, 2 grouse, 50 rail, 25 doves, 6 woodcock, 10 rabbits, 10 squirrels, 25 jacksnipe, 25 ducks, geese and brant, 15 yellowlegs, 5 black-breasted plover and 10 crowbills. Bag limit on wild turkey 4 in one season. These bag limits are State-wide with the exception of Harford county.

It is unlawful to export any game except wild fowl from the State of Maryland. However, licensed sportsmen may carry out in open view of the public one day's bag limit.

It is unlawful to shoot wild fowl from a power boat at any time; also to hunt or kill game on Sunday. It is unlawful to kill female Chinese ringnecked pheasants at any time or in any manner. It is unlawful to sell, offer for sale, purchase or offer to purchase any bobwhite partridge or quail, Chinese ringnecked pheasant, ruffed grouse or wild turkey.

The laws of this State require every person who hunts game to first procure a hunter's license and have same in possession while hunting; also to display on the left arm between elbow and shoulder an arm tag. Landowners, their tenants or children are not required to purchase a license to hunt on land which they own or tenant. Guests of landowners must have a license.

It is unlawful to trespass on any property without permission. Therefore, hunter's should secure permission from the owner or tenant before trespassing. The fine for this violation is $15.00.

Death Of Captain John T. Taylor

Capt. John Thomas Taylor, aged 91 years, one of the oldest and most highly respected citizens of Salisbury, died at his home in that city on Friday night, the 28th ulto., his death being due to the infirmities of old age. Born on April 4, 1830, near Upper Ferry, on the Wicomico river, in what was then Somerset county, Capt. Taylor started following the water when very young and soon became master of a vessel. The farm on which he was born adjoined that on which Samuel Chase, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, was born and raised. Capt. T. W. H. White, another Wicomico county pioneer, was also a neighbor.

Capt. Taylor is survived by the following children: Misses Virginia and Victoria Taylor, Mrs. C. L. Dickerson, of Salisbury; J. Thomas Taylor, Jr., Princess Anne, and Benjamin W. Taylor, of Washington, D. C. Funeral services, which were largely attended, were held from his late home Sunday afternoon at three o'clock, the Rev. R. L. Shipley officiating. Interment was in Parsons Cemetery, Salisbury.

Capt. Taylor sailed on vessels of the old merchants of Salisbury, with some of whom he had a partnership, his contracts taking him to Spain and other foreign ports. Among the noted shippers of grain and lumber in Wicomico county in those days were Wm. Freeney, J. D. Williams, Humphrey Humphreys and others. After retiring as a sailor 30 years ago he became head of the lumber yards of Humphreys & Tilghman and for the last years of his life was with L. E. Williams & Co, He was noted for his accuracy and quickness in the measuring of lumber. His memory up to the time of his death was remarkable and he could recall the names of most of the ships which went in and out of this port during his boyhood. He was of a charitable disposition and did many acts of kindness in a quiet way, and was a member of Bethesda M. P. Church.

October Weather

The weather report for the month of October as compiled by Mr. James R. Stewart, cooperative observer of Princess Anne, follows:

Maximum temperature, 80 degrees on the 11th; minimum temperature, 31 degrees on the 14th and 22nd; total precipitation, 1.28 inches. Clear days, 15; partly cloudy, 11; cloudy, 5. Light frost on the 15th; killing frosts on the 14th and 22nd; thunder storm on the 3rd; fog on the 18th, 19th, 29th and 30th. The prevailing wind was northwest.

Mr. Robert Colborn, who has been employed in the drug store of Jones & Colborn for the past year or more, left last Saturday for Baltimore, where he will be employed during the day and attend school at night.

EDWARD T. MILLIGAN KILLED

Sand Pit Where He Was Working Caved In Breaking His Neck

Mr. Edward T. Milligan, who resided on the C. C. Gelder farm, on the Manokin river, near Princess Anne, was instantly killed by a cave-in in a sand pit last Tuesday morning.

Mr. Milligan was loading sand in a wagon and was working in a sand pit on the farm of Robert L. Curtis, near Princess Anne. The side of the pit where he was working caved in, burying him almost completely and breaking his neck. He was working alone and it is not known just when the accident occurred, but life was extinct when his body was discovered about 10 o'clock.

Mr. Milligan was born in Fairmount district and was 36 years of age. He was the son of the late Edward Milligan, who died about 10 years ago, and Mrs. Lilly Milligan, of Princess Anne. Mr. Milligan's first wife was a Miss Hall, of Fairmount, who died several years ago, leaving one daughter, Elma Milligan. His second wife was Miss Jennie Matthews, of Pocomoke City, who survives her husband with two children (Ruth Milligan and Edward Milligan, Jr.,) aged 8 and 5 years. He is also survived by three sisters (Mrs. Howard Doyle, of Camden, N. J.; Mrs. Lillian Englessbee, of Baltimore, and Mrs. Percy Dryden, of Princess Anne,) and four brothers (Messrs. Herman Milligan, of Camden, N. J.; Howard Milligan, of Texas; Mark Milligan, in the Fiji Islands, and Maurice Milligan, of Princess Anne).

Funeral services were held at his late home on Friday afternoon conducted by the Rev. W. F. Dawson. Interment was in the Manokin Presbyterian Church cemetery. The pallbearers were Messrs. Harry Hickman, Howard Dahl, Maurice Milligan, Woody Muir, Percy Dryden and Edward Muir.

Among those who attended the funeral from out of town were Mrs. Dr. Damish, Mrs. Fred Hamlin, Mr. and Mrs. George Swan, of Georgetown, Del.; Mr. Wallace Matthews, of Carlyle, Pa.; Messrs. Howard Hickman and Edward Muir, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Matthews, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Merrill, Mr. and Mrs. Len Parks, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Holland and Mr. Russell Matthews, all of Pocomoke City.

No Money For School Books

At a recent meeting of the Parent-Teachers' Association of Princess Anne it was reported that no money had been appropriated for the coming year by the County Commissioners for books and that the parents of pupils in the high schools were being asked to purchase the books needed.

In order to avoid this condition in the future it was decided that a committee of taxpayers be appointed to bring the matter to the attention of the County Board of Education, the County Commissioners and the public, with the request that ample provision for books be made in the future.

It was pointed out that it was impossible for pupils to continue their work and derive the full benefit from their course without books and other materials necessary for instruction. It is hoped by the association that the public will interest themselves in the matter so that this condition may not recur.

Mr. Roberts' Emphatic Denial

I desire to deny most emphatically the statement contained in the political advertisement published by the Republican State Central Committee in the Crisfield Times last Saturday that I am a candidate for the office of County Treasurer for the purpose, if elected, of transferring the county deposits from the People's Bank to the Bank of Somerset. The statement is utterly false and malicious.

The People's Bank is a splendid institution and for many years I have considered its cashier, Mr. Croswell, one of my very closest personal friends in Somerset county. I count upon our friendship sufficiently to feel assured that Mr. Croswell and the other officers of the bank will resent this miserable effort to make a fine institution like the People's Bank an adjunct of the discredited Republican State Central Committee for Somerset county.

JOHN B. ROBERTS

Daniel D. Bozman Dead

Mr. Daniel D. Bozman, judge of the Orphans' Court for Somerset county, died at his home in Dames Quarter last Friday afternoon, aged 65 years.

For many years Mr. Bozman was a bay captain and was engaged in the oyster industry. In politics he was a Republican and took an active interest in his party for over 40 years.

Captain Bozman is survived by his widow and three sons, James D. and William E. Bozman, of Baltimore, and J. E. Bozman, of Philadelphia, Pa.

Photoplays This Week

"Straight is the Way," the new Paramount-Cosmopolitan picture which will be the feature at the Auditorium Tuesday night is said to be a splendid photoplay. Crooks and spooks are the big features of this thrilling, mystic and highly relishable comedy drama. In the cast are Matt Moore, Mabel Bert, Gladys Leslie, George Parsons, Henry Sedley, Van Dyke Brooke, Emily Fitzroy and Peggy Parr.

"The Price of Possession," which will be shown at the Auditorium Thursday night is the first Paramount picture Ethel Clayton made in the East since 1917. Heretofore Miss Clayton's work has been done in California. Her latest vehicle is a thrilling picture. Rockcliffe Fellows is her leading man, who is supported by Maude Turner Gordon, Reginald Denny, Clarence Heritage, George Backus, Isabel West and Pearl Shepard.

Eddie Polo, the star of Universal's newest serial, "Do or Die," which began its run at the Auditorium last Saturday night, is one of the most noted acrobats in the world. He holds many medals for performing before royalty. Although he has given up circus work, he continues to perform, for the screen, the death-defying stunts which made him famous. Many of these are to be seen in "Do or Die."

Where Is John W. Egan?

John W. Egan, farmer, has been missing from his home at Villa Nova, Pa., since Monday afternoon, October 17th. He left home to go to Quakertown, Pa., to make certain farm purchases and has not been seen since.

Mr. Egan is 40 years of age, married, is five feet ten and a half inches tall, weighs 150 pounds, has dark brown hair, short worn teeth, hazel blue eyes, wore a dark gray suit with service ribbon in coat lapel and a brown felt hat when last seen.

He is an ex-soldier, having served with the Canadian army during the war and is a Canadian subject. Will anyone seeing a man of the above description kindly advise his home at Villa Nova, Pa., either by letter, telephone or telegraph. Telephone number, Bryn Mawr 890-W.

STATE TEACHERS TO MEET

Sessions To Be Held In Baltimore November 25th And 26th

The State Teachers' Association will meet on Friday and Saturday, November 25th and 26th, in Baltimore city. The opening session will be held at 1.30 p. m. Friday, November 25th, in the auditorium of the Western High School, Lafayette and McCullough streets. Mayor William F. Broening, of Baltimore city, will deliver the address of welcome at this session, and response will be made by one of the teachers.

The evening session will begin at 7.30 p. m., at which time Governor Albert C. Ritchie, Prof. Albert S. Cook, State superintendent of schools, and Dr. Elbert K. Fretwell, Teachers' College, Columbia University, will deliver the principal addresses. These addresses will be followed by music by the Baltimore City Orchestra under the direction of Prof. John Denues.

The general meeting on Saturday morning will be addressed by Miss Lida Lee Tall, principal of the Maryland State Normal School; Dr. P. P. Claxton, former commissioner of education, and a good speaker on rural education. This will be followed by a business meeting, at which time the new constitution will be presented for adoption by the Maryland State Teachers' Association.

All departmental meetings will be held from 2.30 o'clock on, Friday afternoon, November 25th. Prof. Cook's new State educational program will be discussed at one of the general meetings.

All teachers throughout the State should attend. Teachers are urged to join the State Teachers' Association, as it will be of great help to them professionally. Dr. R. Berryman says that 1,000 teachers have enrolled from Baltimore city and the association hopes to have at least 2,000 teachers enrolled from the counties of the State.

Bishop's Memory Is Paid Honor

The memorial services to the late Rt. Rev. William Forbes Adams, the second bishop of the Diocese of Easton, Protestant Episcopal Church, were held in Trinity Cathedral, Easton, last Friday, Bishop George W. Davenport being in charge of the services. Bishop John G. Murray, of Baltimore, bishop of the Diocese of Maryland, preached the memorial sermon at 11 o'clock. There were in attendance the ministers from nearly every parish in the diocese, who took part in the services. The Cathedral was filled to overflowing by the friends of the deceased Bishop, who had endeared himself in their hearts and life during the time he was bishop of the diocese, from 1867 until his death in March, 1920.

The monument is about 12 feet high. The base on top of the cap upon which the large cross stands is 12 inches square. The marble cross on top of the base is 3 feet, 5 inches high. Each of the four sides of the stone bear suitable inscriptions.

On the right side of the stone is a carved crook or staff, the insigna of the bishop's office, beneath which are these words: "A faithful and true friend, a wise counselor, a loyal bishop in the Church of Christ." At the top on the opposite side is carved two crossed keys.

Blankets To Be Made From Wool

A number of the sheep growers of this county have shipped several thousand pounds of wool to be made into blankets and auto robes. The blankets are 72x84 inches, will weigh about five pounds and are made in various colors.

A large number of blankets were sold last winter and the purchasers were very much pleased with the quality of the blankets. Orders are now being received by County Agent C. Z. Keller for these blankets and robes.

REPUBLICANISM AND THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Schools May Close In January—No Funds To Buy Fuel—Appropriations For Roads And Ditches Cut Short—County Commissioners and the Almshouse

The Candidates on the Democratic Ticket respectfully solicit your votes at the election on Tuesday and request you to read the following article, which will show how Somerset county affairs are being conducted under the management of the Republican party.

The government of Somerset county was in the hands of the Democratic party from 1902 to 1915, but in the campaign of 1915 the Republicans made a special effort to elect their candidate for County Commissioner, George A. Somers, of St. Peter's district, for the reason that his election that year would place control of county affairs in the hands of the Republican party. In behalf of Somers' candidacy the Republicans published in the county papers a series of political advertisements attacking the record of the Democratic party and promising that with the election of Somers the county tax rate would be greatly reduced; that great economies would be practiced in the conduct of county affairs and great reforms and permanent benefits would be conferred through a new system of management of the county government.

Somers was elected in 1915 and since then the Republicans have been in complete charge of the affairs of Somerset county. Somers has been president of the Board of County Commissioners for the past two years and there is submitted herewith a record and statement of the policies instituted by the Republicans in Somerset county:

Year	Taxable Basis	Tax Rate	Amount Levied for Co'ty Expe'ses
1915	$7,181,016	$1.12	$ 99,947.03
1921	$9,402,316	$1.47	$148,031.96

The above table shows that the taxable basis of Somerset county on real and personal property alone was increased by the new assessment made in 1918 $2,284,306, which does not take into account the great increase during the same period in the value of intangible personal property, such as stocks, bonds, shares of bank stock and business corporations, all of which are subject to county taxation; that the county tax rate is 35 cents on the $100 more than it was in 1915, and that the expenses of the county have increased 50 per cent., soaring to the enormous sum of nearly $150,000.

Now how is this enormous sum of money being spent? What benefits or improvements are being conferred upon the people of the county by the Republican Board of County Commissioners? Here is the record.

In May, 1921, the Democratic Board of Education submitted to the County Commissioners the school budget for the current year that made provision for a wise and liberal administration of the public school system of the county. The Board of Education, knowing in advance of the hostility of the County Commissioners, cut out of the budget every appropriation that could possibly be dispensed with. The Republican Board of County Commissioners cut and slashed the school budget with the result that the whole school system is crippled in almost every way. The sum of $2000 was cut off of the appropriation for fuel, making it highly probable that the schools will have to close down in January for the winter months. The sum of $800 was cut out of the arpropriation for text books with the result that there is a shortage of school books in the county. The small appropriations of $250 for Field Day and $150 for diplomas were also cut out of the budget so that the school children will not have their annual athletic contest this year and the graduates of the High Schools in the county will have to pay for their diplomas, a requirement heretofore unknown under the free public school system of Maryland. The amount asked for insurance was so greatly reduced that there will not be sufficient funds to meet the renewal of premiums on the fire insurance policies on the school buildings falling due this year, and the sum of $4,850 asked for to improve the physical condition of dilapidated school buildings was also cut out of the budget.

It is furthermore a well known fact that one member of the Board of County Commissioners has stated he was in favor of reducing the appropriation for salaries for the white school teachers of the county from $65,000 to $35,000.

There is herewith presented the miserable policy of the Republican Board of County Commissioners towards the public schools of the county. It is an utterly false and ruinous policy. It was deliberately adopted in order to enable the Republicans to say to the voters this fall that the County Commissioners had lopped a few cents off of the county tax rate. Playing politics at the expense of the school children of Somerset county. Voters of Somerset county, men and women, are you in favor of this kind of economy which results in a shortage of necessary school books and gives you only a ton and half of coal to a school room in Somerset county?

The condition of our county roads and bridges is deplorable. The demand and the necessity for good roads is admittedly greater today than ever before. One entire section of the county is almost entirely cut off from the county seat for four months of the year and is impassable so far as motor vehicle traffic is concerned. In the face of this condition the County Commissioners reduced the appropriation for general road work by the levy of 1921 from $30,000 to $22,500 and also reduced the appropriation for tax ditches from $1,000 to $500, thereby crippling the drainage system in the county. The County Commissioners have adopted the same policy towards the roads as they have towards the schools, viz., the only plan they have to offer is to reduce the appropriations while the condition of the roads become worse every year.

During the past summer the bridge over the Thoroughfare at Deal's Island became very dangerous to traffic and the County Commissioners decided to build a roadway from the Rock Creek side towards the Island. Bids were advertised for. Roger B. White, brother of County Treasurer R. Mark White, Republican candidate for re-election, submitted a bid of $4,895. Otis S. Lloyd, a well-known wharf builder, of Salisbury, also bid on the contract, The work was given to White. The driveway was opened to the public about two weeks ago. Within a few days the fill commenced to settle. A thin layer of oyster shells, which had constituted the top surface, buried in marsh turf, which then became the exposed surface. A truck mired in the turf and heavy boards had to be laid to permit the automobiles to pass over. The general opinion is that the whole job will go to pieces in a very short time. A well known wharf builder like Otis S. Lloyd would have given the county a thoroughly good job that would have stood any amount of traffic.

Attention of the voters of Somerset county is directed to the fact that by the levy of 1921 the Republican Board of County Commissioners allowed Plummer B. Bloodsworth, of Mt. Vernon district, keeper of the almshouse, an increase of $500 for the maintenance of that institution, increasing the appropriation therefore from $2,500 to $3,000.

During the whole period of the war when prices of food and clothing were rising by leaps and bounds only $2,500 was levied for, the almshouse. In 1921 when prices have been rapidly falling, the sum of $3,000 is levied.

It is this policy that is today ruining Somerset county. The taxable basis is higher, the tax rate is higher, the amount levied for county purposes is greater than ever and yet the county is going backwards every year. The candidates on the Republican ticket are committed to this record made by their party in the past six months. The Republican candidates have no new or different policy to offer. They are "chained to their idols" and their election will mean a continuation of the same stagnant, ruinous policy.

The only relief that you can expect is in the election of the Democratic ticket. It was the Democratic party in the past that set the county on the road to progress; that erected every handsome public building in the county that we take pride in. It is the Democratic party in the county and State that has built almost every mile of permanent road that we have.

The policy of the Republican party is obstruction. The policy and motto of the Democratic party is progress.

THE LETTER

By MOLLIE MATHER.

Copyright, 1921, Western Newspaper Union.

The mistake, perhaps, was in inviting Connie to Elmhurst. But David had been so perverse in his love affairs that his elderly sister hoped propinquity might aid her choice, for it was she who secretly selected Constance Violet as a future wife for her admirable, but difficult brother, trusting that his affection might follow her own. She had met the girl at the home of a mutual friend, and had promptly fallen in love with her sweetly natural ways. "Constance has character," Miss Bruce told her skeptical brother.

"Wait until you see."

As time passed David Bruce came to coincide with his sister's views; so much did he coincide that he discarded his dignified demeanor and became, as Connie laughingly told him, "almost human."

His high public position may have been accountable for his usual attitude of aloofness, but Connie, accepted him on equal ground.

"Come on," she called to him carelessly one morning, "let's you and I go berrying. I'll pick the berries on the outside of the bushes, and you can scramble where the briars are."

And David, the dignified, "scrambled in," enjoying, evidently, the pursuit. Miss Bruce was delighted with her matrimonial scheme; to bring David down from his high horse was a conquest indeed.

"He is as unapproachable as old Uncle Ruthford," she was wont to complain, Uncle Ruthford having been the arrogant master of Elmhurst-on-the-Hudson, in years that were gone. Why he had died a bachelor, leaving his estate to David Bruce, no one knew.

The same stubborn pride was evinced in David Bruce, when Constance Violet met the caretaker's son. Affairs had been running so smoothly between her brother and the girl of her choice, that Miss Bruce was content to hope. Then the unusual character, for which she had professed admiration, became her provocation. Connie showed openly an admiring interest in the caretaker's son, spending much of her time with him. It was most annoying. The young man recently returned from college to visit his father in a stone cottage near Elmhurst gates, drove Connie out in the auto one day, and poured into her sympathetic ears the tale of his own endeavor, his ambitious dreams of a future. Immediately Connie wanted to help, so when he brought a saddle horse, and rode at her side, Connie loaned him books and planned with him the best means to his end. David Bruce, watching indignantly from a window, the handsome young man and the eager, enthusiastic girl, could know nothing of these plans or her helpful spirit. He saw only and bitterly that the woman upon whom he had set all his affection, the woman whom he hoped to bring to Elmhurst as his wife—coquetted her time lightly away with his caretaker's son. So David Bruce, like Uncle Ruthford before him, withdrew into his dignified shell, treating the girl thereafter with distant courtesy. Constance Violet in her room at night wondered at it, with a lonely pain in her usually merry heart.

"You are in love with David Bruce," she accused, "shamelessly, hopelessly in love with him. Why do you sham about friendship? And David does not care for you," she told herself wistfully, the following evening. "He rejects your every approach. If he doesn't care, after all, and you have been mistaken in your foolish hopes, why, then, you'd better go away, and get over it all, as quick as you can."

Miss Bruce was disappointed when Constance Violet announced her near departure. But she was provoked, too, that her guest had used so little consideration. There was no happiness for Connie. David absented himself purposely the last days of her stay. Aimlessly, one rainy afternoon, she wandered into Uncle Ruthford's study. It was here that David had come to write his letters. Connie sat down before the desk, and laid her face upon it. There was even a sort of comfort in the mere fact that David's hand had lately rested there—Connie was as much in love as that. On a level with her misty eyes protruded an addressed letter. She sat up staring at its bold direction.

"To the girl I love," read Constance, and caught her breath. There's but one girl in the house and had been; it was herself.

"Can you go and leave me," it asked briefly, "when you know that I love you? You must know—though my helpless old pride has kept my lips closed."

Connie rushed with the letter to her room, but David entered the hall as she crossed it. He gasped as she flew directly into his arms; but it must have been a gasp of delight, for he held her close.

"I cannot go away," said Connie breathlessly, "because I—love you—David."

Miss Bruce found the crushed letter on the hall floor after her brother had joyously, though somewhat incoherently, announced his engagement to Constance. She smiled as she slowly tore the old letter across.

"No use keeping Uncle Ruthford's love plea any longer," she mused. "It has evidently answered its purpose at last. If not for himself—for David."

Trade Routes Through Lhasa.

By the trade routes that pass through Lhasa, caravans of sheep, mules, ponies or yaks, laden with wool, hides, cloth, tea-bricks or salt, come and go, arriving generally in December and departing in March before the spring floods. Better caravan animals then these hardy mules and the small, tough, shaggy horses that also serve as beasts of burden are the yaks. For they can live, if need be, on coarse, stiff pasture, they carry heavy loads, are sure-footed on frozen surfaces and seem not to mind the cold, even when icicles cling to their long black coats and bushy white tails. Then, too, yaks are blessed with horns, on which especially devont Tibetans cut the sacred "Om" formula. As another precaution against attack, the caravan is provided with prayer-wheels and accompanied by nomad dogs. But the owners of the mastiffs are not unfriendly to a stranger of good intent. When they meet one, they pull off their caps, push forward their left ears, put out their tongues and bow politely.—Marietta Neff, in Asia Magazine.

Happy Butterflies.

Upon meeting one of their own species, the tiger swallowtail butterflies will execute a kind of aerial waltz as they flit above, below and around each other in their play on the wing.

Coming out into the open fields, their giddy flight leads them here and there in varied course as they visit the flowertops of thistles, golden rod and other attractive plants.

Growing thirsty, down they come to some low, flat bank of a sluggish stream, attracted by the presence of others of their kind, and sip away to their heart's content, pausing only now and then for a brief frolic in the sunlight with some other big black and yellow vagabond of their own sort with no more in its bit of a brain to worry it.—American Forestry Magazine.

Gormand.

The word "gormand" is too frequently confused with "gourmet," of exactly opposite meaning. A gormand is defined in the dictionaries as a "glutton, a greedy person"—that is to say, a person of industrious but undiscriminating appetite.

The word "gourmet," on the other hand, is defined as "an epicure; a dainty feeder; a connoisseur in wines or meats; a man of keen palate."

Both words were appropriately borrowed from the French, as the French borrowed the art of cooking and eating from the Italians, who in their turn inherited it from the old Romans, the greatest eaters in history, whether as gormands or gourmets.—Chicago Journal.

Duration of Thunder.

The chief factor in the prolongation of a peal of thunder is the difference of time required for the sound to travel to the observer from different points along the path of discharge, which may be a mile, or perhaps several miles, in length. Under some conditions reflections of the sound from clouds, hills, etc., further prolongs the peal.

MISS MARTHA

By ELIZABETH V. M'NAUGHT.

©, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

It had been an especially hard day on all workers, and Miss Martha was tired. She was far from youth, each foot seemed weighted with irons as she climbed the incline of the narrow street leading to the small lonely apartment that she called home.

For over twenty years life had been but a round of work. In what should have been her playtime of life she had awakened to find her frail shoulders burdened with a responsibility so great that she must seek the city, enter a great store, become a nonentity like so many other girls, and if she felt the usual pangs of longing that fills the very heart of the poor girl as she sells to her more fortunate sisters the pretty silks and laces that she, too, craves but can never have, no one was the wiser.

Now she had reached the spinsterhood of life. She craved nothing fragile or pretty and found her only joy in watching a small nest egg grow year by year, each year bringing a fresh assurance of at least an independent old age.

The responsibility was now gone. Miss Martha was free, with but herself to look after. However, the habits of a lifetime are not easily broken, and the instinct for saving had been instilled far too deeply for any change to take place in her mode of living.

Saving she had been, saving she was and would be to the end. Where others counted dollars, she counted pennies—where others saved pennies, she saved dollars. To her, nickels were as sovereigns and to be hoarded. To spend a five-cent piece in order to ride a distance that her feet could carry her would be sacrilegious.

She lived alone. Every winter morning the wind buffeted her small figure around the corner and the hot, muggy nights of summer found her dragging along, coat in hand, warm and perspiring, after a long walk from her place of employment.

To the neighbors she was a pity and a mystery. They pitied her in her loneliness and they marveled at her seeming good nature, for she had a ready smile for anyone who glanced her way.

The house in which she lived was divided into a score or more of beehive apartments.

Each evening on entering Miss Martha habitually stepped into the phone booth, not to answer the phone, nor yet to make a call, but simply to see, if by any chance, a five-cent piece might have dropped back from the coin box and lay in the open slot.

Economist was Miss Martha. Finding was keeping. It was not stealing. Such would be her replies to a questioning conscience, and, to be sure, a nickel was a nickel.

On this particular July evening she had just emerged from the booth as a young woman, flushed and apparently excited, faced her inquiringly. Miss Martha began to mount the stairs. The young woman inspected the booth, then raced after the retreating old figure.

"My money, my money. You have it," she screamed, gesticulating wildly, and a small child tugging at her skirts began to cry in fright.

Miss Martha was almost too overcome to speak. Feebly, trembling, she made denial. Later an inspector called, but after fruitless questioning went away, shrugging his shoulders. But a thousand dollar bill had mysteriously disappeared. It had been handed to the young woman by her husband just a few minutes previous. On hearing the ring of the phone bell, and being accustomed to answering it, she had slipped the bill into her apron pocket and missed the money just a few moments after returning to her apartment. She had hurried to the booth, discovered Martha, and—of course the older woman had found the bill and was concealing it.

For days and weeks tongues wagged and meaning glances followed the suspected woman. To all appeals Miss Martha was adamant. Her spirit was proud. She would not let these critical people into the one secret of her life.

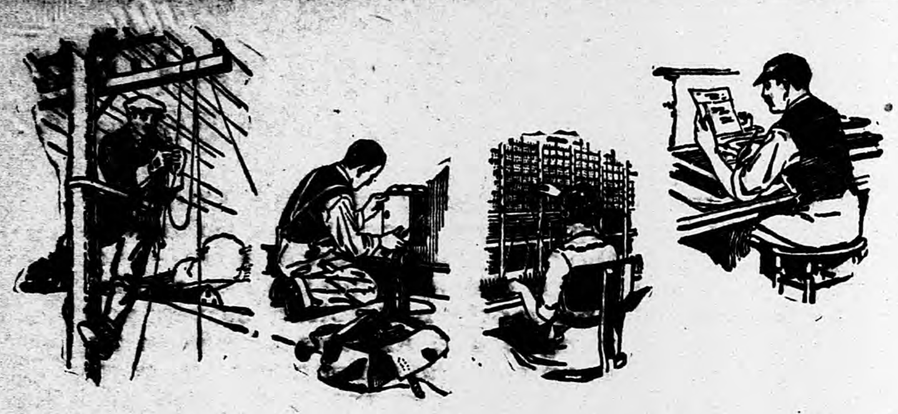
Of course she was innocent, the bill having been discovered the following day serving as a blanket on the wee crib in which the mother's small child laid her doll, the little girl admitting that she had taken it from her mother's pocket the day previous. However, this bit of news did not travel as fast or as far as its predecessor.

One evening a few weeks later, just as the gathering dusk was assuring the ill and the convalescent of the city hospital that another day had come to its close, Miss Martha was weakly repeating the whole sad story to a sympathetic nurse.

"'Twarn't stealing," she asserted in her queer nasal, and as her eyes shifted from the scenes of this world to those of the next, no doubt, the soul of Miss Martha repeated the same assertion to its Creator.

Pigs Scent Truffles.

The pig is a very clever truffle finder. It has been said that so keen is the scent of one well trained that a sow has been known to run in a direct line 150 feet snuffling toward a point where, two or three inches underground, lay a truffle. Should the pig root it up and attempt to eat it, he is punished. Generally, however, when properly trained he merely stands over it and grunts till it is dug up by the truffle hunter.



What Is The Telephone Company?

IT is an organization of 3084 Maryland men and women banded together to give the people of Maryland the best telephone service brains and energy and effort can make possible.

These people—many of whom have dedicated their lives to this service—are nearly all natives of this State. They are citizens of your cities and towns—they are your neighbors and friends.

The telephone is a regulated utility; the price of our service is controlled by state regulation. Our revenues being regulated, our expenses must be held in proportion. At no time during recent years, did our wages keep pace with those of other industries.

That condition still exists. But in spite of this limitation and the exacting requirements of war and reconstruction, Maryland's telephone people are now giving you a higher grade of service than at any time in the history of the system.

OVERCOMING LACK OF WELL

Iowa Community Brought Ingenuity to Bear to Secure Supply of Suitable Drinking Water.

A rural school in Iowa, situated in a locality where suitable water for drinking purposes is to be procured only by driving a well to a considerable depth, met the situation by conserving the wash from the roof of the schoolhouse, passing it through a filter and holding it for use in a brick, underground tank provided with a tight curb. The filter is filled with layers of charcoal, sand, and screened gravel of small size which have been placed in the container in the order named. The water which comes from this "well" is highly colored but it is exceedingly cold and palatable. From a sanitary standpoint it is perfectly healthful. Before this means of procuring water for drinking purposes was installed the school children either went without water or were compelled to bring it a considerable distance.—Utica Globe.

COMPARES WELL WITH CITY

Average American Small Town, in Fact, Is Definitely More Pleasurable Abiding Place.

The churches in nearly every small town are centers of wholesome activity, nor is society in any of them like insipid gaucherie pictured to us as typical in an imaginary town of a "best seller." Small talk may predominate at any gathering, but that is true in the city, and there may be a lack of the super-refinements of manner and of dress, but whether that is to the credit or the discredit of the small town is at least debatable. As for brains and enterprise and energy, why, the small town in America is their breeding ground. It is from the small towns and the farms that the cities of America draw their vitality. How many of the men and women whose names are found in "Who's Who in America" are or were small-town people? Most of them. And those who left the small town for the city did so, as a rule, not because there was lack of beauty, of refinement or of taste at home, but because they sought larger opportunity. The small town is not gross, nor unlovely. It, speaking collectively, is the cherished abiding place of millions of Americans who compare in every worthy attribute with the inhabitants of cities, and whose faults and virtues are inherently the faults and virtues of America itself.—Exchange.

City Planning.

Primarily, city planning deals with real estate, with the streets which the people own, and with the ground on which they have erected their homes and places of business. We must realize that city real estate carries with it obligations as well as benefits. When citizens buy property they buy more than just so many feet of ground. They buy location, transportation, gas, electric light service, neighbors, good streets, proximity to parks or boulevards.

City planning is merely a co-ordination and conservation of these different elements which make up the value of property thus purchased by citizens contemplating residence in a given locality. A plan for a city, therefore, is quite like a plan for a residence. The latter has merely to do with an individual home, the former with a larger home—the city.—Exchange.

Towns With Zoning Regulations.

Sixty-seven cities of this country are reported to have some kind of zoning regulations now in effect, and 20 cities have complete comprehensive zone ordinances limiting the use of property, heights of buildings and area of lot that may be covered in every block within the city limits. Among cities adopting zoning during the last year are Milwaukee, Berkeley, Washington, D. C., Omaha, East Orange, Yonkers, Brockton, East Cleveland and a number of smaller cities.

FORDSON TRACTOR

MORE and more every day the demand for Fordson Tractor increases because the Fordson has demonstrated so much usefulness, so much economy, so much labor saving, so much money saving, along so many lines of activity. The farmer has discovered that not only for plowing, harrowing, discing, seeding, mowing, reaping or threshing, but a multitude of other uses; cutting wood; feed; grinding feed; churning; washing; furnishing water in the house; making electric light possible in the house and around the barns, so that, as a matter of fact, there is hardly an hour in the day when the Tractor cannot be made a profitable servant. There is ditching to do; there are roads to fix; and so on all down along the line of the enormous calls that constantly face the farmer the Fordson steps in and does the work, shoulders the complete burden of the toil and the hard work, one might almost say "drudgery." A card to me will bring one to your door.

(Election Tuesday, November 8th)

If the railroads get their freight rates up too high they won't carry anything but tramps.

Much political apathy reported on the part of the political workers of Maryland who have landed no jobs.

Formerly the idea was to see how much work you could do, and now it is to see how much you can escape doing.

Successful business women capable of supporting a family do not claim any lack of chivalrous attention from the men.

Eclipses of the moon used to be considered a bad sign, but now people worry more about eclipses of the moonshine.

The men of some trades won't work but five days a week, but then they have wives who are willing to put in seven.

The people of Maryland may speak to Congress with a voice of thunder, but the whiper of the lobbyist is closer to its ear.

At last reports the railroad strikers had concluded they did not care to spend the winter helping their wives peel the potatoes.

There would not have been so much objection to the Ku Klux parading in nightgowns if it had been a woman's organization.

The most difficult thing about Armistice day observance for some people has been that they were requested to keep silence for two minutes.

When a fellow reduces his prices because the public won't buy, he always does it out of a patriotic desire to co-operate with the deflation movement.

Congress takes hold of the taxation problem with about the same enthusiasm as is shown by the boy with a new air gun when the school bell rings.

On seeing a sign warning them of a dangerous curve some motorists speed up, so if another car comes around the corner it will get knocked into the ditch.

HISTORIC ARMISTICE DAY GATHERING

The American people celebrated the first Armistice day by ringing the bells and by boisterous expressions of joy. They celebrated the second with cold feelings of disillusion creeping over them. They observed the third in deeper gloom, feeling bitterly disappointed that the results expected from the war were slow in materializing.

With the coming of the fourth November 11th, our people have passed the exuberance of victory and the disappointment of the anti-climax. Now they have taken hold like those who realize that only through effort, co-operation and practical wisdom can the world order be securely rebuilt. They have signalized the day by calling a meeting that ought to be a landmark in history, the conference to limit armaments.

The world can not pay its burden of debt and repair its losses if at the same time it must carry the crushing load of armies and navies which the war spirit has placed on the backs of the nations.

Many people who admit this truth, yet will haggle and quibble about fine points, and would consent to no reduction of armament unless they were sure that other powers were reducing a little more. But the United States is in a position to be generous. It is the world's strongest power, hence the one least likely to be attacked.

Weaker nations naturally feel suspicious of a strong nation that arms heavily. They have some reason to insist that it take the lead in cutting down its military force. Our country must put itself in the place of others and ask how our people would feel if a more powerful neighbor were arming to the teeth.

The people who say there always will be wars are probably descended from those who, during the chaotic middle ages, said there would never be established institutions and courts of justice and a government of law and order.

ARMISTICE DAY

When the war closed many people wanted November 11th made a legal holiday for the whole country, but at last reports only five states had done so. One reason for not taking this action has been that Thanksgiving day comes so near this date. This is a working world and six days labor are usually necessary to support a family.

Armistice day should never be forgotten. It marks the greatest height of achievement yet reached by the American people. It notes the day when a triumph was achieved for American spirit that dumfounded the world and brought earth's proudest empire to the dust. It showed what dangers and hardships they undertake to vindicate their national ideals.

Armistice day should be a legal holiday, but the best way to observe it would be to have Thanksgiving day proclaimed on that date. The two occasions are harmonious and the thought of one adapts itself to the other.

THE COST OF STRIKES

Herbert Smith, president of the English coal miners, recently said: "The war left the coal miners with an exaggerated sense of their power. Today the miners are paying the price of their folly in misery and idleness." It would be well if all the labor leaders in this country has this clear vision of what strikes cost.

There may be conditions so adverse to wage earners that they are justified in striking. But to use the strike as a common weapon defeats its own ends.

A strike is essentially the same thing as making war. When you make war, you try to force some other group of people to accept your point of view. But it is terribly destructive and usually hurts most those who resort to the weapon of force. "They that take the sword shall perish with the sword" the Holy Scripture said and the same thing has proved true many times with the strike.

If wages are increased through strikes the gain does not come out of capital, but is added to the price of goods and services. If goods and services thereby are put up the mass of the people can not buy them freely and unemployment results.

The unemployment of the year 1921 was the direct result of the strikes of 1919 and 1920, which put up prices of goods so high that the public could not buy them, so that the factories had to shut down. If the labor troubles of the former years could have been settled by arbitration, prices never would have gone so high and business would have run along without much break.

Public sentiment has forced the railroad union chiefs to call off their proposed strike. If they are tempted later to quit work in protest at the decrees that may be made by the railroad labor board, they will do well to remember that the public feels that the men who work in any such vital industry as railroading should give continuous service and submit all grievances to fair arbitration.

Good Health

If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well, when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle.

Trustee's Sale
—OF—
Real Estate

By virtue of the power and authority contained in a decree of the Circuit Court for Somerset county, in Equity, passed in a cause in which the People's Bank of Somerset County is plaintiff and Ambrose Johnson and Lillie Johnson are defendants, the undersigned trustee named therein will sell at public auction at the Court House door, in Princess Anne, Maryland, on

Tuesday, November 22nd, 1921

at or about the hour of 2 o'clock P. M., all that situate on the west side of Church street, in the town of Princess Anne, in West Princess Anne District, Somerset county, Maryland, which is bounded on the north by the property owned and occupied by Anthony P. James, on the west by the property formerly owned by Kate Jackson, on the south by the property of Samuel King's heirs, and which was conveyed to Irving Johnson by Maria Dennis et al. by deed dated the 13th of August, 1918, recorded among the land records of said Somerset county in Liber W. J. S. No. 74, folio 441.

HOUSE AND LOT

TERMS OF SALE:—As prescribed by said decree, one-half cash on the day of sale and the balance in two months from day of sale, to be secured by the bond of the purchaser with approved security, bearing interest; or all cash at the option of the purchaser.

L. CRESTON BEAUCHAMP, Trustee

The creditors of the said Irving Johnson are hereby given notice to file their claims, with the vouchers thereof, in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Somerset county within two months from the day of sale.

Horticultural Society Meeting

The thirty-fifth annual meeting of the Peninsula Horticultural Society will be held in the Globe Theatre, at Berlin, Md., on November 29th and 30th and December 1st, 1921. Mr. G. Hale Harrison, the president, has spent some time in arranging the program.

Cantaloupe growing and marketing will be discussed by the most prominent men of the peninsula who have been successful in growing this vegetable. The same may be said of watermelons, strawberries, peaches, apples, tomatoes, potatoes, both sweet and white. There will be at least four speakers on white potatoes and three on sweet potatoes.

Besides these topics, Dr. Headlee will tell about the insects and diseases of fruit. Other speakers will talk about the value of liquid and dust spraying.

A most interesting and instructive exhibit of fruit and vegetables will be held in the garage close to the Globe Theatre, where the meeting is to be held.

How Not To Take Cold

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over-heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.

THE HARDWARE QUESTION SOLVED

Do You Need a New Cook Stove

It's a waste of time and energy to try to cook and bake with the old-fashioned cook stove—and, worse still, an actual waste of fuel. The modern kitchen stoves and ranges are marvels of efficiency, economy and convenience in comparison. They make cooking and baking easier, cheaper and more uniform.

We have them in the best makes—for small families and for large—with coal or wood grates—malleable, rust-proof and with the latest inventions and attachments.

We are always glad to show our stock and to point out the features that make ours the best.

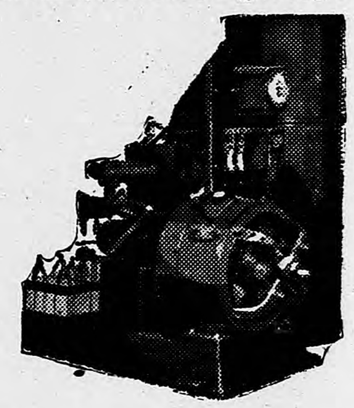
Universal Products
The Standardized Electric Light and Power Plant



Make Your Home Comfortable For Your Wife

A Universal Products Plant Frees Women From the Dreary Drudgery, which is Really Un-American

TAKE the family washing and ironing, for instance—two of the hardest, most depressing tasks American women have had to endure. The Universal Products plant frees the women of the home for all time from the dreaded "blue Monday."

Here is power for many uses in the home and on the farm—for churning butter, doing the sweeping; the washing and for pumping water, running the dairy machinery—in fact for all the round of duties that take so much time that can nowadays be put to better use.

And there are hours gained for leisure and comfort and grace of living. Bright, cheerful, genial light—evenings pleasanter, the family happier and everybody more comfortable at home.

Universal Products Light and Power keeps workers contented. Its labor-saving economy enables them to actually accomplish more 365 days in the year.

Let us show you this simple, economical plant. It costs less than you think. It produces more than you believe possible. Let us demonstrate some of the 1700 things it will do for you.

The wedding took place at Stockton, Worcester county. Sharpley has been signed by Jack Dunn, of the Baltimore Orioles, for next season.

Armistice Day, Friday, November 11th, will be celebrated at Marion High School with patriotic addresses and music. The speakers of the evening will be Rev. J. Frederick Virgin, of Crisfield, subject, "A Warless World," and Rev. J. F. Rorex, of Marion, subject, "Service." Patriotic music furnished by Wedelin's orchestra. The program begins promptly at 8 p. m. Admission 25c. Proceeds for the improvement of the school.

The fifth Red Cross Roll Call beginning November 11th, Armistice Day, will afford an excellent opportunity for every person in Somerset county to render valuable service for those who suffer. The Red Cross of war with us is now history. Every person in t he country is familiar with the splendid service rendered by Somerset County Chapter during the World War. The Red Cross of Peace is an agency to heal the wounds of war—a substantial refuge from fire, flood and pestilence—and an untiring friend of little children.

President Harding has issued a proclamation designating Thursday, November 24th, as Thanksgiving Day. If Armistice Day is declared a legal holliday in Maryland by special proclamation of Governor Albert C. Ritchie, November will boast a record-breaking number of holidays. Tuesday, November 8th, Election Day; Friday, November 11th, Armistice Day, aud Thursday, November 24th, Thanksgiving Day, are the three legal holidays in prospect. Election Day and Thanksgiving Day are, of course, always observed.

Livestock Specialist To Visit County

County Agent C. Z. Keller has arranged for Mr. B. E. Carmichael, livestock specialist of the State Extension Service, to visit farmers in the county who are interested in growing hogs or ther livestock. The low price of corn has caused the farmers to consider the feeding of hogs and it is expected that there will be an increase in the number of hogs on the farms of the county.

Mr. Carmichael will be in the county to-morrow (Wednesday) November 9th, and farmers desiring to have him visit their farms should get in touch with the county agent.

Farmers Having Soil Tested

A number of farmers in this county are taking samples of their soil to be tested for lime requirements. It is a good plan for farmers to know if their soil needs lime and the amount required to bring it into a neutral state.

Many farmers have applied lime without knowing the actual needs of the soil and could have saved money if they knew the actual amount that was needed to give the most economical results. Farmers can leave their soil samples at any store in the county and notify the county agent who will arrange to collect them. Samples can also be brought to the office of the county agent.

Another Fire At Marion Station

A fire of unknown origin wiped out a large portion of the business centre of Marion Station last Saturday morning. The fire started under the building occupied by John C. Horsey as a grocery and spread rapidly to the frame mercantile building adjoining, destroying nine buildings before it was got under control. Motor fire trucks from Crisfield responded to a call for help, and probably saved the town from being totally destroyed.

The entire stock of E. W. Tull, valued at $7,500, was burned with only $3,000 insurance. It is estimated that the actual loss to buildings and contents will exceed $60,000. E. W. Tull and Robert H. Whittington are the heaviest losers. Other property destroyed was that of John C. Horsey, stock; E. W. Tull, stock; Dr. I. A. B. Allen, office building; W. R. Whittington, store; W. R. Whittington & Son, office building, and Robert H. Whittington, dwelling, barns and warehouses. This is the third serious blaze in the business section of Marion within two years.

Love is blind, and public spooners seem to think everybody else is.

Hear Speech 3,000 Miles Away

The call of a bugle, the chime of bells and the voice of a man sounded across the continent from San Francisco to Washington, D. C., last Wednesday to be magnified over a wide area about the Arlington National Cemetery with every note, every tone of the bells and every spoken syllable as distinct as though produced a hundred feet from the listeners' ears.

The speaker stood on the roof of the civic auditorium in San Francisco, and the music came from phonograph records played in the building on which he stood. The speaker read part of President Harding's inaugural address. It was the formal rehearsal of the mechanism by which President Harding's voice, as he speaks the nation's homage on Armistice Day over the coffin of America's unknown dead from France, will be carried to an audience waiting before the simplifiers in New York and to another gathering in San Francisco.

To accomplish this marvel of communication the teleghone company used nearly 10,000 miles of circuit and double that length of wire. It had linemen stationed every eighteen miles all the way to San Francisco. The audience in Arlington was 3,000 miles distant from the speaker in San Francisco.

Father And Son Week

The week of November 6th to 12th has been named as Father and Son Week by the Y. M. C. A. and Sunday School authorities. Church and other gatherings will be held for bringing fathers and sons into the same social occasion. Too frequently a wall of age separates father and the boys.

Father gets the idea that the youngsters are so crude and immature that they are not interesting. Perhaps he wants to do things that they will regard as too interesting. The boys look at father as a dull old fogy. Age loses vitality if it can not sympathize with youth. Youth is a shallow stream if it does not look into the depths of wisdom that age brings. Any occasion that brings fathers and sons together ought to help both get more out of lite.

To The Tax Payers Of Somerset County

I will be at WESTOVER, at Long Brothers store, on Thursday morning, Nov. 24th, and at CRISFIELD at Bradshaw-Sneade Co.'s store on Friday morning, Nov. 25th, 1921, for the purpose of receiving and collecting State and County Taxes. R. MARK WHITE Treasurer.

Good Roads Bill Passed

The $75,000,000 good roads bill for Federal aid in highway construction was enacted finally last Thursday and now goes to President Harding for approval. The Senate adopted the conference report, which previously had been approved by the House. This means that the sum of $640,629 from the Federal Treasury soon will be available for continuing the construction of roads in Maryland.

As finally approved the measure continues the practice of giving Federal aid to the States which undertake road construction projects. The House attempted to have the appropriation made as a straight authorization of funds, but receded in conference.

"GREATEST MOTHER" GREATEST MANAGER

Stretching the 100 cents she receives annually from each of her sons and daughters until nations and peoples in all parts of the earth feel her merciful touch, she sets a shining example in thrift.

Additional proof of her remarkable ability to find something in the cupboard to meet every appeal, no matter whence it may come, was evidenced recently in the announcement that she had contributed $1,250,000 for relief of the starving millions in China; $700,000 in medical and surgical supplies for famine-stricken Russia; $100,000 to the committee of distinguished Americans gathering money for the aid of homeless women and children in Ireland; $230,000 to help the thousands made destitute by the disastrous flood at Pueblo, Colo.

Dollar membership fees, to a considerable extent, make possible the humane and the educational work of the

JOHN BARTON PAYNE,
New Chairman of the Central Committee of the American Red Cross.

American Red Cross at home and abroad. Each dollar paid during the coming Red Cross Roll Call to be held between Armistice Day, November 11, and Thanksgiving Day, November 24, will be spread over a large part of the world.

Full Value

From the moment it starts on its errand of mercy, knowing no sect, color or creed, the chief thought of those directing its course is that full value shall be received for every penny. That this aim is more than achieved is manifest when one considers the loyal army of volunteer Red Cross workers contributing their time and labor to Red Cross activities, thus giving the Red Cross dollar a value not attainable by the ordinary dollar.

The life story of the Red Cross dollar will undoubtedly be interesting to many Red Cross members. In brief it follows:

Fifty cents of every dollar membership is retained by the Chapter which collects it. That half dollar remains right in the local community and is used by the Red Cross Chapter to promote useful activities which may include: Helping the disabled fighting men and their families, always the prime obligation of the Red Cross; co-operation with the authorities in fighting disease and making the community a healthier place in which to live; teaching first aid in factories, schools or railroad yards; teaching home hygiene and nursing, care of the sick and proper selection of foods; making over worn garments for the needy children of their own community and for the destitute children of Europe; financing and assisting a public health nurse in keeping the community well; making the community ready for disaster emergencies; co-operating with other organizations for the development of a better community spirit.

Foreign Relief

The remaining 50 cents is forwarded to National Red Cross Headquarters in Washington. This part of the dollar travels farthest, for, in conjunction with funds composed of voluntary contributions, it is at once put to work relieving distress in many parts of the world, teaching health rules and sanitation and establishing or helping to establish hospitals in others, extending to welfare organizations and government agencies everywhere the benefits of the organization's vast experience with human problems. Upwards of twenty-five European countries have received help in varying degrees from the American Red Cross since the armistice. In a number of these countries the organization is still active to the extent of providing medical treatment for millions of sickly and undernourished children.

In addition to its work overseas, some of the second 50 cents is kept busy in the United States rendering many services to the thousands of disabled men in hospitals, to the able-bodied soldiers, sailors and marines in the army camps, to the families of these men; it provides the fund which is immediately available for relief work in case of explosions, forest fires, tornadoes and other disasters; it makes possible the close co-operation with the Federal Public Health Service and the strengthening of the country's nursing resources.

By this time the dollar is all but exhausted as a result of its world-wide activity.

Statisticians who have trailed it say there is something less than 4 cents left at the end of its journey.

RED CROSS SERVES 864,763 DISABLED

The 344 Chapters in Atlantic Division Spent $1,180,416 on ex-Service Men This Year.

Disabled men in numbers sufficient to populate a good sized city were aided this year by the 344 chapters of the Red Cross in New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Connecticut and Delaware, according to an announcement from Atlantic Division headquarters in New York. Approximately $1,180,416 was expended in caring for 864,763 veterans and their families. Reports received at Red Cross headquarters show that the men and women who have been assisted in so many ways by the Greatest Mother are among the most loyal supporters of the coming Red Cross Roll Call, to be held from Armistice Day, November 11, to Thanksgiving Day, November 24.

Distribute Comforts

Of the 26,350 disabled men in the hospitals of the country more than 3,500 are being treated in hospitals in the Atlantic Division, and their comfort is one of the chief concerns of the Division's chapters. Red Cross workers are kept busy distributing comforts, providing entertainment and recreation and helping to straighten out family difficulties for these men. A total of 780,000 cigarettes were distributed this year, 1,000 tins of tobacco given away and 2,588 sweaters donated to convalescents. Loans totaling $6,952 were made and 32,539 social service cases carried through to a successful conclusion. Sporting goods and comforts were provided at a cost of $21,787.

Together with the newly formed United States Veterans' Bureau and the American Legion, the Red Cross is now participating in a nation wide cleanup campaign, which has as its aim the settling of all outstanding claims of ex-service men and women. In one month recently 6,802 claims were acted upon by the traveling squads in the six states. The number of Red Cross members engaged in this cleanup is 185, Legion workers numbering 43 and the Veterans' Bureau 149.

AMERICAN LEGION BACKS RED CROSS

National Commander John G. Emery of the American Legion has issued the following proclamation to all members of that body in behalf of the Red Cross Roll Call, November 11-24:

"During the World War, the American Red Cross, in accordance with its Congressional charter, performed a herculean task in behalf of the soldiers and sailors of the American forces, and their families. Since the Armistice it has provided a very necessary service for veterans of the conflict, particularly the disabled, assisting these men to obtain the rights and benefits provided by the government. During recent months it has been especially designated by Col. C. R. Forbes, director of the Veterans' Bureau, to co-operate with the Bureau and the American Legion, in the "clean up campaign" designed to discover every disabled ex-service man entitled to governmental compensation, medical attention or vocational training.

"Beginning on Armistice Day, November 11, and continuing through Thanksgiving Day, November 24, the Red Cross, with which the American Legion since its organization has been in close contact and co-operation in matters affecting the welfare of veterans, will hold its annual membership Roll Call. It is peculiarly fitting and desirable that in every community where it is possible the Post of the American Legion should co-operate with the Chapter of the Red Cross in seeing to it that the membership campaign is successful in maintaining the strength of the Red Cross. The continuance of effective Red Cross service to veterans, which already involves an annual expense several millions in excess of receipts from the last Roll Call, depends to no small extent upon public support of the society expressed in membership. Please make certain, therefore, that the members of your Post are all requested to co-operate so far as is in their power with the Red Cross in its task of enrolling members during the Roll Call period."

Word Passing From Common Usage.

The use of fare as a verb is rapidly becoming obsolete, we seldom speak of a traveler "faring" on his way, yet such usage is perfectly correct. We still say that an enterprise "fares" well, although the modern tendency is to use "turn out." Then there is the meaning "feed" as we fared well. Fare may be both the sum paid for a journey and the person conveyed, and this is the sense in which the word is chiefly used nowadays. Fishermen will recognize the word as a term used to denote the total amount of fish caught on a cruise.

Care of Paintings.

The pictures in a home are apt to suffer from the lack of attention which in time detracts from their appearance. Oil paintings should be lightly cleaned once a year, being wiped gently with a very fine sponge or chamois leather wet with clear water. Do not use soap or any other cleansing substance in the water. Immediately after sponging polish the surface lightly with a dry silk handkerchief. Gilt frames should be dusted frequently. A camel's hair paintbrush is effective for this. Fly marks can be removed by the use of a little white of egg.

CARDUI HELPED REGAIN STRENGTH

Alabama Lady Was Sick For Three Years, Suffering Pain, Nervous and Depressed—Read Her Own Story of Recovery.

Paint Rock, Ala.—Mrs. C. M. Stegall, of near here, recently related the following interesting account of her recovery: "I was in a weakened condition. I was sick three years in bed, suffering a great deal of pain, weak, nervous, depressed. I was so weak, I couldn't walk across the floor; just had to lay and my little ones do the work. I was almost dead. I tried every thing I heard of, and a number of doctors. Still I didn't get any relief. I couldn't eat, and slept poorly. I believe if I hadn't heard of and taken Cardui I would have died. I bought six bottles, after a neighbor told me what it did for her.

"I began to eat and sleep, began to gain my strength and am now well and strong. I haven't had any trouble since . . . I sure can testify to the good that Cardui did me. I don't think there is a better tonic made and I believe it saved my life."

For over 40 years, thousands of women have used Cardui successfully, in the treatment of many womanly ailments.

If you suffer as these women did, take Cardui. It may help you, too.

HOME TOWN HELPS

WHAT TO KNOW ABOUT TOWN

Matters on Which Prospective Citizen Will Do Well to Satisfy Himself Before Locating.

In the opinion of one who has given much thought to the question of civic betterment along various lines, the following points should be settled to his satisfaction before decision to make a home in any town is definitely arrived at:

Living—Can we live reasonably and well in that town? Are the best of modern conveniences available for its residents—electricity, gas, telephone, etc.? Are the housing and shopping conditions favorable? Rents, taxes, and prices fair? Hotels good? Home and truck gardens and dairy products plentiful?

Accessibility—Can we go and come easily? Does the town have adequate railroad connections and train service? Street car lines? Interurban lines? Well-marked automobile routes and hard-surface roads?

Business—Can I make good use of capital in that town? Are there banking facilities? Manufacturing interests? Up to-date stores? Good shipping facilities? Favorable labor conditions? A prosperous farming territory? Active co-operation among business interests?

Employment—Can I get a job in that town at fair pay and with good prospects for the future? Can I count on co-operation from organizations making it their business to help introduce and establish new commercial interests and to welcome new citizens?

Progressiveness—Shall I find that I am in a town having a progressive city government, active civic organization, modern fire protection, and a pull-together spirit in everything—a town with a future?—L. N. Flint, Department of Journalism, University of Kansas.

EXPECT RESULTS FROM CLUBS

Organizations Formed in Alabama to Beautiful Sections Are Hailed With Much Enthusiasm.

The "beautiful mile" idea, we understand, originated in the mind of Billie Maltby, the manager of the club, who is actively engaged in working out the details of the club. In our opinion he has conceived an idea which is going to result in great good in the building of better roads, better homes, and the making of a better citizenship. The idea is taking root in other sections, and we would not be surprised to see "beautiful mile" clubs organized all over Alabama within the next 12 months. The idea will be carried into the towns and cities and "beautiful street" clubs will be [illegible]

They are going to see what it does and how it does it. Here's hoping that they come up to the full expectations of those who are looking on.—Southern Democrat, Oneonta, Ala.

Billboards in the Clean-Up.

The clean-up campaign fostered as a preparation for the American Legion convention is progressing well. Individuals have taken hold in good shape. People are cleaning up their yards and painting their houses. That is about as far as individuals can go.

Now it is up to the city to take a hand in the beautification program by banishing the billboards from the residence districts. Nobody has a right to damage his neighbor's property by setting up a big sign across the street from a residence, or next to a residence. Nobody has a right to damage the community by introducing glaring signs on a boulevard or into a residence district.—Kansas City Star.

Industrial Plants in Small Towns.

The small town as a potential industrial asset has already been utilized to some extent by manufacturers, chiefly those seeking relief from labor troubles in the cities. In some industries, where there is an enormous production of standardized parts, the only difficulty to be met is transportation, and it is reasonable to believe that good roads and motor trucks will solve that problem. If so, the small town may again become the backbone of the United States.

What Muskrats Did for Maryland.

Maryland has many muskrat farms. Owners of the marsh land of Dorchester county harvest from 100,000 to 125,000 muskrat skins a year. There is a market for the meat as well as for the fur. A single Baltimore firm handles 25,000 to 80,000 muskrat carcasses a year and is unable to supply the demand at that. Hotels in Maryland offer them on their bill of fare as "marsh rabbit." Marshes formerly considered valueless are now worth $30 to $40 an acre for muskrat culture.

Getting Higher-Up Men.

"Four robbers seized 20 stories in air." Talk about getting men higher up!—Providence Journal.

BILLY

By JOSEPHINE MURPHY.

©, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The golden May twilight was beginning to creep on as Myrtle opened the small iron gate at the end of the path and clicked it shut behind her.

Turning from the main street, she entered a grass-grown lane. At one side of the path rose a clay bank, and up this incline, his legs stiffly braced in the crumbling earth, clambered Billy. He was an untractable animal, but evidently of an enterprising nature, for he was making persistent efforts to reach the stalk of a plant. At the swish of Myrtle's skirt Billy rolled one bleared and watery eye in her direction, stretched his neck in a final effort, nipped the stalk and turned to meet Myrtle.

"Good evening, Billy," remarked Myrtle. But the goat's eyes were fixed on the lilies which Myrtle wore.

"You gastronomic nuisance!" she exclaimed. "You've nothing but an inordinate appetite and a bad disposition." At the same time she drew out two slender green leaves from among the lilies and gave them to Billy.

Myrtle reached the hall at seven. She was prominent by her absence. It added a source of pleasure to Mr. Roland if in the course of a lecture his eyes could rest on the fair face of Myrtle, for whom he cherished a certain kind regard.

After the lecture he met Myrtle and walked home with her. He drifted into a routine of talk on every-day topics until they reached the grass-grown lane.

A sudden movement placed Mr. Roland behind Myrtle; then, recovering, he came up on the other side.

"I think there will be no further danger," he said, taking Myrtle's arm and glancing over his shoulder. Myrtle followed his example and could dimly discern Billy.

"I adore Billy." The warmth of Myrtle's tone seemed to include goats of all species.

The next afternoon Myrtle, wearing a pretty pink dress, left the house to spend her hours in the orchard. In the center was one great tree, which dropped its branches above a huge boulder set against the trunk. This seemed a familiar spot to her, for hook under arm, she climbed to the top of the boulder, settled herself comfortably and began to read, glancing up at intervals and noting on one occasion a familiar figure.

"Billy!" she called, and he trotted stiff-legged to the boulder. "You're a bad boy, Billy. You're a menace to the community. What do you think about that?"

Mr. Roland carried an odd-shaped parcel which he deposited on the grass.

From somewhere back of the boulder there came a husky snort and Billy, all important, passed into full view.

"Here, Billy!"

The command was too late. Billy was already under motion, and Mr. Roland went over like a fallen tower.

Billy looked vindictively at the side wall, and seeing nothing to awaken suspicion, began to nibble grass.

Myrtle had just convinced herself that Mr. Roland was uninjured and began reading again when a third visitor entered the orchard.

"I thought I would find you out here," he said, as he reached the girl's side, extending his hand to meet the one she held out to him. Her face showed a strange suppressed happiness.

"Yes, I heard you were back and I thought perhaps you'd come."

"Get out, you nuisance," said the man, and Billy, apparently unconscious of the indignity of a jocular push, had suddenly become much absorbed in fixed contemplation of the side wall.

"What's the matter with Billy?"

"Oh, nothing but natural irritability."

Myrtle's tone was casual, her glance which scanned the wall was not. It discerned something round, black and smooth which bobbed above the stones.

"Would you mind, Robert, passing me that parcel on the grass?"

He laid it on her lap. She opened it, disclosing a half dozen roses.

"Here, Billy."

"How about New York, Robert? What did you do with the invention?"

"I sold it for—well, for a sum that will make possible many things I have always cared for, but I'll not be happy unless you'll take an equal share of the dividends. Will you, Myrtle?"

"You might have married a much younger woman, Robert"—she smiled at his look of resentment—"if you had asked me some years ago."

Robert gathered her into his arms. There was one rose left on the grass. Billy ate it.

ONE QUALITY-
One Size Package

All our skill, facilities, and lifelong knowledge of the finest tobaccos are concentrated on this one cigarette—CAMEL.

Into this ONE BRAND, we put the utmost quality. Nothing is too good for Camels. They are as good as it's possible to make a cigarette.

Camel QUALITY is always maintained at the same high, exclusive standard. You can always depend on the same mellow-mild refreshing smoothness—the taste and rich flavor of choicest tobaccos—and entire freedom from cigaretty aftertaste.

And remember this! Camels come in one size package only—20 cigarettes—just the right size to make the greatest saving in production and packing. This saving goes straight into Camel Quality. That's one reason why you can get Camel Quality at so moderate a price.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And their added cost must go onto the price or come out of the quality.

Pure, Fresh Candy

When you walk up to the door and SHE answers the bell — it's lucky you have the candy. You'd be speechless otherwise.

You hand it to her with, "Sweets to the sweet," (if you have the nerve) and she opens it. Gee! You're glad you bought it here 'cause you know it's fresh and pure!

It's pretty small, after you have won her with sweet food and sweeter words, to forget that she likes either after you're married.

Stop in today and get a box of chocolates or bon bons.

If there's sickness at your home—nerves or constipation, or that run down feeling, or heart trouble, take a package of Dr. Miles' Medicines along with the candy.

WEAK BLOOD IS A REAL BARRIER

Growing Children Often Need Gude's Pepto-Mangan

Some children grow too quickly—it saps their strength. They lapse into careless, desultory habits, or develop a shrinking attitude. Their faces look pinched.

The blood becomes overtaxed by too rapid growth; and poisons from the system take the place of strength-giving red corpuscles in the blood. Red corpuscles are those little red particles that swim in the blood and give it its color. Gradually that child loses interest in its play.

Poor blood needs the building that the iron in Gude's Pepto-Mangan gives to weakened blood. Gude's Pepto-Mangan enriches the blood by increasing the number of red corpuscles, and restores the blood by driving out the poisons. When the revived blood gets to work, the appetite becomes what a growing child's should be. Your druggist has Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid or tablet form. The name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" is on every package.—Advertisement.

Give Credit to Egyptian.

No one knows who wrote the first book, but the claim is made that the world's first great work came from the pen of an Egyptian named Athotes. It was a history of his own nation written in 2112 B. C. The Latins, who excelled in literature long before any of their neighbors, had thought of the publishing business, were gallant enough to ascribe the inspiration to Europa, daughter of Agenor, king of Phoenicia, who lived in 1494 B. C. Just what they wrote under her influence in those days is not recorded. It is certain that Cadmus brought Phoenician letters into Greece in 1488 B. C., and there is enough evidence of published books during these early days to lead one to the conclusion that writing as a business or an art dates back into the earlier era of Egyptian and Phoenician civilization.

The Old, Old Story.

Six of them were engaged in a friendly game of nickel ante. They had been playing for only about two hours and the evening was yet young, when Jones suddenly pushed back his chair and declared:

"Gee whiz, fellows! I just happened to remember I promised my wife I'd be home by 11 o'clock. I'll have to leave right now."

The members of the game were old-timers, though, and the sudden awakening of Jones' conscience didn't fool anybody. Roberts voiced the sentiment of the crowd:

"Gee, Jonesy, old boy, I didn't know you was that much winner!"

Name Differently Applied.

The name "daddy longlegs" is applied in the United States to creatures closely related to spiders, while in England it is given to the crane flies.

20,000,000 Saw "Ben Hur"

During the twenty-one years that "Ben Hur" was being produced on the stage, it is estimated that 20,000,000 persons saw the play.

What Makes Joke Good.

Those who joke badly suppose that a joke is a frivolous way of saying something which, but for human weakness, one would say otherwise; but, in fact, a good joke is good because it could not be said otherwise; it expresses a truth in itself humorous, and when it occurs in a speech or in literature it comes because it must. So the best jokes depend on their context; in a way they are practical jokes, made by events, like a good repartee, which would be nothing but for the remark which has provoked it.—London Times.

Helps in Game of Life.

Life's game must be a winning game to keep the interest fresh. Every day should mark some advance toward the cherished goal. The fact that we achieve helps us to smile, and the smiles help to keep us young. The fearful never make a success of life's game. Timidity begets fear in themselves and those who work with them. It's the noose around the neck of every advance. Fear and undue reserve sounds the death knell of many a worthy endeaver.

Little Real Graham Flour.

Graham flour derives its name from Sylvester Graham, a Connecticut clergyman, who advocated the use of unbolted wheat flour as more conducive to health than white flour. His contentions have been fully borne out by recent discoveries in regard to vitamines. Much of the so-called Graham flour sold now is, however, merely white flour mixed with a little bran, or flour so coarsely ground as to be unpalatable.

Where Men Carry Fans.

The folding fan came originally from Japan. In the East fans were carried by both sexes and were much used at important ceremonies. The Japanese had war fans, colored bright red, and there are some fans which have a small poinard concealed in the handle. The folding fan was introduced to England in Henry VIII's time, coming from Italy, to which it had been introduced by Catherine de Medici.

Knew One, at Least.

It was an East end school. The teacher had been telling the children about Noah's ark and the Ark of the Covenant. And then she asked the class if anyone knew of any other ark in the Bible. The knowing boy, who had been spending his evenings rehearsing Christmas carols: "Yes, mum, 'Ark the 'erald angels sing!"—London Chronicle.

Washington's Harvest of Moss.

During the wet season the moss grows luxuriantly on the roofs and under the eaves of the houses in Seattle and that part of Washington, and when the dry season arrives this moss becomes so inflammable that it offers a great fire menace. It is necessary to tear it away and this is done with the aid of a long-handled tool something like a rake. In many communities there are laws which make this removal compulsory. It makes an excellent fertilizer.

LAME EVERY MORNING

A back that aches all day and causes discomfort at night is usually worse in the morning. Makes you feel as if you hadn't slept at all.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for weakened or disordered kidneys—been gratefully recommended by thousands. Ask your neighbor!

Harry E. Muir, Upper Fairmount, Md., says: "I can certainly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills as a remedy of merit. My kidneys were weak and a source of annoyance for some time. I often had severe soreness and a dull aching across the small of my back. Mornings, especially, I felt lame and the action of my kidneys was irregular. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and in a few days I was free from the aches and pains and my kidneys didn't trouble me any longer."

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills, the same that Mr. Muir had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

Mrs. Linoel Linsley and two children, Ruth and Charles, are guests of her mother, Mrs. Sallie H. Bedsworth.

Mrs. Beauchamp Bloodsworth left Wednesday for Baltimore, where she will join her husband and make Baltimore their future home.

A Timely Suggestion

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.

Good Photoplays This Week

Nobody who values American institutions, and in particular the sanctity of the American home, should miss seeing "The Face at Your Window" at the Auditorium Tuesday night. This William Fox dramatic spectacle tells the story of an American city which learned by bitter experience what great harm may be done by foreign agitators. Those in the cast are Gina Relly, Earl Metcalfe, Edward Roseman, Boris Rosenthal, Walter McEwen, Diana Allen, Alice Reeves, Frazer Coulter, William Corbett, Robert Cummings, Henry Armetta and Frank Farrington.

Thursday there will be featured an English film. "The Call of Youth," made by the Famous Players-Lasky British Producers from a play by the celebrated English dramatist, Henry Arthur Jones, in their English studio. You will have an opportunity to see a cast of famous British players as well as the most charming bits of English scenery. The cast are Mary Glynne, Majorie Hume, Jack Hobbs, Malcolm Cherry, Ben Webster, Gertrude Sterroll, Victor Humphreys, John Peachey and Ralph Foster.

Saturday night the 3rd episode of "Do or Die." What was the secret of the mysterious signet ring? Would it unlock the hiding place of buried pirate gold or was it just a fraud? See "Do or Die."

Celebration Of Armistice Day

There was a great celebration of Armistice Day—last Friday—at the Court House in Princess Anne. At about 11.50 a. m. a large number of townspeople assembled there, augmented by the school children, who in parade formation assembled and marched to the Court House for the exercises. Joshua W. Miles, in a few remarks, called attention to the proclamation of President Harding and Governor Ritchie requesting the people of the country to pause for a few minutes to pay tribute to the American boys who had made the supreme sacrifice in France. The singing of "America" was then led by Mrs. Garwood.

After the exercises at the Court House the teachers and children of the colored schools paraded through the streets of the town headed by the colored band, carrying small American flags.

Alexander D. Toadvin Dies Suddenly

Last Wednesday morning Mr. Alexander D. Toadvin, who was one of Salisbury's most prominent citizens, was suddenly stricken with an attack of heart trouble and died before assistance could be rendered him.

Mr. Toadvin, who was 49 years old, had served in the capacity of election judge of Precinct No. 2, Parsons district, all day Tuesday and had worked until late at night performing his duties.

He was the son of the late Alexander G. Toadvin and Mrs. Ellen Covington Toadvin. In politics he was a staunch Democrat and was a man who was universally liked throughout Wicomico county. The deceased is survived by his widow, who before her marriage was Miss Mary Riegart, and one sister, Miss Dora Toadvin.

Colored Agricultural Show

The Fifth Annual Colored Agricultural Show will be held at Metropolitan M. E. Church, Princess Anne, and will last three days—November 22nd, 23rd and 24th. Notwithstanding the unfavorable season, arrangements are being made by the men, women and children to make the display larger than ever.

Classes of exhibits will include fruits, vegetable, dairy and farm products besides the household department, which includes exhibits of canned fruits, vegetables, preserves, marmalades, jellies, pickles, bread, cakes, pies and needlework. An interesting progrom is being worked out by Local Agent L. H. Martin, which will include demonstrations, lectures and lantern slides.

Now that the Congressional Record has become obscene, it might as well add a comic section, movie section and race-track department and thus become a full-fledged yellow daily.

FINAL TRIBUTE TO DEAD HERO

Laid To Rest With All The Honors A Grateful Nation Could Pay

The historic old cruiser Olympia, bearing the body of America's unknown warrior, arrived in American waters last Tuesday. The cruiser anchored off the mouth of the Potomac river that morning at 7 o'clock.

High officials and officers of the War and Navy Departments met the Olympia when she docked at the Washington Navy Yard last Wednesday and completed the charge entrusted to her at Havre. Both Secretaries Weeks and Denby and their aides were among the party, as well as Admiral Coontz, Chief of Naval Operations, and Major General Lejeune, commandant of the Marine Corps, with their respective aides.

The historic catafalque on which the body of the unknown soldier laid in State was installed early Wednesday in the Capitol. The catafalque, which was the same mourning-draped structure which bore the bodies of former Presidents Lincoln, Garfield and McKinley, Admiral Dewey and Senators Hanna, of Ohio, and Bacon, of Georgia, was placed directly in the center of the rotunda under the Capitol dome, on a line beneath the Goddess of Liberty on the apex of the dome. The casket was east to west in the Capitol rotunda, on a line with the main doors, so that the public could pass by in double lines.

Great and small folk moved in endless procession last Thursday throughout the rotunda of the Capitol to pay tribute to the unknown dead lying in such state there as only martyred Presidents have known. All who could speak for groups in the land or for the powers of the world were free to place their floral offerings at his bier. Hour by hour the heaping flowers about the casket grew mountain high and spread about the vast chamber. Flowers that bloomed in France were there and flowers bright in all their beauty from South Africa, 6,000 miles away. There was not a minute of the day unclaimed by those who would do honor to the dead. There was no organization of veterans or of patriotic people over the land unrepresented.

Laid to rest with all the honors a grateful nation could pay, the unknown hero from France was bivouacked among the gallant dead last Friday in Arlington National Cemetery. The highest officers of the Army and Navy walked beside his coffin; none but the gallant comrades of the great war laid hands upon it. President Harding walked behind his bier to do him homage; former President Wilson made his first public appearance in months; General Pershing turned aside an opportunity to ride and trudged beside the body to the last resting-place.

When President Harding delivered the funeral address over the body of the "Unknown Soldier" last Friday his words were heard by the largest audience the human voice has ever reached. His voice was carried across the continent to New York and San Francisco, where a meeting composed of American Legion members and friends heard him plainly and distinctly through the medium of the "Loud Speaker." In addition, a loud speaking system had been installed in the Arlington National Cemetery and the vast multitude of people that gathered on the broad slopes of that beautiful place heard with perfect clearness every word of the President's address, every note of the singers, and every syllable of the solemn commitment services when they laid this "Unknown Hero" within his tomb.

Would Build Memorial School

President Samuel H. Fields and Secretary W. R. A. Palmer, of the Stephen H. Long Memorial Association of Worcester county, appeared before the County Board of Educators at Snow Hill last Thursday and asked for an appropriation of $10,000 to be used in the erection of the proposed Stephen H. Long Memorial High School in Pocomoke City.

The representatives of the association guaranteed that the colored people of Pocomoke City will buy and give two acres of land on which to erect the building and declare they had arranged with J. W. Buffington, State Superintendent of Colored Schools, to have every colored school child in the State contribute toward a fund for the school.

It is estimated that the proposed memorial to the recently killed county superintendent of colored schools will cost about $17,000.

The School Board promised to ask the County Commissioners for an appropriation of $10,000 for the purpose. It is planned to begin the construction of the proposed school building on April 1st, 1922, the fifty-sixth anniversary of Stephen H. Long's birth.

All things come to him who baits with an offer to give something for nothing.

MORE WOMEN THAN MEN

Females Outnumber Males In Three States 1920 Census Shows

The Department of Commerce, through the Bureau of the Census, has issued a preliminary statement giving the sex distribution of the total population and of its leading racial elements, by geographic divisions and States, as shown by the returns of the fourteenth decennial census, taken as of January 1, 1920. A statement showing the sex distribution of the total population for 1920 and earlier years was issued on June 27, 1921.

The total population of the United States as enumerated at the last census, 105,710,620, comprised 52,900,432 males and 51,810,189 females; the white population, 94,820,915, comprised 48,430,655 males and 46,390,260 females; the negro population, 10,463,131, comprised 5,209,436 males and 5,253,695 females; and the remaining elements of the population—Indians, Chinese, Japanese, etc.—which, taken as a group, numbered 426,574, comprised 260,340 males and 166,234 females.

For the total population the sex ratio, expressed as the number of males to 100 females, decreased from 106 in 1910 to 104 in 1920; for the white population it decreased from 106.6 to 104.4; for the negro population it increased from 98.9 to 99.2; and for the Indians, Chinese, Japanese, etc., it decreased from 185.7 to 156.6. The decrease in the sex ratio for the white population is due in part to the decline in the proportion of foreign-born white persons, among whom the males greatly outnumber the females and in part to other causes, including war losses.

In three States—Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New York—and in the District of Columbia, the females outnumbered the white males in 1920, the ratio for the District of Columbia being only 87 to 100. Of the eleven Western States—those in the Rocky Mountain and Pacific coast regions—Utah was the only one in which the ratio for the white population was less than 110 males to 100 females. The only States east of the Mississippi River in which the ratio was higher than the average for the United States in 1920 were West Virginia, Florida, Ohio, Michigan and Wisconsin; and the only States west of the Mississippi in which it was below the average for the country were Louisiana and Missouri.

Wilmington Synod In Session

Fifteen Bishops from 13 dioceses of the East, located in seven States, with 1,000 clerical and lay delegates, will assemble in Wilmington, Del., Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, November 15th, 16th and 17th, for the sixth Synod of the Province of Washington of the Protestant Episcopal Church. It will be one of the most remarkable and far-reaching religious assemblies ever held in Delaware.

Simultaneous with the holding of the business and social sessions of the men delegates, women delegates from each of the dioceses will hold sessions in other Protestant Episcopal churches of the city. They have their own program which is just as busy and elaborate as the men, with five and six sessions and meetings daily and in the evenings.

A Bishop, assisted by deputies, will represent each of the dioceses of Delaware, Bethlehem, Easton, Erie, Harrisburg, Southern Virginia, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Pittsburg, Washington, Virginia and West Virginia.

The Rt. Rev. William Cabell Brown, D. D., Bishop of Virginia, is president of the Synod.

DECREASE IN TUBERCULOSIS

Maryland Death Rate Declined 41 Per Cent. In Sixteen Years

Medical science and fresh air are winning in the fight against tuberculosis, which takes a higher toll of life in Maryland than any other disease, it is shown in records of the State Health Department. Mortality from the disease has decreased 41 per cent. in the last 16 years.

A danger signal is seen in the fact that the tuberculosis death rate among negroes is roughly two and one-third times higher than that for whites. In 1904 the death rate per 10,000 of pupulation among negroes was 42.27, compared with 16.84 for whites, and in 1920 it was 23.34 against 10.08. Because of the constant contacts of the two races, officials consider correction of this condition vital to both.

The figures explode a popular notion that tuberculosis is chiefly to be feared by persons under 40. They show that the toll of the disease is practically the same at all ages above 20.

A somewhat higher rate is shown for men than women. This is attributed to industrial employment, with exposure of the lungs to flint, steel and other harmful dust. It is cited as an illustration of the importance of protective machinery.

Reporting of cases to the State Health Department, which furnishes unlimited prophylactic supplies.

Employment of visiting nurses, who show patients how to care for themselves and not menace the health of others.

Improved living conditions, including sewage disposal, food inspection, water supply protection and improved ventilation.

The high rate among colored people is ascribed to unhygienic living habits and personal habits. Since they handle food, care for children, and have many other contacts, the danger of tuberculosis among them is regarded as equally threatening to the health of the whites.

The total death rate per 10,000 of population from pulmonary and laryngeal tuberculosis declined from 21.68 in 1904 to 18.39 in 1909, 17.59 in 1914, 14 in 1919 and 12.77 in 1920.

Illustrated Lectures On Forestry

The Maryland State Board of Forestry, in the conduct of its general educational work, offers to furnish free illustrated lectures on forestry and shade tree subjects where an audience of 50 can be assembled. Forestry, dealing as it does with activities in the woods, wild life, streams, mountains, camping, planting and care of trees, is particularly adapted to illustrations and the new project is being looked forward to with much interest in forestry circles.

Among the subjects offered are: The Forests of Maryland, Forest Protection, Fighting Forest Fires, the State Fire Protection System, Results of Forest Protection, The Uses of the Forest, Forest Management, Reforestation, Forest Recreation and Shade Trees.

The lecturers will be F. W. Besley, State Forester; K. E. Pfeiffer, former Assistant Forester; J. A. Cope, Assistant Forester, and Samuel Corbin, former Assistant Forester. Lectures can be obtained by communicating with the State Board of Forestry, 815 Calvert Building, Baltimore, Md.

BOYS TO HELP PROTECT TREES

Junior Forest Warden, A New Scout Grade, Will Be Organized

Creation of the grade of Junior Forest Warden, to be linked with the State Forest Protection Service, has been proposed to W. P. Bradley, executive of the Boy Scouts of Maryland. The Scout organization has always conferred merit badges upon the Scouts who have earned certain distinction by actual accomplishment and after one year of work as Junior Warden they will receive a bronze badge with "Junior Warden" at the top and "Maryland" on the bottom. In the center of the badge will be a tree surrounded by the seal of Maryland. They will also receive certificates of membership in the new organization.

In planning this work State Forester W. F. Besley has made it impossible for a Scout to obtain the badge or the certificate of membership unless he has met all requirements and accomplished the work he selected. A certificate to this effect will be necessary to the Scoutmaster.

In the event that the plan is accepted by the Scout organization it is planned to distribute bulletins and circular letters to all Scouts. There are several branches of the work and they will select the one which appeals to them and make application through their Scoutmaster for the position. All entering the contest will start work the first of next year and receive their badges and certificates at the end of the year.

Certain qualifications are necessary before a Scout becomes a junior warden. He must be a Scout in good standing and be familiar with the forest laws of Maryland. In addition, before he becomes a full-fledged warden, he must qualify under one of the following provisions: 1. Reporting and rendering voluntary assistance in suppressing a forest fire. 2. Planting trees and caring for them for one year. In this case he can either plant and care for one acre of forest trees or five or more shade trees along a public highway or other public places. 3. Keeping one mile of public highway clear of signs for one year.

In the case of planting one acre of forest trees, in which 1200 trees would be used, the work may be done by a whole troop and every member who does his share of the work will be eligible for membership. In caring for the road, each individual must select a mile and report his section to the office of the State Forester in Baltimore.

Any Scout who qualifies and maintains his standing as a junior forest warden will, upon graduating from the Scout organization, become a member of the Maryland Forestry Association. A fitting ceremonial will be held at the end of every year for the Scouts who are to receive the badges and certificates.

A Poor Oyster Season

Right at the start the oystermen of the tidewater counties are confronted by a condition that is most unusual in the history of the tonging business. First of all, the prices now prevailing are around the lowest mark in many years, and tongers are said to be compelled to catch three bushels of oysters in order to shuck out a gallon of oysters, where ordinarily one bushel will do the trick. This is because of the presence of mussels in countless millions. The famine is not one of shell stock, but because oysters have not developed as they should. It now requires from two to three times as many shell oysters to yield a gallon of shucked "meats" as it did in former years. Veteran oystermen say they have never seen such adverse conditions.

THE ELECTION IN MARYLAND

Democratic Tide Sweeps In Gordy By 24,378 Plurality

A State-wide Democratic tide on Tuesday swept the Democratic candidate for Comptroller into office; gave the Democrats 21 out of 27 State Senators and about 70 out of 100 members of the House of Delegates.

William S. Gordy, Jr., the Democratic candidate for Comptroller, was given a plurality in the counties and city of 24,378. When this is contrasted with the 55,000 plurality given President Harding last fall the result is considered all the more remarkable and indicative of an unmistakable swing of sentiment back toward the Democratic side.

In the Senatorship fights, of which there were 12, the Democrats won 10. In one fight they had no candidate and David A. Kobb, Republican, was elected in Allegany virtually by default, although William J. Trickett, independent, popple over 5,000 votes, considered a remarkable showing. The only real fight which went to the Republicans was in Caroline, where Lawrence B. Towers, Republican, defeated Dr. M. Bates Stephens, Democrat. It was expected that Towers would show strength, but that his victory should be as decisive as it was was probably a surprise even to Mr. Towers himself.

In two Republican counties the Democrats won, although the results had been forecasted before the election. In Garrett, with a heavy affiliated Republican majority, John W. McCullough, Democrat, won over John Shartzer, Republican, by about 270 votes.

In Charles county, where negroes outnumber whites, and where there is in consequence a heavy Republican majority, Senator Walter J. Mitchell was returned to the Senate over Albert J. Lomax, Republican.

In St. Mary's county, George C. Peverly, Democrat, won over A. Kingsley Love, Republican. In Dorchester, Samuel L. Byrn, Democrat, defeated Fred R. Waddell, Republican. In Cecil, Dr. H. A. Cantwell, Democrat, defeated S. Ralph Andrews, Republican. In Harford, Millard E. Tydings, Speaker of the last House of Delegates, defeated Frank E. Baker, Republican. In Montgomery, Dr. Eugene Jones, Democrat, defeated Edward L. Stock, Republican. In Talbot, John S. McDaniel, Democrat, defeated John A. Arringdale, Republican.

St. Mary's and Dorchester were considered very doubtful counties by the Democrats, and the ease with which they won is another indication of the Democratic swing. Harford, Cecil, Montgomery and Talbot were expected to go Democratic. The fight in the last, however, was very close, McDaniel for some reason running away behind Gordy. He only won by around 150 votes. Benjamin W. Fox, Democrat, was elected Senator in the Fourth district of Baltimore city, defeating Charles H. Heintzman, Republican.

There were fewer upsets in the House of Delegates contests than among those for the Senate. Democrats secured solid delegations from all four districts in Baltimore city, Baltimore county, Wicomico, Talbot, Caroline, Queen Anne's, Kent, Harford, Anne Arundel, St. Mary's Worcester and Montgomery. The Republicans secured solid delegations in Garrett, Allegany, Charles, Calvert, Carroll and Somerset. The Democrats took two out of six in Washington county, two out of five in Frederick, four out of five in Prince George's, two out of three in Cecil, two out of three in Dorchester and one out of two in Howard.

Democrats Make Gains In Four States

Final summation of results of Tuesday's "off year" elections throughout the country indicated substantial gains for the Democrats in four States—Maryland, Kentucky, Virginia and New York—while municipal ballots in many cities resulted in changes of party control.

The outstanding case of State-wide Democratic victory was in Kentucky, where that party regained control of the Legislature, which has been Republican for two years.

In Virginia, the Democratic gubernatorial candidate, State Senator E. Lee Trinkle, led his Republican opponent by a wide margin, which extended also to his running mates, including J. Murray Hooker, the party's candidate for Representative in Congress.

In the New York Assembly, the Democrats increased their representation by 23 seats, although the Republicans, with a total of 96 Assemblymen, still retained a wide working margin.

Albany, long regarded as the stronghold of Republicanism in this State, will have a Democratic Administration for the first time in 22 years.

GRAPHIC TALE OF U-BOAT MURDERS

British Captain Testifies to Submerging That Cost the Lives of Crew.

THREE SHIPS ARE TORPEDOED

German Commander to Be Put on Trial for Brutally Inhuman Acts at Sea—Captain Is Ship's Only Survivor.

London.—A graphic account of the torpedoing of the British steamship Torrington in April, 1917, and the subsequent fate of the crew was given by the only survivor at Bow street police court, says the Daily Telegraph, when Sir Chartres Biron sat for the purpose of taking evidence on commission in support of charges which have been formulated against the submarine commander, a Captain Wilhelm Werner.

Mr. V. M. Gattie conducted the proceedings on behalf of the British government and Doctor Bunger represented the German government.

Mr. Gattie explained that Werner was one of the German officers against whom it was proposed that proceedings should be taken at Leipzig. He had not yet been arrested, but it was thought desirable that, while Captain Starkey, the principal witness, was in London his deposition should be taken, so that in the event of the accused man being apprehended there need be no delay in his trial.

The charge against Werner was that he, being in command of the submarine U-55 on April 8, 1917, in the North Atlantic, 150 miles southwest of the Scilly Isles, torpedoed the British steamship Torrington, and afterward wilfully murdered, by drowning, 34 members of the crew. That was the vessel's total complement other than Captain Starkey, who was the only survivor.

The Torrington was owned by the Tatham Steamship company of Cardiff, and was proceeding from Gibraltar to Cardiff. She was an ordinary merchant vessel, not a war vessel at all, and carried one gun for purely defensive purposes, as many ships did during the war. On the morning of April 8 the second mate reported that there were some lifeboats on the port bow, and the course of the Torrington was slightly varied with the object of rendering assistance if necessary.

Insulted by German Captain.

Suddenly Captain Starkey noticed the wake of a torpedo which was coming towards him. He maneuvered, but was unable to avoid it, and the torpedo struck the ship, which did not immediately sink but was considerably damaged. Soon afterwards the submarine came to the surface and opened fire on the Torrington. Apparently the firing was not very successful, for nobody was killed and the vessel was not further damaged. Seeing that there was no possibility of saving the ship, Captain Starkey gave orders for the crew to take to the lifeboats. The port boat left with some of the men under the first mate, and Captain Starkey took command of the starboard boat.

When the latter was about a quarter of a mile from the Torrington the submarine drew up close, and Captain Starkey and the men with him were ordered to go on board. They obeyed, and Werner took Starkey below and, after asking some questions, told him he was a pirate and would be taken to Germany and shot, while as for the crew they could swim. Directly afterwards Werner went on deck, the alarm rang for stations, and the submarine submerged and remained so for twenty minutes. Everyone of the twenty men who had been left on deck was washed off and drowned, and as regarded the men in the other lifeboat, the only assumption was that they were disposed of in some way or other. They were never seen or heard of again, although the sea was perfectly smooth and their boat was in perfect condition.

Before the submarine submerged members of the German crew got into Captain Starkey's lifeboat and rowed away, and they afterwards returned with loot from the Torrington and also provisions, which were identified by Captain Starkey as having been in the other lifeboat. Captain Starkey was afterwards kept a prisoner on the submarine, and while he was on board two other British ships were torpedoed and their crews disposed of in the same way. He was eventually taken to Germany, and after the armistice he came back to this country and told his story.

Insulted by German Captain.

Capt. Anthony Starkey of Cardiff gave evidence bearing out counsel's statement. He said he was thirty-four years of age and was now master of the steamship Brendon. Describing what took place after he went on board the submarine, he said that Werner, who spoke good English, asked him his name, and when he told him he said, "You lie," and pushed over an old copy of Lloyd's Register, in which the name of the previous captain of the Torrington appeared.

Witness explained that he had only been captain of the vessel for four months, and Werner then asked if he had any gunners on board. He replied that they were on deck, and Werner remarked that he did not see anyone in uniform. Witness replied in a jocular manner that he had not given them time to put on their best clothes.

Mr. Gattie—If you had known he was coming you would have dressed up for it. Was it the practice for gunners to be dressed in uniform?

Witness—No; they were members of the crew. Werner then said, "You are a d— pirate. You deserve to be shot, and as for the others, let them swim."

Had you any idea then what he meant? No, I thought it was just an expression like "Let them rip," meaning let them go, don't bother about them. Werner then went away and the submarine submerged.

Continuing, witness said that after the submarine came to the surface again the German sailors returned in the Torrington's lifeboat, and he noticed that they had, among other things, some of his personal clothing and also tins of meat which had been in the port lifeboat. About two hours later witness heard that the Torrington was sinking. When witness arrived on the submarine he found two other British captains already there—Captain Draper of the Umvoti and Captain Ashfield of the Petridge—both of whose ships had been sunk.

Told He Was Lucky.

Mr. Gattie—Did you have any conversation with the members of the submarine's crew?

Yes, I was bemoaning my fate, and a man named Kuper, who was leading seaman, said, "You are lucky you have your life." On another occasion I was talking to the senior wireless operator, and he also said I was lucky to be alive, and added, "There are too many about now or I would tell you something more." I used to get the English wireless news every night from this man, and one night he said: "Your crew never got home. They were all drowned."

Witness went on to say that on April 14 the submarine sunk another ship, named the Tora. The captain was brought below by Werner and the submarine then submerged, as she had done after the Torrington was torpedoed. When she rose again Werner sent for witness and asked him if he would like to see a ship sink. For the sake of getting some fresh air he replied, "Yes," and he went up into the conning tower and saw the Tora a short distance away. She did not, however, sink until some time later.

Two or three days later another vessel was sunk by gunfire, and again the submarine submerged after the captain had been brought below. In neither case, as far as witness could see, was there any necessity for submerging. Witness was eventually landed at Heligoland and remained a prisoner until December, 1918. Before he left the submarine one of the officers gave him a piece of torpedo as a souvenir and a pass bearing the U-boat's number and the commander's name.

Replying to Doctor Bunger, Captain Starkey said the Torrington was chartered by the Italian State railways. He could not explain how it was that he was allowed to escape alive when he might become such an important witness. He supposed Captain Werner did not think he knew what had happened to the crew.

Doctor Bungar—Several German witnesses have stated that a British destroyer was approaching while this was taking place.

Witness—There was no destroyer near, to my knowledge. If a destroyer had been approaching, the submarine would not have come to the surface twenty minutes afterward.

Rout Young Lady Just as Young Man Starts to Make Proposal of Marriage.

Chicago.—There is one young man in Lake Forest who has sworn vengeance against members of the bee family for all time.

It came about through the efforts of Policeman George Kelly, assigned to the beach at Lake Bluff, to stop spooning on the beach.

Kelly was unable to watch all of the shady glens formed by the groups of poplar trees and attend to his other duties about the beach at the same time. So he transported a number of bees' nests to these nooks.

Thursday night a young Lake Forest couple who have been spending much time together this summer, visited the beach. The young man decided the moment had come to pop the question. So he led the fair one to the shade of the popular glen, gulped a few times, and got under way.

"Sit down," he said. "There is something I must say to you."

She sat, but rose quickly, and with a scream dashed down the beach. Good-night, romance.

Colorado Springs, Colo.—Lawrence Gray, a full-blood Osage Indian, who is ill of pellagra, at a sanatorium here, is receiving numerous offers of marriage from friends who are charmed by his beauty or pleased at the prospect of his early death.

One of these admirers repeatedly has applied for a license to County Clerk A. E. Jackson. The latter wired to E. H. Mettingly, Gray's guardian, for instructions.

The reply has been received, and reads: "Gray is mentally and physically ill. Issue no license."

In addition to being ill physically, Gray's mind is deranged as the result of the disease. He is owner of valuable oil lands in Oklahoma, and wealthy. He is thirty years old.

Cite Lord's Prayer in Legal Brief

St. Louis.—A petition in the Lord's Prayer was quoted in a brief filed by counsel for nine bakeries who are attempting to enjoin the enforcement of an ordinance requiring bakeries to be closed after 9 a. m. on Sundays.

"Advocates of this law are guilty of hypocrisy and fly in the face of a divine mandate," said the brief. "In the Lord's Prayer we find the petition: 'Give us this day our daily bread.' Bread is needed on Sunday as much as on any other day, even though legislative Holy Rollers make that prayer a mockery and try to prevent the Lord from acceding to our request."

The brief also asserts that the closing ordinance is in conflict with a state law which permits the Sunday sale of drugs and provisions.

FIND FOOTPRINT IN LAVA

Imprint of Perfect Spanish Shoe Discovered in Ancient Lava Flow in Hawaii.

Hilo, Island of Hawaii, T. H.—The imprint of "a practically perfect shoe, with narrow toe, waist of the foot and heel being clearly defined," has been found in the surface of an ancient lava flow on the west coast of Hawaii, near the ancient city of refuge known as Honaunau, has aroused great comment and speculation throughout the territory.

The first Spaniards to touch the island were said to have come in 1575, when tradition said that a Spanish vessel was wrecked on the southeast coast of the island. But the city of refuge was built in the Eleventh century and there is no evidence that any lava flow came down the mountainside of the volcano Mauna Loa, which rises 14,000 feet above the city of refuge, since the city was built. Consequently, it is presumed that the lava flow containing the shoe imprint is of a much more ancient day than 1100, indicating that Spaniards visited the island long before 1575.

Like many of the other strange things contained on the 4,000 square-mile volcanic island of Hawaii, the problem of the "Spaniard's foot" probably will never be solved.

The truffle is an edible fungus growth found in certain parts of Europe, growing a few inches underground, and is considered a delicacy for the table. Dogs are often trained to find them. Then the man digs up the truffle.

MOUNTAINS FLOAT LIKE ICEBERGS

Interesting Researches Made by the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey.

CHANGES GEOLOGICAL SCIENCE

Mountain Masses Found to Be Due to the Presence of Lighter Material in Earth's Crust Under Them.

Washington.—Mountains float. Cubic yard for cubic yard, mountains weigh less, not more, than the valleys. The mountains are held up by the lighter material of the earth's crust flowing under them. This has been proved by researches conducted by the division of geodesy of the coast and geodetic survey, under the direction of Dr. William Bowie, chief of the division, and his predecessor, Prof. John F. Hayford, now with Northwestern university.

It has been found that the earth's crust is about sixty miles in thickness, and near that depth, probably below, the material of the earth is yielding to forces which act for long times.

The earth's crust floats on this yielding material. If the earth's crust were cut into blocks by vertical planes, with the base of each block at a depth of sixty miles below sea level, and the area of the bases of the blocks were the same and as large as 100 miles square, these blocks would have the same mass; that is, they would weigh the same.

Weight Is Equal.

By means of the geodetic observations by the United States coast and geodetic survey, the weight of these blocks have been found to be approximately equal. This result had been suspected for decades, but Doctors Bowie and Hayford have proved it.

Geological science will be profoundly changed by this discovery, for now we know the mountain masses are due to the presence of lighter material in the earth's crust under them, and that the ocean bottoms are low because the material under them is denser or heavier than the average.

Doctor Bowie concludes that there is no tendency for the mountain masses to break down through the earth's crust, as they are not extra loads. They are like the portions of icebergs projecting out of the water which are held up by the ice which is below or in the water. The iceberg floats, and so does the mountain.

Doctor Bowie also holds that, as mountain system are in areas which were once very low in elevation, mountains are caused by a swelling of the material in the earth's crust under them. A lessening of the density of three per cent in a column 60 miles long will elevate the area about 9,000 feet. Such a change in density, due to physical or chemical changes, is within reasonable limits.

Flow Is Below Crust.

As the mountains, plateaus, valleys and the ocean areas are in equilibrium there must have been a transference of material from the column of the earth's crust under an area where sediments are deposited, back to the area from which the material was eroded by water and wind. Doctor Bowie believes that the flow of material takes place just below the crust, that is somewhat below 60 miles. The exact depth at which the flow from one column to another takes place may never be discovered.

Doctor Bowie states that, as material is eroded from a mountain area, the new material pushed in at the bottom will tend to keep the average elevation of the mountain system approximately constant. When material is pushed into the column under a mountain system to counter-balance the eroded matter, every particle of the column is carried upward into a colder zone. Under areas of heavy sedimentation, the material of the earth's crust is pushed down into hotter regions. A piece of material may thus be raised up or carried down as much as six miles and, at times, more. The great changes in temperature are probably the cause of the uplift of a mountain system in an area of sedimentation, and of the sinking of the surface where erosion has been great.

Columbia Professors in Amazon River Basin Discover Strange Insects and Drugs.

New York.—New drug plants and species of insects have been discovered in the Amazon river basin by the Mulford biological exploration party, according to word received at the Columbia university school of pharmacy, from the head of the expedition, Dr. H. H. Rusgy. Curious forms of reptiles and birds have also been encountered, in addition to botanical specimens of great scientific value.

Doctor Rusby, who is sixty-four years old, reported that his expedition was proceeding by rafts down the Bopi river, after spending three weeks in the vicinity of Canamina and Espia at the head of navigation of this waterway. Richer vegetation was encountered as the expedition penetrated into the little-known regions of the interior of Bolivia.

ONE BEAN FEEDS LARGE PARTY

Nebraska Judge Entertains Friends With Product of a Seed Brought From South.

Loup City, Neb.—County Judge E. A. Smith gave a bean dinner to 20 of his friends the other day. Bean dinner is used in the singular. Just one bean was served at the dinner. Before it passed through the hands of the judge's cook it was three feet long and then some.

A substantial portion was served to each of the 20 guests, and there was enough left for the family lunch the next day.

Some beans of this variety grow six feet in length and one vine will produce dozens of them. When the giant wonder bean, as it has been renamed, was shown at the county fair, most visitors to the exhibit declared it to be a gourd. But the judge says it tastes like a bean and is a bean.

Worth While Lives.

Life pays big dividends to those who hear and obey the immemorial and immutable commandments of the Master of life. The broken man of forty is a misfit. His sins of omission and commission have found him out. He goes to the rubbish heap. But men like our octogenarian disciples of work, having earned the right to live, go on through the years confident and serene, relizing that life is worth while. They make it worth while for themselves and for multitudes of their fellow men.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Effect of High Altitudes.

At a high altitude the atmospheric pressure is much less than at sea level. This decrease in pressure produces a lowering of the temperature at which water boils. Since water can be boiled at a lower temperature, an egg can be cooked more quickly at sea level, provided the temperature is sufficiently high to cook the egg. At a height of 18,000 feet, water cannot be heated in open vessels above 180 degrees Fahrenheit, and this is not hot enough to set the white of an egg.

Curious South-Sea Jargon.

Beach-la-mer is a curious jargon which has developed as a means of communication between English-speaking traders and the islanders of the western Pacific. It derives its name from that of an edible marine organism, the fishing of which flourished in the South seas in the middle of the last century. Nearly all the words in this language are English, but they are strung together by the natives in accordance with the rules of their own speech.

BLIND MAN IS GOOD MACHINIST

TAKING UNIVERSITY COURSE

Foreman in Shop Says He Is as Good as the Best and Better Than Many —Reads Micrometer Readily.

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Blind Gerald Ensing of Grand Rapids is working in the engineering shops of the University of Michigan, and daily operates lathes, drill presses, grinders, shapers and planers, and according to the shop foreman, E. M. Sweet, he is doing it as well as the best, and better than most of the other students in the shop.

Ensing has been blind since he was eight years old. He is studying in the university on a Red Cross scholarship for the blind, given by the Detroit chapter of the national organization. He has pledged himself to devote himself to teaching other blind people how to become self-supporting after he has completed his work here. For the past five years he has taught the blind the art of basketry, which he himself learned in the Michigan School for the Blind, and has taught them other trades also.

Help for Sightless.

"I demonstrated to my own satisfaction that blind men could work on factory machines," he said, "but I had difficulty in getting places for the blind. Then came the Red Cross scholarship offer. I will get to know the men and they to know me and my work. They will see what a blind man can do, and I believe they will help to open the doors of the manufacturing plants to the sightless. Of course in shops of special production where the work must be done from a blue print, the blind man would be too greatly handicapped, and in shops where there is a great deal of noise there is a great hazard for him."

Ensing came to the university about six months ago and was led through the shops, past the whirling machinery, and told where each piece set, and what it was and where there were belts in which his clothing might get tangled. After that he threaded his way among the machines without help, and operated his own machine without accident. Some of the machinery he operates makes above 800 revolutions a minute.

Ensing believes drill pressure machines lend themselves especially well to blind operators. Metal-working factories offer greater opportunities to the sightless than the wood-working industries do. The greatest possibilities for the blind operators, he believes, will be found in the plant of quantity production of small articles.

Foreman Sweet says: "Mr. Ensing's work is not performed automatically, as one might suppose. It can't be done that way on some of the machines. He reasons, and he sees with his sensitive fingers what another man sees with his eyes. We allow every student a limit of 3-1,000 of an inch in the work he does, but Mr. Ensing never uses up that margin. I can't say the same of most of them."

Proves His Efficiency.

The foreman admitted that he saw Ensing come into the shops with dread. "When he wanted to be put on the planer I rebelled, but after the first day on the planer I forgot all about it. He reads a micrometer as accurately and as readily as any other student. He has rigged up a little contrivance that he attaches to the instrument—just two rubber bands and a needle—and with the help of his fingers he reads quicker than some of the men who have their sight. He uses every machine in the shop except the dry grinder, and I expect every day to hear him demand that. He operates the cylindrical grinder, milling machines, engine and turret lathes, drill presses, shapers and planers. His work is a marvel of neatness, and he is chain lightning for speed."

While a student in the state school for the blind Ensing played guard on the school's football team.

"There is no reason why a blind man with a normal brain can't work and enjoy himself as well as the man who can see," Ensing says. "True, we miss the great blessing of sight, and none of us but long for our sight, but I sometimes wonder if the blind have not a keener sense of enjoyment of the things they can and do enjoy than have those who can see."

Fire Worshipers in London.

London.—Fire worshipers have opened headquarters of their own in London. Generous donations from rich Indians have obtained for the "Parsee Association of Europe" a large house in the West end, where Zoroastrian religious ceremonies are to be conducted and where bodies of dead Parsees may find a resting place before burial.

Small Boy's Great Weight.

Shelbyville, Ind.—Leslie Dake, eleven years of age, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Dake of Fairland, Shelby county, is believed to weigh more than any other boy in Indiana of his age. The youngster, who is five feet tall, weighs 245 pounds. He was born at Brookfield in Moral township and is now in the sixth grade at school.

THE Ford worm-driven, One-Ton Truck with demountable rims and pneumatic tires, are dependable, as well as serviceable. This, probably more than any other factor, accounts for their popularity. There is no evidence so convincing as that which comes from long practical experience. Like the Ford car, the Ford One-Ton Truck—Ford-built throughout—has proven itself. In it are combined the Ford principles of simplicity, with strength, lowest first cost, lowest operating cost, durability.

In the city, on the farm, carrying its loads between cities—everywhere you will find the Ford One-Ton Truck doing duty. Merchants, manufacturers, farmers, have come to know it as the truck of utmost service.

MORE and more every day the demand for Fordson Tractor increases because the Fordson has demonstrated so much usefulness, so much economy, so much labor saving, so much money saving, along so many lines of activity. The farmer has discovered that not only for plowing, harrowing, discing, seeding, mowing, reaping or threshing, but a multitude of other uses; cutting wood; feed; grinding feed; churning; washing; furnishing water in the house; making electric light possible in the house and around the barns, so that, as a matter of fact, there is hardly an hour in the day when the Tractor cannot be made a profitable servant. There is ditching to do; there are roads to fix; and so on all down along the line of the enormous calls that constantly face the farmer the Fordson steps in and does the work, shoulders the complete burden of the toil and the hard work, one might almost say "drudgery." It is claimed that jazz music must go. Some folks in this town living next door to active phonographs think so.

A milk strike in some localities might cause suffering, but in New York city they are more dependent on other fluids.

Railroad labor seems to have concluded to wait and see if it can't get a base on balls instead of striking and striking out.

The report that improper language was printed in the Congressional Record may have produced a demand for extra copies.

The young men are interesting themselves in education to the extent of investigating which is the prettiest school teacher.

The folks who are asking too high prices should reflect on where sugar was at the top of the boom and where it is now.

Much is being said about missing girls and certainly a large number of them disappear about the time mother does the dishes.

It is claimed that some people wear glasses just for the looks of the thing, but you can't get a reputation for wisdom merely by putting on horned spectacles.

It is expected that the armament conference delegates will have very cordial and fraternal feelings about the time they open up refreshments.

Hunters under the Pennsylvania law have to display their license numbers on their backs and in Maryland on their arms. Now if they will only blow horns and carry lights the public will be a little safer.

The official returns of Somerset county, published on our first page, show that the Republicans elected all their candidates with the exception of Lafayette Ruark, who was defeated by Hardy B. Cullen, Democratic candidate for Register of Wills. Charles S. Dryden, candidate for Sheriff, defeated his Democratic opponent, Charles P. Barnes, by only 3 votes. Harry T. Phoebus, Republican candidate for County Commissioner, made a remarkable run, defeating his Democratic opponent, Frank Harrington, by 701 majority. R. Mark White was re-elected County Treasurer by 478 majority, defeating John B. Roberts, Democrat. Members elected to the House of Delegates are John W. Dize, Harry T. Nelson and William David Webster.

THE UNKNOWN SOLDIER DEAD

Public ceremonies usually follow certain stereotyped forms. But the observances in honor of an unknown soldier, which have figured so prominently in Europe since the war and which have the key note for Armistice Day observances at Arlington cemetery, Washington, suggest a new idea.

How has it come about that humanity all through Europe and America is meeting in these solemn conclaves and holding these impressive functions, with the body of some unknown man before them? Probably that unknown was some very humble fellow, who passed obscurely through life. And now he lies in state in some great national burial place. The multitudes venerate him as they cast the flowers of memory and hope on his exalted grave.

Perhaps the reason is that humanity has come as never before to recognize the worth of the individual man. In years past the kings and the captains summoned the masses of the people to come and go to war for them. What the individual soldier thought made no difference. It was his duty to get out with his gun and fight for his king. He had no possible quarrel with the enemy. But that made no difference. He was simply cannon fodder.

Today war is becoming an affair of the peoples. Kings have been put into the discard. War will not be fought, unless the people feel called on to fight, which may never occur again on any grand scale.

The nations realize that every individual life has its nobility and they honor every man who goes out to defend his country. He has ceased to be a mere pawn to be moved around by kings, but has become one of the sovereigns of the earth. It is fitting that some representative of him should be laid to rest in national burial places, while the great ones of the earth applaud.

THE MAN WITH THE RAKE

Poets have become disturbed about the sorrows of the "man with the hoe." They picture him as bowed down under the weight of toil, so physically weary with his labors that he has no joy in living, or leisure for intelligent thought.

But no one ever wrote any pessimistic poetry about the "man with the rake." He is a more cheerful figure. He gets out on these nice fall days and as he scratches over his lawn disorderly accumulations of rubbish and dead leaves resolve themselves into neat piles and soon are consumed by the crackling flames of the fall bonfire.

EARLY HOLIDAY BUYING

Retail stores in many places are already putting notices in their windows saying "Do your Christmas shopping early." This year there is a very strong added reason for such a policy. Formerly a great deal was said about the severe pressure brought on store clerks and mail and express employes by the habit of buying Christmas presents during the brief period before the holiday and then sending them all in a heap. It is a most inhuman and preposterous practice, and all that has been said previously applies now.

This year, if people would start right in today and buy their Christmas stuff it would do a lot to help trade. Many factories are still running on short time. If the merchants could by the first of December clean up a good share of their holiday trade it would enable them to go ahead and buy new stuff. This would set to work a lot of people who would be idle or employed only on part time, and would help them get through the hard times of winter.

There is bound to be more activity in trade after Christmas anyway. The big holiday rush always turns a lot of goods into money and permits renewed buying and sends a thrill of energy into the work of manufacturing production all over the country.

Now the question arises whether the country will get that new impulse of activity in January as the result of a big clean-up of goods in December? Or can it come in December, as the result of a big clean-up of goods in November? If a lot of people who have been finding fault with poor business would simply get busy and buy now the things they would buy anyway next month, it would produce a big business revival at once and bring prosperous times one month nearer. Any merchant in this town would tell you that a rush of buying in November would permit him to place new orders for stuff a month earlier than he otherwise would.

Good Health

If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well, when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle.

A FEW THOUGHTS FOR THE HUNTERS

Last week was the opening of the hunting season and from all reports game abounds all through the forested sections of the State. The past summer seems to have been especially favorable for the development of broods of young quail.

Good sport is promised for all devotees of the gun. To the true sportsman, however, there are certain obligations that go with the sport. Of prime significance is the necessity of care with fire in the woods. A little camp fire left unextinguished, a careless match or cigarette butt thrown among dry leaves may start a forest fire that will sweep over vast areas and beside doing great damage to the young timber, will kill the very game that the forest shelters.

There are six lookout towers, 16 Forest Patrolmen, and over two hundred Forest Wardens in Maryland, all working together to protect Maryland's forests from fire. Let every hunter solemnly pledge himself to help make Maryland's forests safe from fire.

Laws against assault and battery seem a little unreasonable when the couple behind you at the movies carries on an animated conversation.

How Not To Take Cold

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over-heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.

THE HARDWARE QUESTION SOLVED

Do You Need a New Cook Stove

It's a waste of time and energy to try to cook and bake with the old-fashioned cook stove—and, worse still, an actual waste of fuel. The modern kitchen stoves and ranges are marvels of efficiency, economy and convenience in comparison. They make cooking and baking easier, cheaper and more uniform.

We have them in the best makes—for small families and for large—with coal or wood grates—malleable, rust-proof and with the latest inventions and attachments.

We are always glad to show our stock and to point out the features that make ours the best.

Universal Products

Make Your Home Comfortable For Your Wife

TAKE the family washing and ironing, for instance—two of the hardest, most depressing tasks American women have had to endure. The Universal Products plant frees the women of the home for all time from the dreaded "blue Monday."

Here is power for many uses in the home and on the farm—for churning butter, doing the sweeping; the washing and for pumping water, running the dairy machinery—in fact for all the round of duties that take so much time that can nowadays be put to better use.

And there are hours gained for leisure and comfort and grace of living. Bright, cheerful, genial light—evenings pleasanter, the family happier and everybody more comfortable at home.

Universal Products Light and Power keeps workers contented. Its labor-saving economy enables them to actually accomplish more 365 days in the year.

Let us show you this simple, economical plant. It costs less than you think. It produces more than you believe possible. Let us demonstrate some of the 1700 things it will do for you.

The gunning season having opened many of our sportsmen have been out in the fields with gun and dog in quest of birds and rabbits. Two of our townsmen were out last Friday and it is said that they left enough lead on the land over which they hunted to sink it, and yet they brought home only four birds.

The Fifth Annual County Agricultural show will be held in the Court House this week. The exhibition will start Thursday and will close Saturday evening. All exhibits must be entered by 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. All farmers and their families are invited to enter exhibits and attend the show during the three days.

During last week a suspected case of hog cholera appeared on the farm of Mr. J. W. Revell, near Princess Anne. Dr. C. J. McLaughlin visited the farm and stated that he thought it was a case of cholera and that it would be advisable for the farmers in the community to keep a close watch on their hogs and have them inoculated. Cholera has also appeared on several farms in the vicinity of Pocomoke City.

Mr. Newell J. Hayman, of the Davis Undertaking Company, of Clarksburg, W. Va., was elected as a member of the city council from the Fourth ward at a meeting of that body held Wednesday night, November 2nd. Mr. Hayman is prominently known about Clarksburg, having formerly conducted the Hayman Greenhouse there, but retired from that business to become associated with the Davis Undertaking establishment. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Littleton Hayman, of near Princess Anne, and formerly resided in this town.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Moore left last Sunday for Winter Haven and Lakeland, Florida, where they will spend the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson C. Young and Mr. Joseph A. Richardson, of Snow Hill, spent the week-end with relatives in Princess Anne.

Mr. and Mrs. Ridgley R. Fisher and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Harmanus Fisher, of Baltimore, spent several days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Earle B. Polk, of South Main street.

Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Culver entertained the following guests at dinner last Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, of Snow Hill; Mrs. O. F. Bounds and daughter, Nannie, of Princess Anne, and Mrs. J. Wesley Butler and daughter, Dorothy, of Marion Station.

Carroll A. Wise, colored, son of John T. and Carrie U. Wise, of Champ, Md., while working on a dredge boat in Tangier Sound for Capt. William McDaniel, was struck by a crank handle and knocked overboard on Wednesday, November 2nd. He was 19 years of age. His body has not as yet been recovered.

Miss Lottie M. Walker, who has been spending three weeks with her sister, Mrs. E. S. Learey, in Greensboro, N. C., and her brother, M. Guy Walker, in Norfolk, Va., came to Princess Anne last Saturday. She will spend a week or ten days with her father and brothers before her return to Swansea, Mass.

One day last week while returning to her home in Lawsonia by automobile, Mrs. Alma Thornton became bewildered in running the car and crashed into a telegraph pole near the factory of Topkis Brothers, Inc. A car was coming each side of her when she lost her head. The automobile was damaged to the extent of $50 and Miss Rebecca Gates, a passenger, was badly cut by flying glass from the windshield.

Mr. Frank Cooksey, 21 years, of near Princess Anne, was instantly killed last Tuesday morning while loading mine props at Loretto Station, New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk Railroad, when a grab broke, releasing the heavy prop under which he was standing. The prop fell upon his head crushing his skull. Funeral services were held last Wednesday afternoon and interment was in the church yard at Revell's Neck.

November, especially the nights of the 14th and 15th, is the best time to watch for meteors, or "shooting stars." Usually more can be seen at this time than at any other. A few strike the earth. Most of the shooting stars we see, however, become so hot as they pass through the air that they are completely burned up before they get to the earth's surface. That is, they are changed into gas and as the gas cools, it falls as dust upon the earth.

Moving pictures of the great Maryland oyster industry, from the catching of the oyster on the bottom until it reaches the consumer, were recently made under the direction of the Maryland Conservation Commission. The oyster grounds of Tangier sound and the shucking houses in Crisfield were used as the setting for the pictures. The pictures are of an educational nature and will be thrown on the screen in movie theatres throughout the country.

The Red Cross Roll Call throughout the country is now being held and will end this week. Most of the people in the county will be seen personally and asked to join. There will necessarily be some persons in the county who will not be seen by the solicitors, they are asked to send in their dollars to the nearest local chapter and receive the proper membership certificate. Conditions in the country this year make the work of the Red Cross more important than ever before.

The railroads and associated express companies have started a movement to improve the packing and marking of all the shipments made by the freight and express, and have designated this month as "Perfect Package Month." During this month all shipments will be closely inspected as to containers, packing and marking, and special reports will be prepared covering all exceptions. These reports will be sent to shippers for their guidance in the proper preparation of future shipments. The co-operation of shippers is essential to the success of the campaign, which should accomplish much in the way of eliminating loss and damage claims, and minimize delays in shipments and complaints of shippers.

Auto Accidents Show Gain

There were seven more automobile accidents last month than in October of last year, or in October of 1919, according to the figures compiled by the office of Motor Vehicle Commissioner E. Austin Baughman.

In last month there were 232 accidents, nine of which were fatal. In October of last year there were 225, of which nine were fatal. In October of 1919 there were 225 accidents, of which 11 were fatal.

Look At The Date On Pink Label

The little pink label on your paper does more than bring this paper to you faithfuliy week after week, giving you the news of your friends, your county, of your State. It tells you at a glance just how many more weeks will elapse before your subscription expires. Look at the label today and see if you are in arrears and renew your subscription. By doing this you will render a great service to the Marylander and Herald and at the same time will assure yourself of the satisfaction of receiving the paper promptly and without interruption. If the label shows that your subscription is out or in arrears, mail a money order or check for $1.50, as all subscriptions must be paid in advance.

Card Of Thanks

The pastor, Rev. J. A. Tumblin, and members of the First Baptist Church of Princess Anne wish to take this means of expressing their sincere appreciation to the County Commissioners and to Judge Duer for their kindness in permitting them to use the Court House for their services until they were able to go in the new church. While our church is not yet completed we are now holding our services there in the morning of each Sunday—Sunday school at 10 and preaching at 11 o'clock.

We wish to extend a hearty welcome to all to come and visit us. We have placed our order for a heating plant which will be installed in a few days, then when our lights are connected we promise one and all a good night service every Sunday evening.

A Timely Suggestion

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.

WORLD WAR MEN GOVERN CITY

Minneapolis Entrusts Entire Municipal Control to Veterans, With George Leach as Mayor.

With the service men of the United States unwillingly beginning to believe that the people thereof have entirely forgotten them, the city of Minneapolis is a flourishing oasis in the alleged desert of dried-up memory. The citizens have entrusted their complete city government to the young World war veterans and are liking the experiment.

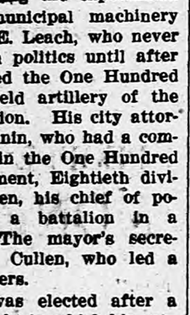
Heading the municipal machinery is Mayor George E. Leach, who never had taken part in politics until after he had commanded the One Hundred and Fifty-first Field artillery of the Forty-second division. His city attorney is Neil M. Cronin, who had a company of infantry in the One Hundred and Fiftieth regiment, Eightieth division. A. C. Jensen, his chief of police, commanded a battalion in a depot brigade. The mayor's secretary is Frank R. Cullen, who led a platoon of engineers.

Mayor Leach was elected after a bitter contest, a fight in which his supporters declared disloyalists and lukewarm Americans lined up solidly against him. His platform was straight Americanism and straight business.

Bringing home his artillerymen of the Rainbow division after the armistice, Mr. Leach made a successful attempt to get every man of them a job. He and his staff are members of the American Legion in posts in Minneapolis and vicinity.

MAKES HIKE OF 4,000 MILES

Marine Corps Fellow Travels From San Francisco to New York Carrying 51-Pound Pack.



After facing death from thirst on the great American desert, being mistaken for a bandit and looked upon with suspicion in the communities where the marine uniform never had been seen, Charles E. Gilbert, United States marine corps, arrived in New York recently, hale, hearty and tired.

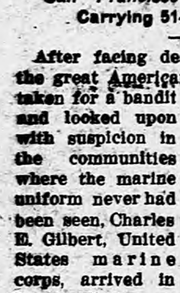
Ordered transferred from his station at San Francisco to a new post at New York, Private Gilbert sought permission to hike the distance. He was given a furlough and sent upon his way. He carried a 51-pound pack during the entire trip.

Between marches the marine found shelter and food from American Legion posts along the way, and when he reached St. Paul, his home, St. Paul Post, No. 8, turned out to greet him.

The distance of 4,000 miles hiking was covered in little more than a month. He made the 2,200-mile walk from San Francisco to St. Paul in 12 days actual time. Automobilists along the way materially helped the marcher by frequent and long "lifts."

POLICE POST OF THE LEGION

Peter Masterson of New York's "Finest," Commands an Organization of 1,200 Members.



Twelve hundred members of the "finest police force in the world" who saw service in the World war, have banded themselves together in the General Lafayette Police post of the American Legion, New York city. Peter J. Masterson, a lieutenant of police, commands the organization.

The New York force lost 802 traffic coppers, plain and fancy patrolmen, detectives, desk sergeants and police officers, when America sent out her general alarm for the roundup of Germany. Ten per cent of these men received commissions in the army and navy, and 50 per cent of them won promotion, both in the ranks and among the shoulder straps. Nineteen bluecoats were awarded the Croix de Guerre for gallantry in action, and the same number were killed in battle. The police post buried the 19 dead with military and police honors.

The soldier-policemen have their own summer resort, maintained by the post, at Broad Channel, Long Island, where they may spend their annual vacations. They will form an auxiliary to their post this fall, as most of the force are married.

Carrying On With the American Legion

After Herbert Delaney, ex-service man of Caledonia, Mich., had shot and killed a deputy sheriff who was trying to arrest him. American Legion men of the city formed a posse and captured the man.

* * * *

A survey of land settlement projects throughout the state has been begun by the American Legion of Washington. Under the law, ex-service men have a preference right in filing on all public lands.

* * * *

The retirement of 3,000 sick and wounded emergency officers of the World war with pay on the same status as officers of the regular army are retired, is being urged on congress by the American Legion.

* * * *

President Harding has been invited to accompany the Hood River, Ore., post of the American Legion on its annual climb of Mount Hood next summer. Governor Olcott of Oregon led the Legion party to the summit in the climb this year.

* * * *

Demonstrating the use of the airplane as a busy man's time saver, Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, flew from Washington, D. C., to Asbury Park, N. J., to address the annual convention of the state American Legion. The trip was made in two hours.

* * * *

Believing that the man still is suffering from the effects of a severe wound received while in action in France, the American Legion of Hastings, Mich., is seeking to have determined the sanity of Frank Soules, former service man, serving a life term in the Michigan state prison for murder.

* * * *

The sale for taxes of the estate of John J. Pershing, father of the general of the armies, in Tangipahoa Parish, La., has been prevented by the American Legion and the General has been requested to make the estate available for colonization by his wounded comrades now taking vocational training in agriculture.

* * * *

Plans for a $10,000 war memorial at Duluth, Minn., to honor the men and women who served during the World war, were abandoned recently at the request of the American Legion representatives who contended that it was no time to erect a monument. The memorial committee sought to honor jobless and hungry.

* * * *

The recent establishment of a post in Constantinople carries the American Legion into the second country aligned against the allies in the World war. The post was formed of American naval and embassy attaches and representatives of several American firms commercially engaged in Turkey. There is a large post of the Legion at Coblenz, Germany.

* * * *

Although he could not swim, Martin J. Maloney, New York policeman and a color sergeant of the Seventy-seventh division in France, plunged into the surf at Rockaway Beach to save a young woman with whom he had been keeping company. He lost his life, but the girl was pulled to safety. Maloney was a member of the police department post of the American Legion.

* * * *

A promise made on Flanders field that he would take care of and protect the wife of a wounded "buddy" if the latter should fall, was fulfilled at Manchester, N. H., recently when Adhemar Letendre married Mrs. Albert Thibeault, whose husband was killed in action. The returned soldier and his comrade's widow met in American Legion work and their friendship grew into love.

* * * *

The father of 38 children, Manna C. Bruner, Civil war veteran of Independence, Kas., could well organize a war veterans' society of his own. Twelve of his sons served with the American army in France, one was too young to fight and the remainder of the 33 are girls who did their bit. The American Legion recently brought the family to light, but at that there is one larger in the Creek Indian nation of which Bruner is a citizen.

* * * *

The corsage bouquet of the fashionably dressed young woman once may have been a flourishing tuft of ragweed on a corner lot. Disabled service men in Kansas City hospitals have built up a good business of making artificial flowers out of weeds and the American Legion of the city is helping them sell the colored posies to florists and gift shops. War mothers of the city have taught the men to dye the weeds in natural colors.

Home From Sea and Weds.

Home again from the sea, Claudius G. Pendill, Milwaukee, Wis., national vice commander of the American Legion, recently has married Miss Gertrude Elizabeth Wollaeger of his home city. A direct descendant of "Don't Give Up the Ship" Lawrence of early American naval fame Pendill himself established a record in the United States navy when he climbed from a regular enlistment on May 8, 1917, to the commission of ensign on May 1, 1918. He was a lieutenant (j. g.) at the close of the war. The bridegroom is a graduate of the University of Michigan and Mrs. Pendill graduated from Vassar. They will live in the classic atmosphere of Boston, Mass.

HEALTH HINTS FROM BIBLE

Proof That More Than Spiritual Consolation Is Contained in the Pages of Scripture.

If you want to keep well and avoid doctors' bills, study your Bible. That would seem to be the moral drawn from the remarks of Sir James Cantlie, famous English surgeon, who pointed out that medicine rests on the law of Moses.

"There is not one page of the Bible which does not teach us some hygienic fact," he said.

For instance, the wrong use of milk is the cause of indigestion and bad teeth. Moses laid down the salutary law that milk should not be drunk until at least two hours after eating fish, three after chicken, and four after meat, but this is disregarded and milk is drunk at meals. No careful Jewish mother gives milk to her child when meat is served.

Sir James points out how the dangers of plagues carried by rats was learned from the Bible. When he was a doctor at Hongkong there was a bubonic plague and he and others searched the encyclopedia for information. Then a clergyman came to him and asked him to read the fourth, fifth and sixth chapters of the Book of Samuel, where five models of swellings and three golden images of rats were described as being offered to the God of Israel.

"That's the cause of your plague, these rats," said the clergyman, and on that basis the medical authorities went to work.—Pittsburgh Gazette-Times.

Filbert Flam Hereby Makes Public a System Which He Claims to Be Infallible.

There is a cure for absent-mindedness, or almost so, and Filbert Flam has found it, according to the New York Sun. He doesn't talk much about it, but if you mention the matter to him he will confide it to you.

Filbert and Filipo were leaving the office together when Filbert suddenly stopped in the hallway. Filipo was hungry and in a hurry, and Filbert's lack of haste annoyed him.

"Hasten," replied Filipo.

"Wait," cautioned Filbert, and stood a moment in silence. Then a smile broke over his face; he returned to the office for a moment and came back with the box of candy which he had purchased for Mrs. Flam.

"It is infallible," said Filbert.

"What?" asked Filipo.

"It," Filbert repeated, "the system. I used to be very absent-minded, leave things behind, forget appointments, that sort of thing. Never any more. I never leave a place without stopping and saying to myself: 'Filbert, have you left anything? Is there anything you should do? Or haven't you and isn't there?' Sometimes there isn't, but generally there is. It hasn't failed in months."

The Old Homestead.

Gay and yarl-colored little portulacca blossoms welcome one near the open door, and from the shade of old apple trees comes the scent of violets and mountain lilies.

Down at the well house a tall, blond youth is slowly turning the wheel and watching the chain that winds and winds until the iron-bound bucket appears with its cool, dripping nectar, while he waves a cheery hand to the girl across the orchard, her hands filled with old-fashioned roses that bloom in abundance beside the gray stone wall, lending their radiant color and rich fragrance to the joy of all beholders.

The Old Homestead! To its past, to its present, and its future—and to its memories — forever! — Gertrude Louise Small in the New York Sun.

Green Though Black.

A southern family, having lost their maid, pressed into service a colored girl who had been doing outside work. They first taught her to use the carpet sweeper. Next morning she cheerfully asked, "Miss Jane, shall I lawnmower de parlor 'gain today?"—Boston Transcript.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and for years it was supposed to be incurable. Doctors prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Catarrh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Medicine, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is a constitutional remedy, is taken internally and acts thru the Blood on the Mucous Surfaces of the System. One Hundred Dollars reward is offered for any case that Hall's Catarrh Medicine fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

"Made Money."

The first person to make a counterfeit was Richard Vaughan, a linen draper of Stacord, England, which occurred in 1758. The Bank of England had been in operation for 64 years without ever experiencing the slightest trouble or apprehension in the matter, and would probably have gone on for many years more, but for the ambition of this man to impress his fiancee with a show of his wealth. He handed over to this lady a considerable sum in bank notes, all of which turned out to be of his own manufacture. The fraud was revealed by one of the engravers whose services had been engaged upon one part of the note. He communicated with the authorities, and Mr. Vaughan's enterprise came to tragic end.

Well Disguised, She Thought.

My English professor was always immaculate, and was most careful to have his ties and shirts harmonize.

One day we were asked to write a character sketch of some person we knew. I chose the professor as my subject, being careful, of course, to disguise the fact. Among other things I stated that I could picture this kind of a man keeping spotless when a boy, and that his mother probably tied his curls back with a blue ribbon.

Imagine my embarrassment when the next day my theme was returned with a fine grade, and the single notation, "No, it was pink."—Chicago Tribune.

Tired

"I was weak and run-down," relates Mrs. Eula Burnett, of Dalton, Ga. "I was thin and just felt tired, all the time. I didn't rest well. I wasn't ever hungry. I knew, by this, I needed a tonic, and as there is none better than—

CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

. . . I began using Cardui," continues Mrs. Burnett. "After my first bottle, I slept better and ate better. I took four bottles. Now I'm well, feel just fine, eat and sleep, my skin is clear and I have gained and sure feel that Cardui is the best tonic ever made."

Thousands of other women have found Cardui just as Mrs. Burnett did. It should help you.

DISAPPEARS IN THE EARTH

Mystery of "Vanishing River" in Mexico Has Long Been a Puzzle to Scientists.

One of the most remarkable rivers in the world flows through the northern part of Mexico. It borders the great Mexican desert and to reach it one need travel only one day's journey on horseback from the Rio Grande, which marks the southern boundary of the United States in that region. The extraordinary river in question has its source in the hills bordering the desert. It flows southward for some twenty miles as smoothly as any well-behaved river, but, suddenly, as it flows between high bluffs, it becomes whirling rapids—rapids so strong and so dangerous that no man has ever been brave enough to attempt to cross the rushing waters.

One follows the rapids, as he walks along the bluff on either side, for about two miles, and then that river vanishes utterly. Hence the name Vanishing river. It disappears suddenly, mysteriously, completely, into the earth itself, and not into a cave, as one would suppose. Scientists have tried in vain to ascertain where that river goes; all that they have yet announced as the result of their explorations is that the river seems to drop sheer into the earth, as over the brink of a bottomless abyss, and that this Vanishing river is the most amazing body of water known to geographers.

PROPER METHOD OF READING

Bacon's Advice to "Weigh and Consider" Is as Valuable Today as When First Given.

Bacon is right, as he generally is, when he bids us read not to contradict and refute, not to believe and take for granted, nor to find talk and discourse, but to weigh and to consider. Yes, let us read to weigh and to consider. In the times before us that promise or threaten deep political, economical, and social controversy, what we need to do is to induce our people to weigh and consider. We want them to cultivate energy without impatience, activity without restlessness, inflexibility without ill-humor. I am not going to preach to you any indifference to money, or to the pleasures of social intercourse, or to the esteem and goodwill of our neighbors, or to any other of the consolations and necessities of life. But, after all, the thing that matters most, both for happiness and for duty, is that we should strive habitually to live with wise thoughts and right feelings.—"Studies in Literature," Lord Morley.

First Firemen.

Fire-fighting organizations of men are known to have existed in the Second century before Christ. Heron of Alexandria, 200 years before the Christian era, in an old manuscript which has escaped destruction, described an hydraulic machine used in Egypt during the time of the Ptolemies. It was composed of two brass cylinders resting on a wooden base with pistons fitted into them—in its principles practically like our present engine.

The Romans had squads of men to carry water in "hamae," or light vases, to the scene of an outbreak, where it was projected on to the fire by those in charge of the "siphones" or hand pumps. The precise nature of this instrument has not been determined, but from specimens found in excavations it must have been much like the old-fashioned syringe used by gardeners. These large organizations of men gave the Roman authorities trouble by their turbulence.

Mention is made of the medieval use of forcing pumps as fire engines at Augsburg in 1518.

The London Plane Tree.

Citizens of London have reason to be grateful to the plane tree, which beautifies their city more than any other English tree. It is called the London plane. With lofty dignity, clothed in pleasant green, it stands quietly in the parks and squares, a cheering sight to many hurrying workers. Sometimes it is stunted, but when it is free to expand it becomes one of the finest trees in the country. Some of them in Kew Gardens, "oh! so near to London," are magnificent. Many London children, who know little of the beauties of nature in the country, are familiar with the London plane. It is such a hardy tree that it flourishes in many strange corners of the city. It is strange to think that its origin is unknown. It is pleasant to know that it came to London as an outcast from the great family of trees, and, in return for the sanctuary afforded, has given the great city of its best.

Ireland's "Mayflower."

Students of Anglo-American history have directed attention to the fact that Ireland also had her Mayflower. This was the Eaglewing, which, no later than 1636, set sail with a full passenger list of Ulster men for the American colonies. There were forty passengers, among whom were four ministers. Ill luck began at once, for unconquerable winds drove the vessel to the Scottish coast. A leak then held the ship in the "Kyles of Bute." Starting again, she achieved mid-Atlantic, but there a hurricane did much damage and caused such general discouragement that finally the Irish pilgrims made up their minds that Providence was frowning on their emigration, and turned their vessel back to Ireland.

RAT BLOCKS TOWN TRAFFIC

Rodent Walks Electric Light Cable, Balancing Itself Like Trained Acrobat.

London, Ont.—An average-sized gray rat, walking an insulated electric light cable about thirty-five feet from the ground above the town's main thoroughfare, created such a commotion as it perilously balanced itself for two blocks' length and thousands congregated to watch its progress that traffic was halted for nearly half an hour.

The rat evidently was frightened out of an office window or from a roof or ledge near the electric light post. It first attracted attention when it stopped near the main office of the government telegraph building and peered in, perilously balancing itself on the small cable. The clicking of the telegraph instruments turned it back, however, so it wended its way like a tight-rope walker, utterly oblivious to the stir its presence created below.

Half way across an intersection the rat stopped and balanced himself like a trained acrobat, taking a good view of the crowded streets, the cars and the shopping district. Suddenly it leaped toward a telephone pole, scampered down and dashed under the feet of screaming pedestrians and disappeared from view.

BRUIN PLAYS TRAFFIC COP

Minneapolis, Minn.—Impersonating an officer is the charge against "Frenchy," a trained bear belonging to George Harrison. During a riotous interlude, here are the things bruin is alleged to have done:

Hustled an inebriated wayfarer along home so briskly that the man sobered up and swore off.

At Seventh street and Sixth avenue "Frenchy" planted himself at the intersection and with paws as semaphore arms began to direct traffic. He was blithely ordering automobilists around when his prospective landlord, Dr. S. O. Lockwood, superintendent of the workhouse, drove up in a car.

The superintendent knew right away that "Frenchy" wasn't a real traffic officer. Summoning two policemen he placed the bear under arrest. Then he called the patrol wagon and "Frenchy" was bustled into it like any other malefactor.

Lizard With Two Tails.

Petaluma, Cal.—W. F. Thiery, a rancher, residing on the "Fair View Court" farm near here, discovered a freak lizard with two tails coiled up in an egg shell. The lizard had undoubtedly eaten the contents of the egg and gone to sleep. The freak was exhibited at the chamber of commerce.

Tipsy Possum Betrays Big Moonshine Plant

Chattanooga, Tenn.—Failure of a possum to play up to his name resulted in the discovery of one of the largest illicit distilleries ever found in this section, according to revenue officers. When attention was first called to the inability of the animal to pursue a straight line of retreat, the raiders thought it was ill. One of them, however, pursuing the rules of investigation laid down in best detective narratives, captured the fugitive and smelled its breath.

PEPTO-MANGAN KEEPS BLOOD PURE

Growing Children Need Plenty of Red Cells in Blood

When the young blood is growing, children frequently experience weakness. Girls and boys sometimes play too hard and over-tax their systems. They become pale, weak and sickly. They lose their appetites, become languid, and are not able to make progress in school work. It is most important to keep the blood of growing girls and boys in a hea thy state.

Pepto-Mangan keeps the blood pure. The red cells in the blood are increased. They carry life-giving oxygen to all parts of the body, and wholesome youthfulness blooms again in clear complexions, bright eyes and bouyant spirits. Sold both in liquid and tablet form by druggists everywhere. The name "Gude's Pepto-Mangan" is on the package.—Advisement.

Think Eelskin Cures Rheumatism.

It is a singular commentary on the many faiths and creeds and notions prevailing amid the uneducated of New York—and many of the educated, for that matter!—that a certain fish product should be on daily sale as a supposed cure for rheumatism. This is the eelskin. It is sold in various sizes. The skin is tied around arm or elbow or wrist or ankle or thigh or elsewhere near the affected part. And there are those who swear by its effectiveness. —Scientific American.

English Center of Industry.

"The Potteries" is a district of North Staffordshire, England. It is the chief seat of the china and earthenware industry. The principal centers are Burslem, Hanley, Longton, Fenton, Tunstall and Stoke-on-Trent, all of these being amalgamated in 1910 as a single municipal borough under the name of Stake-on-Trent. The Wedgwoods and the Mintons are the most famous families connected with the china industry.

Point of Interest Screened.

The haunts of the dinosaur in the Red Deer valley, in Canada, have been screened by the department of trade and commerce. The place where these relics of millions of years ago are found is about 100 miles east of Calgary, in a canyon of the Red Deer river, which is just as beautiful as the Grand canyon, but about one-seventh its size. It is the only place in Alberta where the cactus grows.

Live on Chestnuts.

In the mountainous districts of Auvergne, the Cevennes, and Corsica the inhabitants have rarely any other fare but chestnuts; these supply the absence of cereals or the deficiency of grain. Crushed into meal, they make a nutritive porridge with milk, or appetizing cakes, or are prepared as loaves, since the meal contains gluten.

Prolific Sturgeon.

The Rusian sturgeon, known as beluga or uhsco, is very large. It has been known to grow to the length of 20 to 25 feet and to weigh 3,000 pounds. At spawning time, a female produces from 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 eggs, constituting from one-fifth to one-third of the entire weight of the fish.

Wrong Idea About Senses.

Instead of there being only five senses, as we usually think, there are probably as many as 15. Four distinct senses, for example, are found in the skin. There are heat, cold, pain and pressure. What we usually call touch is a combination of these sense qualities.

Bridge of Tragic Memories.

The Bridge of Sighs at Venice, over which all prisoners are taken from the hall of judgment to the place where execution takes place, is an ancient structure, having been built in 1589, but no record has been kept of the number of prisoners who have passed over it.

Britain's Many Islands.

It is said that in the British empire, on which the sun never sets, there are more than 10,000 islands. It is impossible to give the exact number, because some clumps of rocks might not be called islands.

For the Invalid.

Straws may be used in giving liquids to sick children when they cannot be moved. Glass tubes are easily broken, but a bundle of straws, such as used at soda fountains, may be purchased at small cost.

Not Influenced by the Moon.

The bureau of animal industry says there is no foundation in fact for the superstition that the various phases of the moon has anything to do with the proper time to set hen's eggs.

The Dark Cloud.

It is not surprising that clouds come in for more or less criticism. They live high, are often dissipated, and can usually be classed with the wets.

Every Individual.

Every individual has a place to fill in the world, and is important in some respect, whether he chooses to be so or not.—Hawthorne.

Jud Tunkins.

Jud Tunkins says it's hard to convince a man that the world is getting better when he finds that his own particular business is getting worse.

TOOK REINDEER TO ENGLAND

A hundred years ago it was thought that the mountain forests of Great Britain might be colonized by reindeer from Lapland, and an account was given in 1821 in an issue of the Observer, London, of the extraordinary sagacity displayed by them when a number were brought to England at the instigation of an eminent naturalist, Mr. Bullock. The herd was accompanied by a Laplander, to whom the animals were attached and to whose wishes they were usually obedient. All went well till they arrived at the place of embarkation, when the herdsman invited the deer to follow him to the boat. When the leader of the herd put his foot upon the float leading to the vessel he started back in alarm. It was the first unsteady ground he had ever trod. Fresh invitations to follow the herdsman and fresh investigations followed, the whole herd looking on and watching the proceedings, placing entire confidence in the captain, not attempting to move till he gave them a signal that all was well. After a time he seemed to be reassured and in a majestic manner entered the vessel, where he trod upon every plank and carefully examined everything. When he had satisfied himself that it was perfectly safe, he uttered a kind of snort, when the hitherto passive herd bounded into the boat and in three minutes all had embarked. The account continues that the vessel was overloaded and the intelligent beast indicated this to his followers. "Were we not assured of the fact, we could hardly credit it," the reporter continues. "As he had intimated other things, he also intimated this to his followers. No sooner was this done than the individual deer he appealed to leaped into another boat."

The experiment did not prove a success, but the marked intelligence of the reindeer made a deep impression upon the public.

HOW THE MOLLUSKS TRAVEL

Attach Themselves to Water Fowl and Are Thus Transported for Considerable Distances.

One of the problems that continually confronts the naturalist is to account for the distribution of identical forms of life among widely separated localities. Investigation frequently shows that this has been accomplished in many ways that appear quite simple when once discovered, although one would hardly have thought of them in advance of their actual detection.

Some interesting facts have been brought out concerning the dispersion of fresh-water mollusks, accounting for their appearance in remote and isolated ponds. It appears that water fowl play an important part in this work. Ducks have been known to carry mussels attached to their feet a hundred miles or more. Bivalve mollusks not infrequently cling to the toes of wading birds, and are thus transported for considerable distances. Even aquatic insects have been known to carry small fresh-water mollusks attached to their legs.

In such manner does Nature compel the various inhabitants of the earth to assist one another whether they will or not.

Seeks Origin of Dancing.

Can it be, in any sense, possible to conjecture that the origin of dancing came from the desire to escape from one's self, into an imaginary world?

In that case, it might also have been a form of madness, as one finds it in the Dionysian intoxication at the Attic festivals, when wine and the deities, the satyrs and the maenads, were closely linked togther, writes Arthur Symons in the Forum.

Certainly, even now, one of the best means in escaping from one's self is dancing: Under fixed conditions, the only one. The question is: Can one ever escape from one's self?

There are so many means. There is, for instance, a rapture in the dance which intoxicates every sense to a point of human infinity; that is, while one is dancing. After, comes the recoil. No rapture can ever be measured; while one endures it, it has no limits. But, alas! for one's finite nature, nothing lasts.

American Democracy.

Whoever in America desires to better his fellowmen must act by influencing their intellect. If he wishes to see no idle man and no poor man in the land, he must take care that there shall be no ignorant man. Ignorance is the mother of superstition and misery. Men are better in proportion as they are wiser. In whatever direction we look we see the improvement. The physical man is more powerful, the intellectual man is more perfect, the moral man more pure. The morality of a nation is the aggregate of the morality of the individuals. A lazy man is necessarily a bad man; an idle is necessarily a demoralized population.—John William Draper.

Mice Had Used Sleeves.

About a year ago I was having a fancy dress made. When the sleeves were finished, they mysteriously disappeared. I looked for them for days, but could not find them. Last week I took the back off the organ to clean it, and imagine my surprise to find my sleeves made into a mouse nest in the bottom of the organ.—Chicago Journal.

Old Age.

To those who have no recourse in themselves for living well, every age is burdensome. We must fight against disease. Regard must be paid to health. Moderate exercise must be adopted. So much of meat and drink must be taken. Senile folly, which is commonly called dotage, belongs to weak old men, but not to all. For, as I like young men in which there is something of the old, so I like old men in whom there is something of the young. One who always lives in these pursuits and labors for the welfare of the state does not perceive when old age steals upon him.—Cicero.

Historical Rock.

Redemption rock is in the town of Princeton, Mass., near Mt. Wauchusett. It derives its name from a treaty made on its surface with a tribe of Indians May 2, 1676, for the ransom of Mrs. Mary Ronaldson, of Lancaster, a captive of the Indians. The treaty was made on behalf of the whites by John Hoan of Concord. The rock has a large flat surface, on which about twenty-five persons can stand.—Boston Globe.

Printing in America's Early Days.

The first printing press in New England was set up in Cambridge in 1639. The first book printed was the "Freeman's Oath," the second an almanac for New England, and the third the Psalms. There were five printing presses running in Boston in 1719, and it is very probable that during that 80 years from 1639, numerous books were printed.

Billings on Bravery.

True bravery iz very eazy tew detekt, for it iz az mutch a part and parcel of a man's every day life az hiz clothes iz. Everything that a truly brave man duz iz did from principle not impulse, and when no one sees him he iz just az heroik az he would be if he waz in the eyes of the multitude.—"Josh Billings" (Henry W. Shaw).

Florida's Remarkable Spring.

Photographer Catches Thieves.

Two men photographed in a London studio were seen to steal some money from the till as they passed through the shop. The woman photographer developed the negative quickly, took the photograph to the police, and the men were arrested.

How Vermont Got Its Name.

The state of Vermont received its name from Verd and Mont, two French words meaning Green mountains. The name is said to have been bestowed by Samuel de Champlain when he saw from the lake, later called after him, green hills to the east.

In Conversation.

To guard against repeating a story to the same person is a point worth noting. The inclination to interrupt or correct others for inaccuracies must be controlled. Not only must we try to say the right thing in the right place, but leave unsaid the wrong thing at the tempting moment.

LAME EVERY MORNING

A back that aches all day and causes discomfort at night is usually worse in the morning. Makes you feel as if you hadn't slept at all.

Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for weakened or disordered kidneys—been gratefully recommended by thousands. Ask your neighbor!

Harry E. Muir, Upper Fairmount, Md., says: "I can certainly endorse Doan's Kidney Pills as a remedy of merit. My kidneys were weak and a source of annoyance for some time. I often had severe soreness and a dull aching across the small of my back. Mornings, especially, I felt lame and the action of my kidneys was irregular. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and in a few days I was free from the aches and pains and my kidneys didn't trouble me any longer."

State Officials On Motor Trip

A party composed of about twenty men, representing the State Roads Commission, the Bureau of Public Roads, of Washington, D. C., and other men who were representatives of various contracting and cement firms, motored down the Shore last week on an inspection tour of the State Roads System of Maryland.

The following men composed the personnel of the party: J. N. Mackall, chairman and chief engineer; H. D. Williar, Jr., assistant chief engineer; R. M. Reindollar, Engineer of Surveys; Edwin Friese, D. P. Campbell, L. T. Downey, W. F. Childs, Jr., A. F. Shure and P. E. Burroughs, all district engineers; H. S. Fairbank, V. M. Pierce and R. F. Eastam, of the Bureau of Public Roads, Washington, D. C.; H. E. Heffner, G. W. Minck, Jr., Louis Young, W. E. McComas, Jr., and M. A. Doetsch, all of whom were looking after the interests of various contracting firms.

The party came by the Claiborne ferry Tuesday morning to Taylor's Island where they were entertained at lunch and an oyster roast by Mr. Benjamin Harrington and the ladies of the island. The trip then was made to Pocomoke City where the party spent the night. On Wednesday the autos proceeded north through Worcester county by way of Berlin and Salisbury and returned to Baltimore by way of Elkton.

Threatening Letters Being Circulated

Anonymous letters were recently received by Messrs. George Massey, of Marumsco, and P. O. Hudson, of Harold Postoffice. Mr. Massey was warned unless he left $100 in his mail box his barn would be burned.

Mr. Hudson's letter was as follows: "Marion Station was fired. Unless you leave $100 in your mail box you will be fired." Mr. Hudson is a member of the firm of P. O. Hudson & Bro., who operate a saw mill, box and crate factory, canning factory and store on the State road between Kingston and Marion Station. The handwriting of the letters would indicate they were both written by the same person.

In neither case were the letters left in the letter box of the persons for whom they were intended. Mr. Massey's was left in George Matthews' box and Mr. Hudson's in the box belonging to Sandy Howard. In each instance the box was about a mile and a half from the person for whom intended. One of the letters was shown to State's Attorney L. Creston Beauchamp, who advised sending the same to the State Fire Marshal.

Soldiers' Memorial Bazaar

A sale of Christmas gifts will be held at the residence of Mrs. G. W. Maslin on December 7th, promptly at 3 p. m. The proceeds of this sale will be used for the Star Memorial which is located at the north end of Manokin bridge. It is greatly desired that this be a community affair and donations will be gladly received from all women of the town and county. This sale is under the management of the Civic Club of Princess Anne.

The champion oyster opener of the country seems to be Bill Lowney, of New York, who has devoted his entire life to the business. He has split 100 of them in three minutes, three and a quarter seconds and has challenged the world to beat him.

FINE AGRICULTURAL SHOW

Three-Day Exhibit of Farm Products Ended Last Saturday Night

The Fifth Annual Somerset County Agricultural Exhibition was held in the Court House, Princess Anne, last Thursday, Friday and Saturday. The collection of farm products showed the advanced methods of Somerset county agriculturists.

The exhibit was splendid, there being a wonderful collection of sweet and white potatoes, turnips, lettuce, cabbage, celery, cauliflower, beets, carrots and other vegetables.

The exhibit of yellow and white corn was the finest ever made in this county, while the exhibits of small grain, cowpeas, soybeans, wheat, rye, buckwheat, black-eyed peas, etc., were excellent.

Many things to attract the eyes of the women folks were in the court room, such as fancy needle work, embroidery, etc.

Although this has been a bad year on fruit, Mr. F. E. Matthews, of near Pocomoke City, had an exhibit of ten fine baskets of apples—the Black Twig, Winesap, Stayman, Ben Davis and York Imperial being represented. Mr. E. W. Coulbourne, of Marion, had a good plate exhibit of apples, consisting of three varieties.

The nut display was large and contained practically all of the different type of nuts grown in the county, including chestnuts, bluebanks, walnuts, peanuts and pecans.

The Princess Anne Grange had an attractive booth displaying the products of the farm and home. One feature of the show was the large display made by members of the Boys' Agricultural Club. Eighteen members exhibited corn and twelve exhibited potatoes.

The Maryland State Board of Agriculture had exhibits on display showing specimens of tuberculosis in dairy cattle, and also specimens of hog cholera.

The Domestic Science Department of the Princess Anne High School had a very attractive display of cooking and canning; the Girls' Club also had a fine exhibit of sewing and canning.

There was one article, a certerpiece, which attracted unusual attention. It required four years' work to complete it.

The exhibit was fine all around and County Agent C. Z. Keller and Miss M. L. Mills, Home Demonstrator, assisted by the Princess Anne Grange, worked wonders in getting up this exhibition of the products of Somerset county.

Auditorium Attractions This Week

The ever-welcome Tom Mix is announced as the feature at the Auditorium Tuesday night. He is to appear in his latest Fox production, entitled "The Big Town Round-Up," a picture said to abound in nerve-tingling adventure and wholesome humor. In the cast are Gilbert Holmes, Ora Carewe, Harry Dunkinson, Laura La Plant, William Buckly, William Elmer and William Crinley.

"Beau Revel" the first of a series of Thomas H. Ince-Louis Joseph Vance picture productions, to be presented at the Auditorium Thursday night is a Paramount feature of exceptional merit. A story of the love intrigues of a wealthy, ultra-fashionable New York man-about-town, the picture is said to embody a novel and entirely original theme. A practically all-star cast is featured, which includes Lewis Stone, Florence Vidor, Lloyd Hughes, Kathleen Kirkman, Harlan Tucker, William Conklin, Lydia Titus, William Musgrave and Joe Campbell.

Saturday night the fourth episode of "Do or Die." Nobody fights like Eddie Polo. And in this south seas romance he fights for life, honor and love.

Bankers Meet At Snow Hill

The fall meeting of the Associated Banks of Somerset, Wicomico and Worcester counties was held in Snow Hill last Wednesday afternoon. About thirty banks were represented at the meeting.

New officers were elected as follows: President, Egbert L. Quinn, of Crisfield; vice-president, Henry W. Ruark, of Salisbury; secretary, E. R. Coulbourn, of Marion; treasurer, C. T. Richardson, of Snow Hill.

At six o'clock in the evening a splendid dinner was served by the ladies of Snow Hill in Price's Hall. Judge William F. Johnson was toastmaster and those responding were Comptroller William S. Gordy, of the Salisbury National Bank; Mr. McElroy, of the Baltimore Branch of the Federal Reserve Bank, and Clarence W. Lankford, of Crisfield. The raconteur of the evening was Mr. Temple, of Baltimore, who kept the bankers and their guests convulsed with laughter for three-quarters of an hour.

The spring meeting of the association will be held in Berlin, Worcester county.

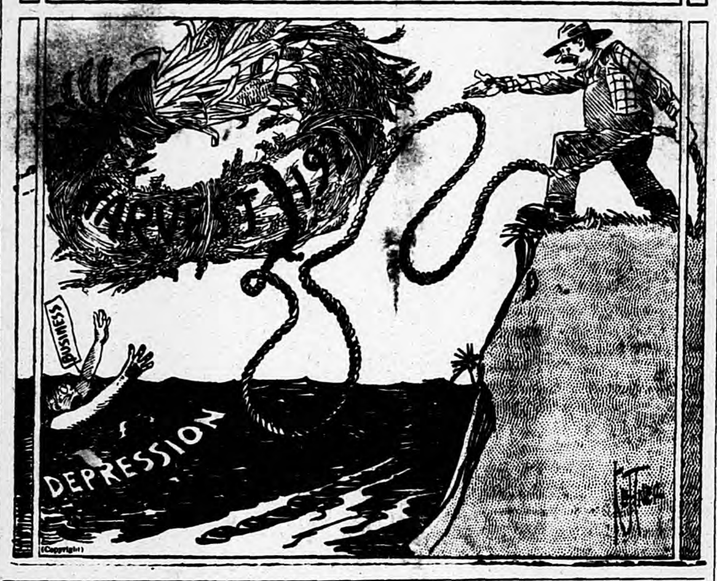
A Life Saver



Of Interest To Sportsmen

State Game Warden E. Lee LeCompte has requested the publication of the following article relative to the killing of Chinese ringnecked pheasants:

In 1920 the State Game Department established a State game farm for the purpose of propagating Chinese ringnecked pheasants, and establish same in the covers of the State as a permanent game bird. During the seasons of 1920 and 1921, we liberated into the covers 4400 ten and twelve week old birds of this species, and from reports received throughout the State, it is evident they are propagating and increasing wonderfully.

The Acts of 1920 prohibit the killing of the female at any time. However, it does not prohibit licensed hunters from killing the male during the open season, which is November 10th to January 1st.

From all indications the public in general is very much interested in this species of game and in order to permanently establish this bird we urgently request that persons deny themselves the privilege of killing these birds if the opportunity should present itself. We also urgently request the landowners on whose property the young birds were liberated to use their best endeavors in protecting them and prohibit hunters from killing same in any manner or at any time, until they firmly establish themselves.

The Chinese ringnecked pheasant is an insectivorous bird and, of course, are very beneficial to the agricultural industry, and just for this reason they should receive every consideration at the hands of the hunter and at the same time given an opportunity to propagate and increase their family. When this has been accomplished, which no doubt will be within a few years, we will then request an open season on same.

Revival Closed At Rehoboth Church

Those present Sunday night, November 13th, at the closing services of the revival meetings at the old Rehoboth Presbyterian Church, witnessed one of the largest gatherings ever assembled in that church. Extra benches and chairs were placed in the aisles and around the pulpit but the space was not sufficient to take care of such an unusual crowd.

The meetings were in progress during the previous week in charge of Rev. G. H. Gilmer, D. D., L. L. D., of Draper, Va. Dr. Gilmer is superintendent of the Southern Home Mission work, and is a minister of unquestionable ability, which was fully displayed in his most eloquent sermons. Rev. Herman Bishoff, pastor, is very much pleased, as well as encouraged, with the success of the meetings. The attendance was exceptionally good at each service. The pastor's record shows 29 converts and 22 persons added to the church membership.

Five Children On Trip To Arizona

The five children of Orson Williams, son of Dr. and Mrs. B. F. Williams, of Seaford, Del., who resides in Arizona, started last Tuesday alone on a long trip. The children ranged in ages from 3 to 11 years. Three of the children, Ruth, aged 11; Betty, aged 9, and Beryl, aged 3, started from Seaford. They were joined in Philadelphia by Joice, aged 7, and Orson, Jr., aged 5. The two latter children have been making their home in Syracuse, N. Y., and New York city with relatives. Mrs. Williams accompanied the children from Seaford to Philadelphia, where she met the other two children. She then saw them safely off at Broad Street Station. They are to be met at St. Louis, Mo., by their grandfather and an aunt, who will see them safely off from there for Lordsburg, N. M., where they will be met by their father. They will then make a 75-mile trip via automobile with their father to their home in Arizona, where their father is an engineer.

One Hundred Years Ago

The following item is from the Somerset Union of November 1st, 1821, which was published in Princess Anne at one time by the late Col. Levin L. Waters:

On Friday, the 19th of October, at Princess Anne, Somerset county, Maryland, Jenny, a negro woman, nearly 70 years of age, suffered the punishment prescribed by law for a murder committed some months ago since on the body of another negro, Sidney Williams. Jenny was brought from the jail under the escort of a company of militia and arrived at the gallows at about half past 11 o'clock, where an impressive discourse was delivered by the Rev. Mr. Colgan, and a hymn sung suitable to the occasion, after which a prayer was offered up and the clergyman addressed the prisoner, exhorting her, though to no avail, to make a confession of her guilt before she was launched into eternity.

About 700 whites and double that number of colored persons were present as spectators. Many of them were sensibly affected by the remarks of the clergyman, and few remained unmoved by the wild grief of Jenny's children, several of whom were present. Their sorrow seemed contagious. When the awful moment arrived in which the sheriff proceeded to the execution of his duty numbers fled from the spot, and several hundreds of the colored people squatted on the ground with their backs turned to the gallows, covered their faces with their hands and uttered a simultaneous groan, which, while it expressed their feelings, added not a little to the horror of the scene. When the body had been suspended for fifteen minutes it was cut down; immediately after which many of the blacks retired to their homes in good order, but the sensibility of others was so short-lived that they spent the afternoon in drunkenness and other kinds of debauchery.

State Holly To Lack Berries

That users of holly wreaths in Baltimore, Washington, Philadelphia, New York and other cities will have to depend, to a large extent, on artificial decorations during the approaching holiday season is the belief among holly dealers. All are finding the same situation—the holly is practically devoid of berries. Not only is this true, but it is reported that the formation of the leaves is not of the best this season, small holes having been eaten in them here and there.

The berry situation was brought about largely by the freeze and heavy snow storm last April. The holly berry at that time was in full blossom and, as a result, met the fate of the fruit blossom. Another contributing element to the scarcity of berries, says E. D. Bozman, of Eden, this county, pioneer holly buyer of that section, is a vast army of rosebugs which made their appearance during the month of May, this year, and devastated that part of the blossom which escaped the ravages of the storm the preceding month. The outlook is the same in Delaware as in this State and Virginia and North Carolina have fared no better, notwithstanding their geographical location.

Will Rebuild Business Section

Insurance adjustments have been made for the recent big blaze at Marion, which wiped out a large part of the business section. Mr. E. W. Tull, one of the merchants caught in the late fire, has purchased the lot on the opposite side of the road from his old business stand, and last week begun the erection of a large store building upon it. The new site was purchased from Mr. L. T. Miles, Jr. We understand that other buildings will soon be started in the burnt district.

ELEVEN MILLIONS FOR HIGHWAYS

Sum Covers State Needs For Years Of 1923 And 1924

Nearly $11,000,000—to be exact, $10,900,000—will be required for road construction and maintenance in Maryland for the two-year period beginning October 1, 1922—that is, for the State's fiscal years of 1923 and 1924. Such is the estimate by John N. Mackall, chairman of the State Roads Commission.

Federal, State and county funds will be represented in this amount. Federal funds, which will be used for construction, will of course come from Federal appropriation. They will be matched dollar for dollar with State money. County funds, to be used in construction, will also be matched on the 50-50 basis by State money.

Money for maintenance will be supplied from the receipts of the Motor Vehicle Commissioner's office.

For the fiscal year of 1923 the Roads Commission's requisition may thus be itemized:

Maintenance (from Motor Vehicle Commissioner's receipts)		$2,100,000
Construction:
Bond issue	$1,500,000
From budget	100,000
	$1,600,000
From counties	750,000
Federal aid	850,000
		3,200,000
Total for 1923		$5,300,000

For the fical year of 1924 the items will be identical, except that $2,400,000 will be asked for maintenance, making the total for that year $5,600,000, or the aggregate for the two years, $10,900,000.

In addition a bond issue for bridge construction will be asked for 1923. The amount of the proposed issue has not been decided; it will probably be for several hundred thousand dollars.

Colonel Baughman is expected to submit his plan for the creation, by Legislative act and direct appropriation, of a State constabulary. The Public Service Commission has prepared legislation designed to define and strengthen its regulatory powers, especially with regard to taxicabs.

Legislation providing that the Commission be financed by the utilities over which it has jurisdiction is also likely to be introduced at Annapolis next year. Such legislation, it is said, would have the backing of the Commission and probably of the Governor.

Homeland For Destitute Armenians

Six thousand acres of the richest farming land in the historic region of Thrace has been rented from the Greek Government by the Near East Relief, announces Maryland headquarters, as a homeland for 1000 destitute Armenian refugees, dependent on American charity.

Refugees in Constantinople begged for work and the idea of renting the land from Greece came to the Near East Relief officials. Now everybody in the refugee camps is clamoring for a bit of land to farm, and those on the farms are helping in every way. The soil on the farms is guaranteed by an American agricultural expert to yield fifteen bushels of grain per acre to one of seed, and it will take but one season to pay back with interest all that has been invested in the plan. American agricultural machinery is being used and will replace the native custom of tilling the soil with a charred stick, pointed at one end, with the aid of from three to six span of oxen and the farmers' half-grown boys. It has been estimated that fully twelve times the work can be accomplished with the American methods as against the native. What was attempted by the Near East Relief as an emergency measure, says Harold F. Pellegrin, Maryland State Director, seems likely to prove of permanent and lasting benefit to all the people of the Near East.

Airplanes Coming To Salisbury

Arrangements have just been completed by Col. A. W. W. Woodcock, State Commander of the American Legion, Maryland Department, with Adjt.-Gen. Milton A. Record, to have the aero squadron of Maryland National Guard visit Salisbury soon.

The squadron will come to Salisbury in order to arouse interest in recruiting Company I, and it will be the first time that a full squadron of planes has ever visited that place. The Fair Grounds will be the landing field for the airmen.

Game Warden Fined For Hunting

O. M. Smiley had William McGinnis, deputy game warden, arrested last Wednesday for hunting on his land near Sharptown, Md., which was advertised. McGinnis was taken before Walter C. Mann, justice of the peace, and after hearing the evidence the justice imposed the fine prescribed by law for such offenses and the cost of the trial, amounting in all to $18, which was paid.

PLAN FOR FEDERAL ROADS

Great Strides Made As A Result Of $75,000,000 Appropriation

By the signing by President Harding of the Highway bill, $75,000,000 becomes available for Federal aid roads. This appropriation is for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922. It represents the Government's appropriation to the work of building highways in the various States and must be matched, dollar for dollar, by funds from the State treasuries, except in states where more than 5 per cent. of their area is unappropriated public land.

Senator Charles E. Townsend, who has been leading the campaign for the passage of the bill, said in discussing its final adoption, that he regarded it as one of the most progressive steps looking toward internal improvement ever taken by Congress.

"I am confident," said Senator Townsend, "that with the co-operation between the Bureau of Public Roads and the several State highway departments, which is so essential, great strides in highway construction will be made."

The enacted bill modifies in some particulars the original Townsend bill. Primarily it demands that a portion of the Government funds be set aside for upkeep, so that the original investment will not be allowed to deteriorate. Provision is also made for allocating a percentage of the funds for interstate highways. Special appropriations are made for forest roads and trails. The Senator is chairman of the Senate Committee on Postoffices and Post Roads.

"The fact that in the future all Federal appropriations must be expended under the direct control of the State highway departments, with the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture," said Senator Townsend, "seems to effectually eliminate the possibility of local politics entering into road problems. I have always objected to the taxing of people of one State for local or political benefits to another. It will no longer be possible in certain States for rich counties to match practically all of the Federal aid allotted, thus depriving the poorer counties of their share in road improvements."

The average cost per mile of the roads built with Federal aid has been between $17,000 and $18,000. More than half the money has been spent for roads with the highest type of surface, such as concrete, brick and bituminous concrete, but a very large mileage of roads of the cheaper type, such as gravel and sand-clay, has been built where such types would withstand the wear of the traffic.

Prior to five years ago the Federal Government took no active part in the road construction of the country. Today about one-half of all the roads that are being built are being aided by the Government financially, and the construction is subject to the inspection and approval of Federal engineers.

Presbyterian Budget Fixed

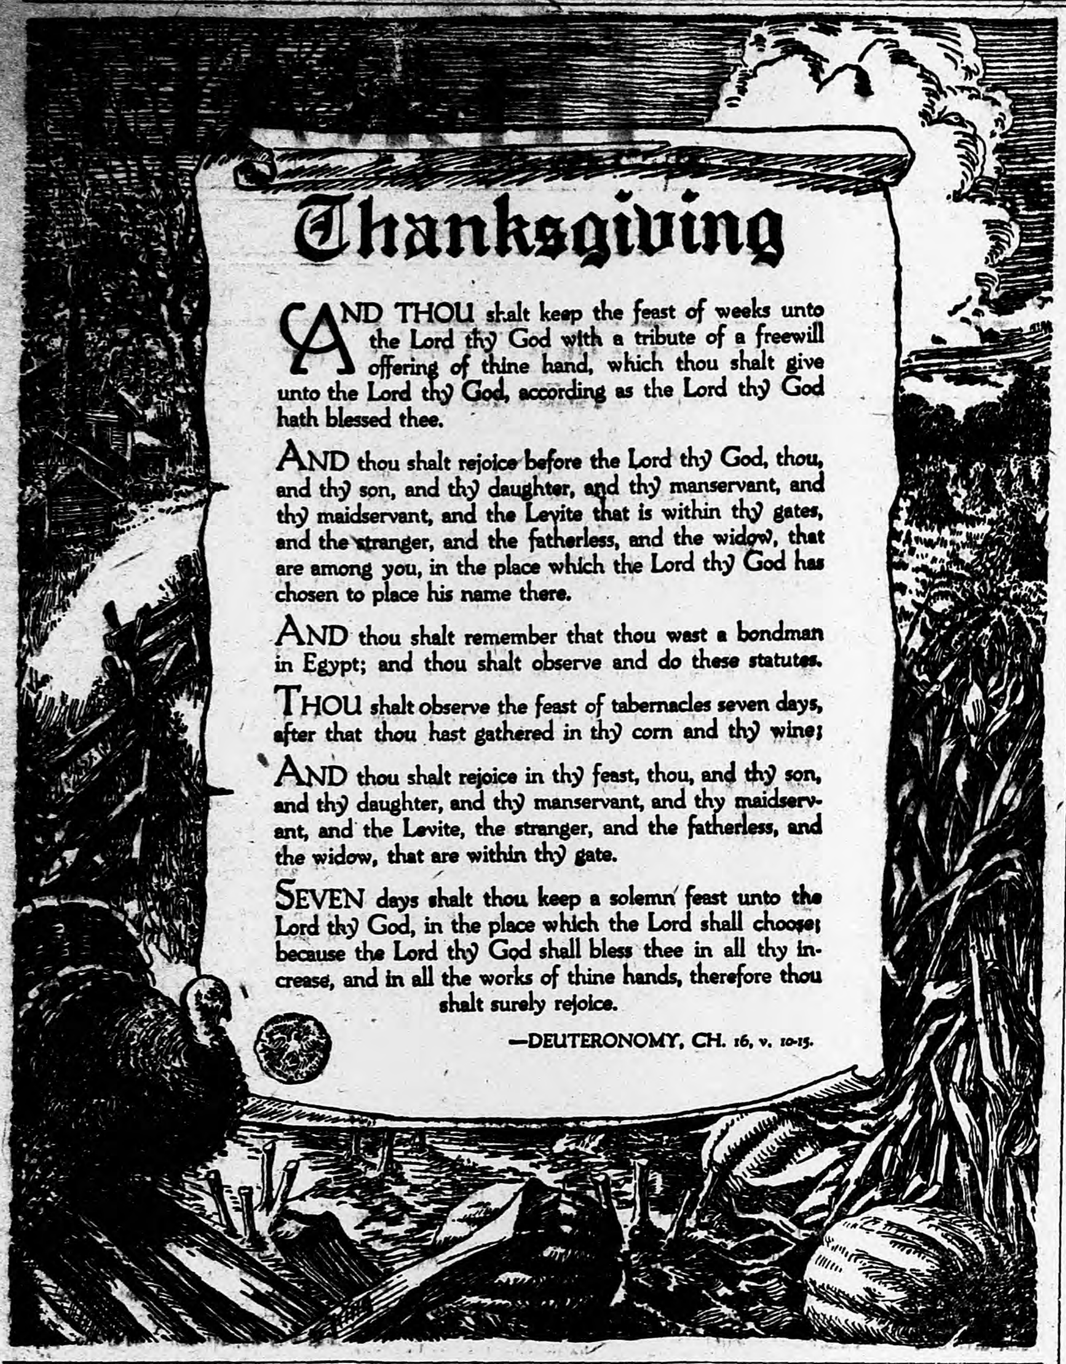
The National Executive Commission of the Presbyterian Church in conference at Atlantic City, N. J., last Wednesday announced next year's bunget would total $14,000,000, an increase of $2,000,000 over last year. There is a possibility of a few minor changes before it is finally submitted to the General Assembly when it meets in Des Moines, Iowa, in May.

The conference added $20,000 to its temperance budget over the $50,000 appropriated last year. The more important budget include: Foreign missions, $3,449,725; women's foreign missions, $1,200,000; home, $1,791,319; women's home missions, $1,000,000; home missions in self-supporting synods, $2,228,745; Freedman, $257,280; Women's Board for Freedman, $135,000; vacancy in supply, $12,000; chaplains, $6,000; education, $1,570,120; publication and Sabbath school work, $628,221; church erection, $560,725; relief and sustentation, $1,000,000; temperance, $70,000; inter-church movement debts, $70,000; evangelism, $352,865; men's work, $75,000; Sabbath observance, $24,000, and American Bible Society, $50,000.

Spent $750,000,000 For Candy

Federal tax returns have been given curious applications in connection with problems now before the Conference on Limitation of Armament. Statisticians for the Government have labored hard to bring the relative figures as to military expenditures and the amounts spent by the people of the country for amusements and minor luxuries out so sharply that their significance would be seen at a glance.

One set of tables show that against $418,000,000 spent for the Army, the country spent $750,000,000 in candy, $834,000,000 was spent in soda and confections and $959,000,000 for perfumery, jewelry, silk stockings and other articles for personal adornment.



Thanksgiving

AND THOU shalt keep the feast of weeks unto the Lord thy God with a tribute of a freewill offering of thine hand, which thou shalt give unto the Lord thy God, according as the Lord thy God hath blessed thee.

AND thou shalt rejoice before the Lord thy God, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thy maidservant, and the Levite that is within thy gates, and the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are among you, in the place which the Lord thy God has chosen to place his name there.

AND thou shalt remember that thou wast a bondman in Egypt; and thou shalt observe and do these statutes.

THOU shalt observe the feast of tabernacles seven days, after that thou hast gathered in thy corn and thy wine;

AND thou shalt rejoice in thy feast, thou, and thy son, and thy daughter, and thy manservant, and thy maidservant, and the Levite, the stranger, and the fatherless, and the widow, that are within thy gate.

SEVEN days shalt thou keep a solemn feast unto the Lord thy God, in the place which the Lord shall choose; because the Lord thy God shall bless thee in all thy increase, and in all the works of thine hands, therefore thou shalt surely rejoice.

—DEUTERONOMY, CH. 16, v. 10-15.

DAY EXPRESSIVE OF A NATION'S GRATITUDE

Turkey and cranberry sauce, crisp weather, a general sense of well-being and football are in the air at the very mention of Thanksgiving, writes Marguerite Samuels in the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

But football and too much dinner are not, in the final analysis, all of Thanksgiving. There is a deeper, inspirational side to the day set aside through three hundred years of American history as the great national celebration of gratitude.

Do you remember the simple story of that first Thanksgiving day as you read it in your primary reader? And the thrill of thankfulness for national greatness and goodness that came to you as your chubby fingers drew deformed turkeys and round-eyed Pilgrim fathers on the school blackboard?

It was in 1621, the fall following the landing at Plymouth, that the Pilgrims celebrated the first Thanksgiving day. The little colony, one hundred and two souls who had fared westward from England for their conscience's sake, had weathered the storms of the Atlantic and the worse hardships of a New England winter, and they had won through at last to a sort of tranquility—comparatively speaking.

Back from the rocky coastline of Massachusetts, with its thunder of limitless waves, a little group of log houses crowded together behind the tall stockade, feeling safe in their nearness to each other.

Garnered corn filled the barns and the storerooms of the houses were pungent with ripe apples. The colony felt firmly established in the New World of its seeking. Even the silent-footed Indians had begun to understand that there was room for them and for the pale faces too. The devout Puritan spirit of the travelers in the Mayflower felt that there was sufficient cause for thanking God.

The First Thanksgiving.

And so it was that the first day of organized thanksgiving was set. The whole little colony, in its best buckled shoes and high hats, with blunderbusses across square shoulders, sallied forth from the stockaded homes through snow to the log church, there to give community thanks for the freedom of their stern lives.

Outside, the Indians crouched behind the firs and beeches, watching and wondering.

From the Pilgrim colony, the custom spread to others in the New England states. In 1630 the Massachusetts Bay colony set aside a day for thanksgiving, and frequently thereafter, until 1680, when it became an annual festival in the colony.

Connecticut appointed a day in 1639, and annually after 1647, except in 1675. The Dutch in New Netherlands set aside a day in 1644 and occasionally thereafter. During the War of Independence the Continental congress appointed one or more thanksgiving days each year, except in 1777. President Washington set aside Thursday, Nov. 26, 1789, as a day of national thanks, and again in 1795 he called the country together for such a celebration. President Madison, at the close of the War of 1812, appointed a day.

In some of the southern states a national Thanksgiving day met with opposition as a relic of Puritanic bigotry, so utterly at variance with the Cavalier ideals of the southern colonists; but by 1858 proclamations were issued by the governors of 25 states and two territories.

Is New England Festival.

Perhaps it is natural that the South, so far in thought and experience from the colonizers of New England, should, even yet, be less whole-hearted in its celebration of Thanksgiving than is the eastern section of the United States. With its commemoration of hardships of 1620, with its ceremonies of the harvest, Thanksgiving is essentially a New England festival. And to see it truly carried out, you must see it there.

In Massachusetts, it is the signal for great family reunions. From California, from the high seas, from the neighboring town, the sons and daughters and cousins and aunts and uncles foregather at the old homestead on Thanksgiving day. With the first snowfall of the season, generally scheduled for the last week in November, the roomy sleighs and the vast bearskin rugs are hauled out of their summer mothballs; and from early morning until noon, there is a gay jingle of sleigh bells going and coming between the railroad station and the farmhouse.

After the dinner—a tremendous affair—the old people sit half dozing about the open fires, telling stories of the New England that is gone.

"Do you remember?" says one; and they are off in a glorious revel of recollection of their own youth, when automobiles were unknown, and Boston might have been 1,500 instead of 15 miles away.

The young people of the family, deeply wrapped in fur coats and rugs, already had dashed off along the slippery roads to Cambridge and "The Game."

The Harvard stadium on Thanksgiving day was a view of serried rows of excitement never to be forgotten. The grey rhythmic curves of the coliseum all flamingly gay with banners and flowers and girls' holiday hats. Along the Harvard section, red roses and crimson sweaters bloomed in the menagerie of fur coats and rugs. Where the Yale contingent cheered for the bulldog, the blue of Parma violets was like a twilight mist along the rows of spectators.

A whistle—and the game is on. Tensely leaning forward, the 80,000 watch as if life and death were being decided in the arena below. At the first touchdown the winning side goes mad with joy. Flags wave, arms and hats are promiscuously pitched about, perfect strangers pat other perfect strangers on the back, and thrilled girls shake hands with boys they never saw before.

Meanwhile the snow comes down softly, in a powdery rain, and the final goal sees frozen hands and feet restively glad to race off to warm dormitory teas, where the victory is celebrated in English breakfast, or the defeat drowned in orange pekoe, cakes and laughing chatter.

In Boston Thanksgiving morning great crowds fill Trinity, or whatever church has been designated for the union service. The pigeons in Copley square flutter over them—tame friendly doves of "peace on earth, good will to men."

Thanksgiving in New Orleans.

Here in New Orleans several of the churches hold special union services, and the day is commemorated in typical New Orleans fashion—thanking God by giving others something for which to be thankful. Magical basket dinners, containing everything from turkey to dessert, are given to the hungry poor of the city by the Elks, the Shriners, the Salvation Army, Kingsley house and other benevolent organizations. School children remember, with fruit and nuts, the sufferers at the Home for Incurables.

Harold's Destination.

Harold's parents had just recently moved to town, and one of his little friends invited him to a party. Harold went, but did not enjoy himself. The games seemed so silly, and the girls were always giggling, and Harold was not sure that he was not the subject of their mirth. He endured it for a while, but finally slipped from the room, expecting to leave unnoticed.

But just as he was opening the door, the little host's mother saw him and asked: "Why, what's the matter, Harold?"

To which he replied: "Aw, there's nothing the matter with Harold, but he are going home."

MOLIERE UNHAPPY IN LIFE

Great French Playwright and Comedian Seems to Have Had the Usual Fate of Genius.

Armande Bejart, beautiful, witty and quick tempered, an actress of rare ability and charm, was the wife of Moliere, the leading comedian of his time, and one of the greatest in the world's history. Under twenty, when she married the playwright, then a man of forty, given to spells of moodiness and abstraction and endowed with all the eccentricities of genius, it would, as one biographer has said, be little short of a miracle had the marriage been a happy one.

Attracted by her beauty, the playwright, once married, did little to show his love. His interest in his work kept him away from his young bride a large part of the time, and the old story of the neglected wife was the result. Armande loved admiration, and when she did not get it from her husband, she flirted, harmlessly to be sure, but sufficiently to arouse his fierce jealousy.

The pair quarreled constantly, even bringing their disagreements before Louis XIV, with whom they were favorites. When their first son was born Louis acted as godfather. In spite of their stormy life, they were passionately attached to each other, and Moliere wrote many of his plays to provide Armande with suitable roles. They were married only 11 years when he died.

WOULD PROVE HE WROTE JOB

Australian Naturally Indignant When His Claim to Authorship Became Matter of Dispute.

Here is an extract from an Australian paper: For the first time since I established my lending library in Melbourne a new patron the other day took out the Bible on the customary terms, value down, and 3d. charged for the reading. He had come in asking for "The Book of Job." He looked like a person fresh from Toodlembuck as I ran a puzzled eye over him. "The Book of Job?" said I. "I haven't it separately, but you'll find it in the Bible." "Gimme one, and show me where," said the caller. I pointed out the Book of Job, and my new customer took the Bible out. He returned it on the third day. "When was that writ?" said he. I explained that it was about 2,000 years since it was first put upon the market. "I s'pose an old chap name of Job up at the Slip couldn't have writ it?" I didn't think it at all likely. "I always told the misses Job was a liar," said the new customer. He went away, but about a week later I received a letter from the Slip. It assured me that Horis Job, livin' there, did write this book, and what's more said he'd do it again if any city bloke disbelieved him.

Find a Mummified Dinosaur.

The vast ice fields of Siberia have in many instances acted as a natural cold-storage plant for the preservation of the flesh of the mammoth, this prehistoric cousin of the elephant, having been dug out of his chilly grave intact on numerous occasions. It has always been supposed, however, that this was the only instance in which anything more than the bare bones of the fauna of past geological epochs had come down to us. Doubtless this mammoth will continue to stand unique in this respect; but he is no longer unapproached. There has recently been put on exhibition in the Senikenberg museum, Frankfort-am-Main, a dinosaur skeleton which carries with it a considerable portion of the skin of the animal, in mummified form. In particular the epidermis over the animal's back is present practically intact. The skeleton has been mounted in flying position, and makes altogether an impressive exhibit.—Scientific American.

Human Stature Unchanged.

The stories of the pygmies go with the fables of the giants. The men of ancient times were of the same, or nearly the same, height as those of the present day. The doors of ancient houses, ancient armor, the Egyptian mummies, as well as the fossil bones of men, prove that there has been little or no variation.

Among famous tall men was the Roman Emperor Maximin, whose stature was seven and three-quarter feet. Maximin was a young barbarian, the son of a Gothic father, who first attracted the attention of the Romans by overcoming sixteen of the strongest men, one after another, in a wrestling match, and, having been made a centurion, he fought and intrigued his way to the imperial throne.

The normal stature of men and women ranges between five feet and six feet four inches.

The Height of Man.

There is no evidence that men have ever had a greater average height than they have now. For a long time there existed in France, near the junction of the Isere and Rhone rivers, a deposit of gigantic bones known as the "giants' field." In recent times bones have been exhumed there which were believed to be human and were said to be those of Teutobodus, the king of the Teutons, who were overcome near the spot by Marius, the Roman general.

The researches of Cuvier proved however, that these bones, together with all the others exhumed in the same place, were those of an extinct animal of the tapir species, which measured about twenty feet in length.

SWEPT OFF ALL VEGETATION

Ancient Records Tell of Visitation of Locusts That Were Followed by Dire Famine.

A passage of locusts in France, in 1613, entirely cut up even to the roots more than 15,000 acres of corn near Arles, and had even penetrated into the barns and granaries, when, as it were by Providence, many hundreds of birds, especially starlings, came to diminish their numbers. Notwithstanding this, nothing could be more astonishing than their multiplication, for the fecundity of the locust is remarkable.

Upon an order issued by the government for the collection of their eggs, more than 3,000 measures were collected, from each of which, it was calculated, would have issued nearly two millions of young ones. In 1650 they entered Russia in immense divisions in three places, thence passed over into Poland and Lithuania, where the air was darkened by their numbers. In many parts they lay dead to the depth of four feet. Sometimes they covered the surface of the earth like a dark cloud, loaded the trees, and the destruction which they produced exceeded all calculation. In 1645 immense swarms visited the islands of Formosa and Tayowan and caused such a famine that 8,000 persons died of hunger.

"Voices" of Crickets.

Crickets sing with their wings and not with their legs. And katydids do the same. You do not believe it? Since you were a little child you have been told that crickets made their chirping sounds by rubbing their hind legs together or scraping their legs against their wings or sides, or something like that. At any rate, they made what might be called foot notes or sang by leg power.

Insect students have settled the question. They say that crickets, like nearly all other varieties of singing insects, have "stringulating organs" at the base of their wings. Rubbing these organs together, they produce vibrations and the wings, which are hollow, serve as sounding boards and increase the volume of the sound. The "stringulating organs" look like two small folded wings having saw-like edges. The insect rasps these two saw edges together.

Origin of Famous Phrase.

There was a time when "Let'er go, Gallagher," meaning start or "cut loose," was heard in all parts of the United States. The exclamation was originated by a Judge Beaver, of Morgan county, Ky., during a trotting meeting in Tippon county.

The judge had entered a mare which was driven by one Gallagher, the city marshal of Harrodsburg. Some of the sporting fraternity, thinking to catch the judge napping, entered a famous fast trotter against his horse. At the end of the first half-mile the two racers approached the wire neck and neck at a 2:40 pace. At this moment the judge shouted:

"Let'er go Gallagher!"

Gallagher hearing the words, loosed the reins and the mare rushed forward and won by almost a dozen lengths.

WEDDING LASTS FOR SEVEN DAYS

Marriage Customs of Palestine Are Among Most Interesting Celebrations of Country.

FOODSTUFFS AS PRESENTS

Wedding Begins on Monday and Winds Up With Breakfast on Following Sunday—Neighbors Take Part in Merrymaking.

Jerusalem.—The marriage customs of Palestine, demonstrated recently in the wedding of one of the prettiest girls of the city to a well-to-do merchant, are among the most interesting celebrations of this ancient city.

No person who is privileged to witness one will ever forget either the gorgeous costumes displayed or the thrill of the music and dancing indulged in by the guests.

Not only the respective families of the bride and bridegroom but also the entire neighborhood take part in the merrymaking, which generally lasts for seven days.

Eye for Presents.

Invitations are sent only to those from whom presents are expected. However, any person may attend who wishes. Presents are always in the nature of foodstuffs, such as rice, meat, sugar, coffee, flour, butter and vegetables. These are necessary to provide food for the hundreds of guests who flock to the bridegroom's house daily to take part in the singing and dancing.

Saturday brings the climax to all joy making. If the bridegroom's father is of even moderate circumstances professional musicians are hired for the day.

Men and women in Palestine do not mix together often, due to the general belief that women are not mentally worthy of association. Consequently it becomes necessary to entertain women separately.

On Saturday evening at eight o'clock there takes place the shaving of the bridegroom, a feature of the entertainment. Surrounded by scores of men and women who keep up incessant maddening yells, which may be heard for a mile around, the barber undertakes the operation.

March to Church.

This done, a procession is formed, proceeding to the church with people marching two abreast. At the head come eight kawases (guards), followed by ten children carrying in their hands palm branches and long candles lighted. Immediately after hobble four priests dressed in their church robes and singing psalms. The bridegroom, accompanied by his father and the best man, comes next, trailed by 200 or 300 men. At the end of the procession come the women and children.

A similar procession having started at about the same time from the bride's place, the two groups meet at some appointed place and proceed jointly to the church. All along the streets men and women, wakened by the noise, lean out of their windows to watch the bridal party.

After the wedding ceremony is performed a general rush is made to the bridegroom's house, where a breakfast is served (by this time it being early morning) to all.

LASSO DEER OUT OF LAKE

Young Buck Roped From Deck of Ferry and Turned Over to Zoo at Seattle.

Seattle, Wash.—Lassoed in the middle of Lake Washington from the deck of the ferry Atlanta, a year-old buck deer was captured and turned over to the zoo at Woodland park. The pursuit and capture assumed the aspects of a marine rodeo before the animal was finally landed ashore.

The deer had been chased off Mercer island by dogs and was attempting to swim across the lake.

When the deer arrived at Woodland park it was pronounced one of the finest specimens ever seen here. It is the fifth deer that has been captured and turned over to the park, but the first to come out of the water.

Farmer Puzzled.

Nashua, Ia.—Farming is a queer business, Henry Maloy mused, as he jostled along on a lumber wagon on his way home from market. He had just sold a load of corn and a crate of chickens. The load of corn brought $14.04. The crate of chickens, twenty-two in all, brought him $15.66, or $1.62 more than his load of corn. Maloy does not know what to think about this farming business, when a single crate of chickens brings more than a full load of corn.

Illiteracy Decreases.

Washington.—Decrease of more than 1 per cent in the number of illiterate persons ten years of age or over in Rhode Island during the ten year period between 1910 and 1920 was shown by figures announced to-day by the census bureau. The total of 31,-312 persons unable to write in any language in 1920 was 6.5 per cent of the total population.

When the sportsmen go out in the country with their guns they usually see no game and when they go out and see some game they left their guns at home.

The delegates to the armament conference all wear plug hats, according to the pictures. American railroad bridges were never planned to allow for this headgear.

The men of this town who can't remember to take their hats off when the flag of their country passes by, will not probably forget that act when they meet a good looking girl.

The world can't improve its schools because it takes most of its money to pay for wars and it has to spend its money for wars because its schools didn't teach people any better.

THANKSGIVING DAY

The founders of this country believed that God is managing human destiny and that if faithfully obeyed he would guard and preserve those of his children who ventured across the stormy seas into this unknown wilderness. And even before they had gained a real foothold and while their future looked most aminous, they appointed a day of thanksgiving to God.

Now there is the same danger that our people will forget the God who led the fathers, as that some men who pray with all their hearts while in some bodily peril, will forget God when they recover and life seems smiling. But if this republic is to endure and be worth preserving it must not lose that reliance upon the divine force that heartened our forefathers in their hard struggle. Many nations that forgot God and his laws in the past have gone down into the dust and nothing is left of their greatness but decaying ruins.

The American people in their thoughtless way appoint a holiday of thanksgiving to God and then use it for football and sporting life. They mean no harm and they need the relaxation. But it would not hurt them a bit to spend some part of the day in Thanksgiving devotions.

Most people, no matter how difficult their lot, can see some brighter side of their life for which, in common decency, they ought to give thanks. And as for the nation, it has abundant reason for thankfulness, that it passed through a worlds-baking catastrophe with less suffering than other peoples.

And the real thanksgiving day is no mere thing of personal feeling, but it seeks out the poor and needy and makes them share in the general well being. A Thanksgiving observance that does nothing for those who are in doubt whether they have reason for thankfulness, observes the letter rather than the spirit of the occasion.

DEVELOPING WATER POWERS

The passage of the Federal act of 1920 providing for development of water powers is encouraging many capitalists to go ahead on this class of projects. The number of applications for such development for the past six months equals the total of all applications for the preceding fifteen years.

Every such a development means a lower cost for power now generated by coal or other fuel. It enables many industrial districts to get along with little coal. Water powers do not go on strike. Investors should be encouraged to put money into a kind of project that reduces costs for all that use it, and the product of which must sell better and better as the country grows.

Governor Ritchie's Painful Task

Governor Ritchie faces a disagreeable but imperative task in preparing the State Budget for the next two fiscal years. He is asked for appropriations which exceed the State's estimated annual revenues by $7,000,000 or $8,000,000.

Some of these requested appropriations relate to essential institutions, such as the five hospitals for the insane, and they must be considered strictly on their merits and their immediate needs. But whatever may be the apportionment of the State revenues, only absolute necessity and the public welfare will excuse expenditures exceeding the State income. The bills of taxpayers have been growing steadily and alarmingly in the last decade or so, and there will be an almost universal demand that every item on the budgets for the next two years be subjected to the most drastic scrutiny.

The Democratic issue in the last campaign was one of economy and efficiency. The people will hold the Democratic party to that issue. It may hurt a good many feelings to live up to it, but that must be done, if the Governor and his party do not want to have their own feelings hurt at the next election.—Baltimore Sun.

How Not To Take Cold

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over-heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.

Trustee's Sale
OF VALUABLE
Rea Estate

By virtue of a decree of the Circuit Court for Somerset County, in Equity, passed in a cause in which Dale Dashiell and Charles M. Dashiell, partners doing business as Dashiell Brothers, are plaintiffs and Lola M. Furniss and others are defendants, the undersigned trustee therein named will sell at public auction at the Court House door in Princess Anne, Maryland, on at or about the hour of 2 o'clock p. m.

All that lot or parcel of land

more or less, lying on the west side of the county road leading from Asbury M. E. Church to Gibson's Point, adjoining the land of Plummer Bloodsworth and Joseph C. Dashiell, being the same land which was devised to Cora Dayton, now deceased, by her mother, Elizabeth A. Dashiell, in her last will and testament recorded among the testamentary records of said county. This lot of land is improved by a TWO-STORY DWELLING HOUSE in good condition.

TERMS OF SALE:—As prescribed by the decree—One-half of the purchase money to be paid in cash on the day of sale, and the balance in six months from the day of sale, and to be secured by the bond of the purchaser with approved security, bearing interest, or all cash at the option of the purchaser. Title papers at the expense of the purchaser.

H. FILLMORE LANKFORD, Trustee

The creditors of the said Cora Dayton, deceased, are hereby notified to file their claims with the vouchers thereof in the office of the Clerk of the Circuit Court for Somerset county within one month from the day of sale.

H. FILLMORE LANKFORD,
11-15 Trustee.

Order of Publication

William C. Mudge vs. Florence Pearl Mudge.

No. 3512 Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Somerset County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the plaintiff a vinculo matrimonii from the defendant.

The bill states that the plaintiff and defendant were married on the tenth day of December, nineteen hundred and ten, in the city of Hoboken, State of New Jersey, and resided together in the city of New York, State of New York, until the twenty-third day of July, nineteen hundred and eighteen; that although the conduct of the plaintiff toward the defendant has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said defendant without any just cause or reason abandoned and deserted the plaintiff, and has declared her intention to live with him no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years, and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff and defendant have no children born to them from said marriage; that the defendant, Florence Pearl Mudge, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, when last heard from residing in the city of New York, State of New York.

It is thereupon this 18th day of November, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, ordered by the Circuit Court for Somerset county, in Equity, that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Somerset county once in each of four successive weeks before the twentieth day of December, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, give notice to the said non-resident defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning her to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the seventh day of January, nineteen hundred and twenty-two, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Some one wants to know what has become of the old-fashioned woman who used to cook about 100 pies for father and the boys for Thanksgiving? Well, the last heard from she was ladling out thin tea at the bridge parties while father and the boys were eating ham sandwiches at the lunch rooms.

Good Health

If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well, when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle.

THE HARDWARE QUESTION SOLVED

Do You Need a New Cook Stove

It's a waste of time and energy to try to cook and bake with the old-fashioned cook stove—and, worse still, an actual waste of fuel. The modern kitchen stoves and ranges are marvels of efficiency, economy and convenience in comparison. They make cooking and baking easier, cheaper and more uniform.

We have them in the best makes—for small families and for large—with coal or wood grates—malleable, rust-proof and with the latest inventions and attachments.

We are always glad to show our stock and to point out the features that make ours the best.

The members of Olivet Christian Church will hold a social and oyster supper at the church Thursday evening, November 24th, the proceeds of which will be used for the improvement of the cemetery.

The social held by the teacher and pupils of Whitesburg school Friday evening was quite a success. The evening was delightfully spent by the many present and a nice sum realized, which will be used to purchase an organ for the school.

The Whitesburg Literary Society met at the schoolhouse Thursday evening. An interesting program was rendered as follows: Recitation, Miss Opal Honeywell; reading, Mr. Willie Bowland; reading, Miss Annie Bower; duet, Miss Annie Bower and Mrs. Bowland. The question, "Resolved, That Education is Better than Riches," was debated in the affirmative by Messrs. E. L. Anderson, Preston Adkins and Bowland, and the negative by Messrs. Honeywell, B. T. Dykes and R. K. Riggin. The judges decided in favor of the affirmative.

A Timely Suggestion

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.

NICE JUICY TURKEY may be a powerful incentive to Thanksgiving, yet is not necessary when there is genuine appreciation of the real blessings of the year.

GIVING THANKS may be made so formal that the Almighty doubts the existence of gratitude. It was the poor Publican's prayer that was commended to us all.

His Highness

UNDERWOOD & UNDERWOOD

WHAT WOULD THE DAY BE WITHOUT A BIRD LIKE THIS TO GRAC E THE BOARD?

Thanksgiving Should Mean More Than Mere Feeling of Gratitude for Favors

It is to be regretted that the beautiful and appropriate custom of observing a day of Thanksgiving has become associated with an abundance of material things. If crops have been bountiful, if the harvest has been great, if there has been an overflow of the "good" things of earth, and if the times have been peaceful, reasons for thanksgiving are supposed to increase correspondingly.

There is something in the outward tradition of Thanksgiving that would appear to justify this stressing of the importance of material things; but there is also something in the real Thanksgiving that would demand the stressing of other things, demand the placing of emphasis upon spiritual matters rather than upon conditions which pertain solely to the physical well being of man.

The real Thanksgiving demands a feeling of deep appreciation for whatever has come, the acceptance "with equal thanks" of the good fortune or the bad fortune of previous months. This Thanksgiving is essentially an internal thing—it can be observed regardless of what one had for dinner that day, and its observance is an affair that should be open to the rich and the poor of the earth.

It may well be that some, on this day of taking stock and expressing gratitude for blessings, can find little of good that has come to them as the world counts good. But these are the ones for whom Thanksgiving may hold the deepest reality. These may say:

"Lord, for life, its love, its hope, its interest, its opportunity for service; for the great and durable satisfactions of living that center about home and work; for deep and abiding memories of joy that bereavement has brought into sharp relief; for all these blessings may I be truly thankful."

To this prayer may be added by those in prosperity:

"And may I be mindful lest in the excess of good things I become self-centered and forget my obligations to my fellow men."

Pessimism Has No Place in the Real Spirit of Time of Thanksgiving

After having devoted so much of our time to bemoaning the misfortunes that have come to us as a people during the past year, it will do us good on this Thanksgiving day to stop and look at the other side of the ledger and cast up the account of the good things that have come to us.

Our situation admittedly has not been as favorable in many respects as we could desire. We have had problems and difficulties which naturally aroused dissatisfaction and discontent. We have been feeling mighty sorry for ourselves.

Perhaps Thanksgiving occasion could bring no greater blessing to us as a people than to readjust our perspective and displace pessimism with a new spirit of optimism.

Before we enter into the true spirit of the day it is necessary to put away our hatreds, our grouches and discontents and center our thoughts upon the blessings that have come. If one would give thanks he must realize the fact of having been blessed, and in doing so he minimizes the misfortunes he has experienced. The pessimist is in no position to give thanks. The spirit of optimism will possess us to the extent that we are able to give thanks in spirit and in truth to the Giver of All Good Gifts today.

For the fact remains that, in spite of our difficulties, we are the most prosperous and the most favorably situated nation on the earth and that we have more reasons for contentment and gratitude than any other people.

This Thanksgiving day, if observed in the spirit of those who inaugurated it, is capable of lifting the spirit and thought of the American people to new heights and of ushering in a new era of contentment and happiness.

Thanksgiving day comes to mean today not only an occasion when we may express our gratitude to the Most High for His care and kindness in the past, but likewise a time when by marshaling our blessings before us we are inspired with new hope and courage for the future.

Cranberries Always Have Played Prominent Part at Thanksgiving Feast

It is a tradition in Plymouth that the eating of turkey and cranberry sauce on Thanksgiving day goes back to the first Pilgrim Thanksgiving.

That little band of self-exiled, devoted Christians crossed the stormy sea in the Mayflower and landed at Plymouth Rock on December 21, 1620. Their first winter in the New World was one of great suffering, marked with famine and hardships.

Governor Bradford, in his account of the Pilgrims' first Thanksgiving, does not give a menu of the dinner, but he often refers to the wild turkeys as one of the luxuries of the colony. However, John Josslyn, an English traveler and naturalist, who visited New England in 1638 and wrote an account of its "Rarities," says: "Cranberry or bearberry (because bears used much to feed upon them) is a small trayling plant that grows in salt marshes that are overgrown with moss. The Indians and English use them much, boiling them with sugar for sauce to eat with their meat."

That cranberries belong to the traditional Pilgrim dinner is shown by the menu of the "decent repast" served at the first "Celebration of the Landing of Our Forefathers," which was observed on December 22, 1769. This day was celebrated by the Old Colony club of Plymouth with a procession and a dinner consisting of a large baked Indian whortleberry pudding, a dish of sauquetach (succotash), a dish of clams, a dish of oysters and a dish of codfish, a haunch of venison, roasted by the first jack brought into the colony; a dish of fowl, cranberry tarts, a dish of fresh fish and eels, an apple pie, a course of cheese made in the old colony. These articles were dressed in the plainest manner (all appearance of luxury, whose memory we shall ever respect).

Turkey, succotash and cranberries still play their part in the Thanksgiving dinners in Plymouth, and five grains of parched corn are laid beside each place in remembrance of the early years of famine.

Thanksgiving

In days of old our Pilgrim sires,
Saved from pestilence, famine, woe
Pledged faith anew 'round homestead fires

These modern days with blessings great
The world at peace, the harvests vast;
Might we not pause, a moment wait—
To offer thanks, as in the past.

Thedford's Black-Draught Highly Recommended by a Tennessee Grocer for Troubles Resulting from Torpid Liver.

East Nashville, Tenn.— The efficiency of Thedford's Black-Draught, the genuine, herb, liver medicine, is vouched for by Mr. W. N. Parsons, a grocer of this city. "It is without doubt the best liver medicine, and I don't believe I could get along without it. I take it for sour stomach, headache, bad liver, indigestion, and all other troubles that are the result of a torpid liver.

"I have known and used it for years, and can and do highly recommend it to every one. I won't go to bed without it in the house. It will do all it claims to do. I can't say enough for it."

Many other men and women throughout the country have found Black-Draught just as Mr Parsons describes—valuable in regulating the liver to its normal functions, and in cleansing the bowels of impurities.

Thedford's Black-Draught liver medicine is the original and only genuine. Accept no imitations or substitutes. Always ask for Thedford's. E 88

LEGION MAN UP FOR MAYOR

Henry H. Curran Wins Nomination in New York City, With Comrade Pressing Close Second.

Two service men of the World war were among the four candidates who sought their party's nomination for mayor of New York recently. One of them, Henry H. Curran, won out in the contest, with an ex-service comrade, F. H. LaGuardia a close second.

Mr. Curran, at present president of the borough of Manhattan, taking in what is commonly known as New York city, left off a thriving law practice to enter the army. He entered the first officers training camp at Plattsburg in 1917, was commissioned a major and served overseas as commander of the Three Hundred and Second engineers, Seventy-seventh division. Following his discharge in April, 1919, he organized the Three Hundred and Second engineers post of the American Legion and was prominent in the work of that organization until he actively entered politics, when, as he was holding an elective office and trying for another, he was unable to hold any Legion office because of the service organization's ruling.

F. H. LaGuardia, president of the New York board of aldermen, a major in the air service during the war, on his defeat pledged his full support to Mr. Curran. John Purroy Mitchel, former mayor of New York, entered the air service shortly after his defeat for re-election in 1917 and likewise became a major in the air service, in which capacity he met his death.

ATHLETICS HIS STRONG WORK

Harry Maloney, American Legion Post Commander, Leads Team to Victory in Big Games.

The old "setting up" exercises of the army, invented primarily, they alleged, for the doubtful amusement of sleepy bucks but which happily spread by War department order to include the majors and colonels, did nothing to wreck the constitution or disposition of Harry W. Maloney, once the World war assistant director of athletics at Leland Stanford University, Palo Alta, Cal.

A veteran of the Boer war, during which he served with the English, Maloney kept in condition during the days of the A. E. F. Leaving off the training of varsity athletes at Stanford, he became director of athletics at Camp Fremont, Cal. Later he went to France as supervisor of the athletic entertainment of the Eighth Infantry, and when the big inter-allied games were held in the Pershing stadium, Paris, in the spring of 1919, he was in charge of the American team which swept everything before it. Maloney is commander of Fremont post, the American Legion.

GOT TEN HITS IN TEN SHOTS

Holder of World's Record in Gun-Pointing, W. S. Wilson Retires From the Navy.

With sixteen years of service in the United States navy and the world's record in gun-pointing to his credit, William S. Wilson, Westfield, Mass., has retired from a life of thrills and travel to that of a front-porch citizen.

"Now I'll have a chance to get acquainted with my family," Wilson wrote the American Legion headquarters when his final honorable discharge was in his hands. He is the father of four children, including twins.

The sailor made two trips around the world before the World war. During it he was on the first United States sub chaser to cross the Atlantic. He spent the winter of 1917-18 in the waters off the Azores, and later was detailed as adjutant to organize a naval unit at Columbia university, New York. He established his gun-pointing record in 1908 by getting ten hits in ten shots in seventeen seconds at battle range. On discharge he was chief torpedo man in the fleet naval reserve.

Equally True.

"The rapidly increasing divorce rate," remarked the wit, "indicates that America is indeed becoming the land of the free." "Yes," replied his prosaic friend, "but the continued marriage rate suggests that it is still the home of the brave."—American Legion Weekly.

Ice Water Proved an Aid.

By distributing ice water free to all comers at the county fair in El Reno, Kan., the local post of the American Legion attracted a large crowd and was enabled to assist service men in getting Victory Medals and in untangling their government compensation claims.

Pair of Bats Start Rumpus in Town

Defiance, O.—When Policeman Weaner rushed up to the residence of Sheriff Zeschke at 2 a. m., attracted by a great din, he thought either the sheriff was being murdered or a jail delivery was in progress.

"Two of them got in, but I only killed one," he panted.

It was a bat.

CHILDREN NEVER SAW SCHOOL

Official Finds Community Within Fifty Miles of Ohio Statehouse With 25 Uneducated Children.

Columbus, O.—A community of four families, having twenty-five children hitherto unknown to school officials, has been found in a county within fifty miles of the statehouse, according to State Director of Education Riegel. The discovery was made, according to Director Riegel, by a county attendance officer under the new Bing law.

Of the 25 children, 16 are between six and eighteen, and belong in school. Twelve of the sixteen have never been to school a day, and cannot read or write their names.

One of them is in the advanced stages of tuberculosis, another has Brights disease, a woman and a child have trachoma and an eight-year-old girl has pernicious anemia, all without medical attention.

Plans are to erect a little school for the families, if a teacher can be found willing to go there, Riegel said. The community is several miles from a school.

SCHOOL FARM ON 'LEPER ISLE'

First Efforts to Rehabilitate Hawaiian Race to Be Made on Island of Molokai.

Honolulu, T. H.—The island of Molokai, the famous "leper isle" of the Hawaiian group, will be the scene of the first efforts to rehabilitate the dying Hawaiian race, in accordance with the Hawaiian homes commission law passed by congress; it was decided here by the commission appointed by Gov. Wallace R. Farrington to administer the provisions of the law.

The commission voted to establish a model demonstration farm on Molokai, which is approximately 30 miles from Oahu, the island on which Honolulu is situated. The farm will be on the grounds of Hoolehua and Palaau, set aside by congress for the Hawaiians, and will be directed by "a part-Hawaiian of agricultural education and experience," the committee said.

SCOLDING FOR JAP PRINCE

Future Mikado Tried to Travel Incognito in Paris and Was Bawled Out.

Tokyo.—Commander Yamamoto, naval attache to Crown Prince Hirohito during his recent tour, says that one day the crown prince attempted to travel by the Paris subway incognito.

Asked to show his ticket, the prince tried to get it checked, keeping the corner of the ticket in his hand. The wicket officer snarled: "Come on—show your ticket."

"When I saw the prince recently," said the commander, "he turned to me and remarked with a smile: 'For the first time in my life I was scolded. Do you remember?'"

FINDS ANEMIA ANTITOXIN

California Doctor Is Elected Member of Association for Advancement of Science.

Pasadena, Cal.—Discovery of the germ of pernicious anemia by Dr. Philip Rantjen, former professor of bacteriology at the University of California, was announced here on receipt of word from Washington that the American Association for the Advancement of Science had honored him for the discovery by electing him to membership. Doctor Rantjen is credited with isolating the anemia germ and developing an antitoxin and serum.

Angry Duck Whips Cow.

Chariton, Mo.—It is being told on the streets of Keytesville how a wandering cow was recently badly licked by an angry duck. They have both ducks and cows at the county poor farm. Recently one of the cows went to the duck pond to get a drink, and while there was viciously attacked by the duck, which completely lost its ungovernable temper and proceeded to kick the stuffin' out of the intruder. In the final round of the hectic encounter, the cow turned tail, and fled ignominiously, with the battling duck in hot pursuit.

Prehistoric Fish.

Concordia, Kan.—The Solomon river, near Stockton, continues to bring forth many queer things. Henry Reich, who lives near Stockton, found a fin of a prehistoric fish while searching the river bed. The member has become petrified and weighs about 100 pounds. Reich will send the remnant to the State university at Lawrence for classification.

DESPAIR LURKS IN WEAK BLOOD

Gude's Pepto-Mangan the Blood-Builder, Arouses Dull Faculties

Many a man and many a woman feels all out of sorts from thin, weakened blood. The least little thing gone wrong throws them into a wild form of despondency. Instead of bracing up and meeting ordinary difficulties, they are downed. Nerves are on edge. Appetite lags. Sleep is restless. They are weak and tired and dull. Poor blood works its havoc till the will loses its power. Few people who fall into habits of worry and despondency realize that most of their troubles are due to lack of endurance—to blood that has become weakened by overwork or straining.

Healthy men and women with rich, red blood see things brightly. They tackle life with zest and go along smilingly, full of eagerness and endurance.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan taken steadily restored the blood to its natural richness. It actually makes red corpuscles, the tiny particles in blood which make it red. Druggists have Gude's Pepto-Mangan in liquid and tablet form.—Advertisement.

No Topographical Formality.

With the exception of a few areas in the Cook inlet region, the topography of Chugach forest in Alaska is exceedingly rugged, the mountains often rising abruptly from the sea. On Resurrection bay the towering peaks seem to reach into heaven. The timber line is usually at an elevation of about 2,000 feet; above this rise barren, glacial peaks, ranging from 3,000 to 8,000 feet in elevation.

Orthographical Verification.

It is the common opinion that the Irish dearly love a scrap and that without something to stir their passions they would become dull and spiritless. Is this opinion justified? We can only answer, in our flippant way, that obviously the "Ire" cannot be removed from "Ireland" without at the same time removing a portion of its "elan."—Boston Transcript.

Sealing Wax Etiquette.

In the days when all correspondence was sealed there was etiquette about the use of sealing wax. Royalty would give some favorite courtier the sole right to use a certain colored wax, and officers of the state would each have distinguishing colors, in much the same way as staff officers of the army wear colored "tabs" nowadays.

Make Your Home Comfortable For Your Wife

TAKE the family washing and ironing, for instance — two of the hardest, most depressing tasks American women have had to endure. The Universal Products plant frees the women of the home for all time from the dreaded "blue Monday."

Here is power for many uses in the home and on the farm — for churning butter, doing the sweeping; the washing and for pumping water, running the dairy machinery — in fact for all the round of duties that take so much time that can nowadays be put to better use.

And there are hours gained for leisure and comfort and grace of living. Bright, cheerful, genial light — evenings pleasanter, the family happier and everybody more comfortable at home.

Universal Products Light and Power keeps workers contented. Its labor-saving economy enables them to actually accomplish more 365 days in the year.

Let us show you this simple, economical plant. It costs less than you think. It produces more than you believe possible. Let us demonstrate some of the 1700 things it will do for you.

THRESHING MADE A PASTIME

Italian Families Beat Wheat From Straw in Rhythm, and Seem to Enjoy the Work.

Gasparino Dante got up early Sunday morning, and before the sun was very high his day's work was well started on his farm near Capula, Italy. The two daughters—one eighteen and the other fifteen—started (and finished) the day with the men. The younger children were too small to be of any help, although the boy of ten scattered wheat over the stone threshing floor so that it would be ready when the older members of the family had finished with breakfast—bread and cheese and coffee, for Dante can afford coffee in the morning. He owns thirty acres.

When threshing started, the father paired with the oldest girl on the side of the floor; the other couple stood side by side opposite. The four flails were poised high in the air an instant and then at a shout from the farmer one pair descended and as they were lifted the couple opposite struck.

The four beat the grain, keeping perfect time and pausing only while the boy raked the straw into a pile at one side of the floor and swept the kernels of wheat into another heap, and threw down a fresh supply.

Then, with a shouted signal that seemed to welcome the new onslaught the rhythm of the thumping started again. The manner of the threshers was more like that of couples dancing an old-fashioned quadrille than that of harvest toilers under the blistering, blinding midsummer sun of southern Italy.

WOMEN'S WOES

Princess Anne Women Are Finding Relief At Last

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Keeping the kidneys well has spared thousands of women much misery. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that is endorsed by people in this locality.

Mrs. Martha J. Tyler, Fairmount, Md., says: "I had kidney complaint and my back ached nearly all the time. I felt dull and had no energy. Headaches were frequent and I was often so dizzy I couldn't keep on my feet. My kidneys acted irregularly and annoyed me considerably. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills helping others and I tried them. They just suited the trouble and relieved the backaches, headaches and dizziness. My kidneys were regulated and I felt stronger and better in every way."

A Public Utility's Obligation

A PUBLIC utility has two outstanding obligations to the users of its service.

One is to give a good, reliable service at all times. To do this, it must have a competent, trained force of employees and pay them a living wage; it must use the best materials and equipment and pay for them at the market price.

The other obligation is to expand its system to be in a position to give service to all new patrons. This requires new capital. To command this new capital at all times, the investor—the person who has money to lend—must receive a fair return for its use.

The telephone system offers a striking example of these two obligations. Each new subscriber to the system involves not only a direct increase in the expense of giving service, but an outlay of new capital.

Therefore, a telephone system that does not earn an adequate revenue fails in its obligations to its patrons.

YOU Can't Get $50 Worth for $20

¶Occasionally a man will drop in to buy some good clothes of us, and will express himself a bit harshly about the lack of service that he experienced with a suit of the so-called cheap clothes that he had bought elsewhere.

¶This doesn't appear to us to be quite fair to the other fellow — nobody can sell really good clothes at the ridiculous prices which some houses advertise—GOOD clothes can't be made to sell at such prices, and the man who buys them shouldn't expect too much.

"Quality Still Counts"

¶It does seem odd how some people are still hipnotized by a price mark—prices are entirely relative, and if you pay a low price, you will get a low suit. Better spend a bit more and get real clothes.

¶MORRIS' standard of Quality, Fabric and of Tailoring represents the best that the world affords in clothes. The prices for Fall and Winter Suits, Top Coats and Overcoats range from $15.00 upward, with especial values at $25.00 and $30.00.

THE Ford worm-driven, One-Ton Truck with demountable rims and pneumatic tires, are dependable, as well as serviceable. This, probably more than any other factor, accounts for their popularity. There is no evidence so convincing as that which comes from long practical experience. Like the Ford car, the Ford One-Ton Truck—Ford-built throughout—has proven itself. In it are combined the Ford principles of simplicity, with strength, lowest first cost, lowest operating cost, durability.

In the city, on the farm, carrying its loads between cities—everywhere you will find the Ford One-Ton Truck doing duty. Merchants, manufacturers, farmers, have come to know it as the truck of utmost service.

MORE and more every day the demand for Fordson Tractor increases because the Fordson has demonstrated so much usefulness, so much economy, so much labor saving, so much money saving, along so many lines of activity. The farmer has discovered that not only for plowing, harrowing, discing, seeding, mowing, reaping or threshing, but a multitude of other uses; cutting wood; feed; grinding feed; churning; washing; furnishing water in the house; making electric light possible in the house and around the barns, so that, as a matter of fact, there is hardly an hour in the day when the Tractor cannot be made a profitable servant. There is ditching to do; there are roads to fix; and so on all down along the line of the enormous calls that constantly face the farmer the Fordson steps in and does the work, shoulders the complete burden of the toil and the hard work, one might almost say "drudgery." Girls' Winning Prize Trip

The Somerset County Club Girls who have won the prize trip to the University of Maryland short course next August are: Elizabeth Scott and Myrtle East, of Quinton, and Fannie Ford, of Fairmount. These girls are to be congratulated. The trip to College Park, Washington and Mt. Vernon is instructive and educational as well as pleasant and all the girls who went last August declare their intention of going again next time, at their own expense, which is allowable.

A very interesting Federated County Club meeting was held in the Court House Saturday, November 19th, with 24 members present. The girls of Quinton School gave a little drama entitled "Before and After," which was well rendered. The next meeting will be held January 14th in Princess Anne.

Local Concerns Give Prize Money

Those in charge of the Fifth Annual Somerset County Agricultural Show take this opportunity to thank the following local concerns and institutions for furnishing premium money for the show:

Bank of Somerset, $10.00; People's Bank, $10.00; Cohn & Bock Co., $10.00; Princess Anne Milling Co., $5.00; W. O. Lankford & Son, $5.00; C. H. Hayman, $5.00; William P. Fitzgerald, $2.00; Fred A. Culver, local agent for Armour Fertilizer Co., ½ ton 7-6-5 fertilizer.

The committee also wish to thank the Cohn & Bock Company for furnishing lumber, B. H. Dougherty for running slide at movies, County Commissioners for use of court room, Marylander and Herald and Crisfield Times for publicity.

DR. DENNIS' IMPORTANT POST

Somerset Countian Representative of U. S. Dept. of Commerce

Dr. Alfred P. Dennis, of Princess Anne, who for the last 18 months has been the United States Commercial Attache to the American Embassy at London, England, has been promoted and shortly will take up his new work as special representative of the Department of Commerce.

Exhaustive investigations of the food situation, both as to production and consumption, will be made by Dr. Dennis in England and in Europe for the Department of Commerce.

Few Americans know European commerce better than Dr. Dennis, who is a brother of Samuel K. Dennis and a cousin of John M. Dennis, of Baltimore. Since 1918 he has been in Europe almost continuously. He was appointed United States Trade Commissioner to Italy in December, 1918, the position being nonpolitical. While his residence was maintained in Rome, he kept in direct touch with commercial affairs not only in Italy, but throughout Continental Europe. His work was so satisfactory that he was transferred to London.

Dr. Dennis was graduated from Princeton in 1891 and received his degree of doctor of philosophy in 1894, becoming professor of history at Wesleyan University, Middleton, Conn. Later he was called to the chair of political economy and European history at Smith College, Northampton, Mass. Besides his teaching, he did a great amount of research work, and became known as a publicist concerning European affairs.

Poor health caused Dr. Dennis to give up his teaching about 13 years ago and he entered the lumber business on the Eastern Shore, but continued his studies on European economics. He accepted his first public office when he was sent as Trade Commissioner to Italy. He speaks German, French and Spanish, as well as Italian. His wife, whom he married in 1914, was Miss Mary Value, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Value, of "Melody Manor," of near Princess Anne, Somerset county.

Barnes To Contest Dryden's Election

Charles P. Barnes, Democratic candidate for sheriff of Somerset county at the last election, has instituted suit in the Circuit Court for Somerset county to contest the election of the Republican candidate, Charles S. Dryden. According to the official canvass of votes made by the Board of Election Supervisors, Dryden was returned elected over Barnes by three votes.

The suit is instituted by petition, and Judge Duer has passed an order that a copy of the petition be served on Dryden and that he shall have until December 12 to file an answer. Barnes is represented in the contest by Miles & Myers, H. Fillmore Lankford and Harry C. Dashiell, attorneys of Princess Anne.

Later on an order will be obtained from a justice of the peace of the county for taking of testimony to show irregularities in counting the ballots on the night of the election, after which the ballots will be recounted. The ballots protested by either side will be presented to the judges of the Circuit Court for final disposition.

MAY HOLD PERIODIC MEETINGS

Arms Parley May Result In Association Of Nations

A continuing conference, in which the nations will meet periodically to discuss international subjects, is understood to be expected by President Harding to result from the Armament Conference.

The President is said to have already exchanged views on that subject with some of the foreign delegates here and to have been assured that they regarded such a development as well within the bounds of possibility.

As a first step toward possible realization of Mr. Harding's plan for an association of nations, it was indicated in high official quarters last Friday that nations not represented in the present Conference, including Germany, might be invited to indorse the conclusions reached here.

It was also suggested that some of the nations not members of the Conference might be asked to express their opinion of the negotiations here before the Conference makes its final decisions.

Whether a continuing conference, such as that proposed, would be based on binding treaty agreements or would rest simply on an international "understanding" was said to be a question which only the course of the negotiations could answer.

President Harding, for his part, was said by high Administration officials to be perfectly willing that any agreements reached should take the form of "understandings" on the theory that a nation's word should be as good as its bond.

Auditorium Attractions This Week

William Farnum always is welcomed with enthusiasm by motion picture patrons, and especially when he appears in a stirring story of the Northland. Such a story is "Rough and Ready," by Richard Stanton and Edward Sedgwick, a William Fox photoplay which will be shown at the Auditorium Tuesday night. Farnum is said to be at his superb best in this picture and is supported by Violet Palmer, Alphonze Ethier, Jessie Arnold, David Higgins, Frank Newton, Mabel Bardine and Franklyn McGlynn.

Dorothy Dalton in "The Idol of the North," her greatest success since "The Flame of the Yukon," is to be exhibited at Auditorium Thursday night. We urge you to take advantage of this opportunity for you will see the beautiful Dorothy do the intensely dramatic work for which she is famous; you'll see the rough and ready atmosphere of the romantic days when adventurers, derelicts and miners rushed to the cry of "gold." In the caste are, Edwin August, E. J. Ratcliffe, Riley Hatch, Jules Cowles, Florence St. Leonard, Jessie Arnold, Marguerite Marsh and Joe King.

Saturday night the 5th episode of "Do or Die," featuring Eddie Polo in desperate adventures in the Island of Cuba and the Golden West.

NEGRO'S NOMINATION REJECTED

Johnson Fails To Get Post As Register Of Deeds

The Senate, in executive session last Tuesday, rejected the nomination of Henry Lincoln Johnson, colored, of Georgia, to be Recorder of Deeds for the District of Columbia. This is the first outright rejection of a nomination sent in by President Harding.

The Senate is understood to have taken no roll call vote on confirmation of the nomination of the Georgia negro politician, who is National Committeeman of the Republican party in that State. Both of the Georgia Senators were opposed to confirmation, which they declared was "objectionable and obnoxious to them."

When Senators from the State interested made such statements it generally results in rejection, but in the case of Johnson additional charges are said to have been made. Senator Thomas E. Watson recently charged Johnson with improper conduct in the handling of the funds of a client while Johnson was practicing law in Georgia.

In addition, Senator Watson recently stated in an interview that he would attempt to have Johnson indicted by a Georgia grand jury.

Senator Harris, of Georgia, while bringing no specific charges against Johnson, informed his fellow-Senators that the appointment was obnoxious to him personally.

Reports in Republican circles were that if Johnson had landed the Federal plum in Washington he would resign as National Committeeman in Georgia and relieve the reorganized Republican party of that State of certain embarrassments.

Successful Agricultural Display

The Colored Community Agricultural Fair, supervised by Local County Agent L. H. Martin, came to an end last Thursday night in the annex of Metropolitan M. E. Church. This year's event showed a marked improvement in many respects over previous years. Owing to the unfavorable season the exhibit was not as large as usual but the quality was much better and the arrangement good. Many people who came the first day returned for the other two days of the show. Over seven hundred people were present during the three days.

These shows are teaching the community valuable lessons from an educational standpoint. The people see for themselves and gradually, to a large extent, become judges as they compare the poor, the good, the better and the best articles.

This show offers a central meeting place for the academy students, public school pupils and the people of the community to meet and see how each can help the other.

The white people and especially the judges that go from year to year can see perhaps better than anyone else the progress that is steadily being made through these shows.

On behalf of the colored citizens of Somerset county the local agent wishes to give thanks and express appreciation to the banking institutions and merchants and friends of Princess Anne for their support and best wishes.

Cut Out Small Ones

The U. S. Postal Department calls attention to the danger of delay, if not loss, occasioned around Christmas time by the use of very small size cards and envelopes. The address is often obliterated by cancellation stamp—the unusual size delays assorting—can not be tied securely in regular bundles—and there are many other reasons why the public should discontinue the use of the small or undersize envelopes.

PILCHARD GIVEN 3 YEARS IN "CUT"

Found Guilty Of Manslaughter For Killing Stephen Long

Last Wednesday marked the ending of a trial at Cambridge that has been followed with unusual interest on the Shore. John A. Pilchard, 43 years old, a farmer of Worcester county, was convicted of manslaughter for the death of a negro. The jury, after deliberating for three hours, could not agree on the charge of murder in the first degree, the vote standing eight to four for acquittal. They found the prisoner guilty of manslaughter and recommended clemency. Pilchard recently killed Stephen H. Long, colored, superintendent of colored schools in Worcester county, with a knife at Pocomoke City.

After considering the case Chief Judge John R. Pattison and Associate Judges Robert F. Duer and Joseph L. Bailey sentenced Pilchard to the Maryland House of Correction for three years.

Of the hundreds of spectators who had attended the trial comparatively few were present when the verdict was announced. There was no demonstration, precautions having been taken to avoid it.

Pilchard was ordered to stand and Judge Pattison announced to him the court's verdict: "After a fair and impartial trial in this case," said Judge Pattison, "the jury has found you guilty of manslaughter with the recommendation of mercy. We have not only considered the request of the jury in deciding the punishment to be inflicted upon you, but have also considered other facts, among them the fact that you, in the commission of the offense of which you have been found guilty, used no pistol or like deadly weapons, but only the usual and ordinary pocket knife. We, however, think that you should be sentenced to imprisonment. We will not sentence you to the Maryland Penitentiary, but to the Maryland House of Correction for three years."

Pilchard's own story of the killing was one of the interesting incidents as the case went to the jury. He claimed he went to the assistance of his brother, William Pilchard, who was being attacked by three negroes outside the store of Noah Gunby (colored) at Pocomoke City.

Long, the accused man charged, was one of the assailants and in his hand held an open knife. After pulling the negro from his brother, Pilchard said, Long attacked him with the knife. In the scuffle that followed, according to Pilchard, he had to force the knife into Long's back.

Representing the State were former Congressmen William N. Andrews, Harry W. Nice and Eugene O'Dunne. The defense was handled by former Governor Harrington, J. W. Staton, Joshua W. Miles and Nat Westcott.

Foch Given Great Ovation In Baltimore

With the tricolor of France waving in the bright sunlight besides the radiant "Stars and Stripes," and the stirring words of the ever-thrilling "Marseillaise" echoing from the throats of school children, Ferdinand Foch, Marshal of France, upon his arrival last Tuesday at Union Station, Baltimore, found a warm welcome awaiting him. The reverberating bang of 19 guns—the salute of a supreme commander—sent for miles around the glad tidings that the expected guest had arrived.

In the 90 minutes allotted out of the limited time of the world celebrity, who has been sought by nearly every city in the country and has had to pass by so many, Baltimore paid its full measure of homage to him.

He left the city at 3.30 by automobile for Annapolis to visit the Naval Academy where he spoke from a high platform in Dahlgren Hall to the American midshipmen, bowed his gray head reverently at the tomb of John Paul Jones, one of America's immortal men of war, and had a fleeting view of all the Naval Academy grounds. Then for 10 minutes he rested in an easy chair in the conservatory of Admiral Wilson's home and had tea and smoked a quiet cigar. Then he went back to Washington.

Commission Will Hear Cases

The State Tax Commission went to Crisfield yesterday (Monday) morning to hear the appeals in some 300 tax cases and determine the question of their overvaluation. The Commission will use the rooms of the Crisfield Chamber of Commerce in the Gibson Building and will try 20 cases the first day and determine the number to be heard each day following. Several days will be consumed in the hearings.

It is perfectly surprising how much some men know about things they know nothing about.

AGRICULTURAL SHOW WINNERS

Those Who Received Premiums For Exhibit Nov. 17th, 18th and 19th

The Thirteenth Picture

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

©, 1921, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

There were thirteen pictures on the walls of Barbara's new room on the third flood front of Mrs. Wilson's select boarding house for business people. Thirteen pictures, placed there by Mrs. Wilson herself, or by one and another of her unending procession of paying guests. The house was run down; Mrs. Wilson herself, an asthmatic, sniffy looking person in greasy black, was an acknowledged widow, and only those who must have a roof at the most modest price now patronized the old house on Chester street.

"Thirteen pictures—one must come down," decided Barbara, while her heart yearned to take them all down but one or two, only she must explain to Mrs. Wilson.

"I would rather look at the hideous things," groaned the girl, as she inventoried the walls. There was the copy of an etching of Westminster Abbey; next to it was a walnut-framed chromo—sheep wending homeward through a village street; a colored picture cut from a magazine and framed in gold—four men gambling; Raphael's "Cherubs" in a heavy metal frame; another gold-framed magazine illustration—a Gibson girl; a sepia thing under it—"Happy Childhood"; three nursery pictures grouped together; a watercolor—a rocky coast in a gale with the sea piling high—that was good; a burnt-wood atrocity; photograph of a beautiful girl; and then a steel engraving of "Napoleon After Waterloo."

"I don't like that girl's face," declared Barbara as she studied the haughty head, the cold, hard eyes, the mechanical smile of the girl in the picture. "She looks too much like Agatha Denslow—it is Mrs. Denslow, I am sure, quite sure. Fancy her picture here. How she would rave if she knew it! She laughed a little, decided to remove the offending picture and leave only the cherubs and the water color.

She tied a cloth over her misty dark hair. A Saturday afternoon was always her cleaning period and she was dressed in a little pink cotton dress she kept for this housewifely task. Outside the sun was shining and the spring day invited her, but she shook her head and carefully removed Westminster Abbey from the walls. She determined to stack them carefully in the closet in the hall where the ladder went to the roof and, having decided upon this, the fear of Mrs. Wilson's wrath grew less and she tackled the picture of the sheep with great vigor.

She had moved around the room until she now stood at the east side removing the nursery rhymes from their downhill arrangement when she heard a sound near the fireplace. Her eyes slowly widened in amazement and alarm.

The picture of the great Napoleon was rocking to and fro in an unaccountable manner. Suddenly it swung out from the wall and below it crept a hand—a man's hand protruded through the wall of the adjoining house. It was a strong hand, well cared for and browned by the sun. The fingers groped around the wall as far as the thrust in arm could reach as if in search for something. Barbara slipped along the wall and called to the owner of the visiting hand.

"Perhaps I can help you," she suggested.

The hand wavered helplessly and then withdrew and the picture of Napoleon swung into place. Barbara twitched it down and disclosed a stovepipe hole which had lurked behind the mask of the Corsican hero. She mounted a chair and peered curiously through the aperture. All she saw was the broken background of light-papered walls and a man's face peering through at her.

"Well, I never!" ejaculated Barbara, jumping to the floor. "Do you know I am going to tell Mrs. Wilson?"

"I am sorry—and I apologize, but I didn't know the room was rented. I've been living there for a week and moved two days ago. I left a picture there. I would like to have it—I thought I could reach it. I am very sorry, indeed."

"A picture?" Barbara sniffed at the gallery of masterpieces. "Is it sheep?"

"No."

"Gamblers?"

"No, indeed," virtuously.

"Angels?"

"In a manner of speaking—one."

"Oh!" Barbara's tone was all enlightenment. "You must mean Agatha Denslow's picture—here it is!" She thrust it viciously into the aperture and it disappeared hastily. A masculine voice came back in a worried tone:

"You said 'Agatha Denslow'—this is the picture of Miss Post."

"Didn't Agatha Post marry old James Denslow last week?" Barbara wanted to know.

"Yes," asserted Barbara severely. "I was there—I saw the wedding—May and December. Pooh, I went to school with Agatha. Oh, I am so sorry, I forgot that she must have been a particular friend of yours—please forgive me."

"Particular friend?" he laughed shortly. "She was engaged to marry me. I've just returned from France."

"Oh, dear," pitied Barbara; "why you must be Jerry Lane. I am Barbara Dorr, the little girl who lived next door to you and played with your sister Cathie."

"Bobby Dorr? The dickens you are!"

"Isn't it funny—and Jerry—I shall have to replace Napoleon and seal up the stovepipe—so good-by."

"If I ring the front doorbell may I call formally upon you in Mrs. Wilson's parlor?"

"Of course," and Barbara's cheeks were flying pink signals now, for as a little lass she had worshiped her playmate's big brother from afar. She was glad she had grown up to be so pretty. She fluffed up her hair, moved a chiffonier over the hole in the wall, blew a kiss to the Corsican and drifted down the gray stairway into the rosy glow of romance and lifelong happiness.

RED INDIANS NOT DYING OUT

According to Church Worker, They Are Increasing in Numbers, and Will So Continue.

The American Indians are not decreasing in numbers, according to Dr. Elmer E. Hugley of Des Moines, who was recently superintendent of Indian work of the Methodist Episcopal church.

"There are more than one-third of a million Indians in the United States," added Dr. Hugley, "and 57 distinct languages are spoken.

"A survey among the Indians has just recently been made by the centenary officials and shows that not only the full-blooded Indians are increasing but also the mixed bloods, with better homes, medical attention and better care of Indian babies and with the missionaries talking the gospel of soap, sanitation and salvation the increase of the number of Indians will continue.

"Two-thirds cannot understand the American language. Thirteen per cent of the Indians are afflicted with tuberculosis, and 80,000 suffer from trachoma. Three out of every five Indian children die before the age of five years.

"There are 430 Protestant missionaries and 275 Catholic, with 616 church buildings with a membership of 42,000 Protestants and 51,000 Catholics.

"Fully two-thirds of the whole Indian population is yet without gospel privileges whatever, either Protestant or Catholic. The Methodist centenary program plans large enterprises among the red men."

Ape Is Ambidextrous.

Decorative Hints.

To resilver old mirrors or reflectors rub off all of the old silver with a piece of emery paper fastened to a block of wood cut to the curve of the reflector. Use a fine grade of emery, so that it will not scratch the surface. Then melt together two ounces of lead, two ounces of tin and four ounces of chemically pure bismuth.

This should be melted in an iron ladle and a thermometer capable of registering more than 200 degrees should be placed in the mixture. Eight ounces of mercury are added at 212 degrees and mixed with the boiling mixture. This is then applied warm with a smooth brush.

CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE PLATE

Fresh-laid eggs are frequently deposited on the contribution plate in some of the backwoods Episcopal churches of the South. Which goes to show that the spirit of giving hasn't changed so very much in the hundred years or so of the Church Missionary society. The first report of the society dated May 30, 1823, was dug up the other day, and while it shows no contribution of eggs, a score of other articles of merchandise seem to have found their way to the plate from the people who gave "according to their means." This report, for instance, shows that back in 1821 David Snethan gave a basket of groceries for the support of the missionaries; Stephen North contributed a medicine chest; William Rawland, a cross-cut saw; Joe and John Needles, two sieves; S. Massey, a coffee mill. John and T. Clully contributed, alas, a singularly empty gift—a safe. John Burson came along with a tub, whether bath or wash is not stated. C. Buckley is credited on the books with "deduction on hat," $1.50; John McAllister donates a thermometer. Among other miscellanies are hymn books, slates, spades, shoes, trousers, chairs, soap, bridles and locks. Finally from one Richard Markall there is a hogshead of tobacco, which encourages the hope that some good missionary of the church in his lonely station afar off enjoyed a comfortable smoke, says the publicity department of the Protestant Episcopal church.

HORSE A PRACTICAL JOKER

Have horses a sense of humor? A South American doctor has one which is said to be fond of a practical joke.

Visiting a farmhouse, the doctor tied the animal to a post near which hung a rope attached to a large bell, used as a dinner signal for the workmen. Then he went in to see his patient.

A few minutes later the bell rang violently. The doctor looked out, but could see nothing. Again the bell rang. At the third ring the doctor concealed himself behind a tree in the yard, and kept watch on the bell-rope.

Then, to his astonishment, he saw his horse lift up his head, seize the rope between its teeth, and give it a violent pull. After that the doctor sprang out and faced the animal, which put on a look of complete innocence.

Poking his nose into a basket in which a cat lay curled up, the same horse got a nasty scratch from pussy for his pains. The animal, taking careful aim, kicked the cat and basket sky-high and then trotted off with a low chuckle of glee.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Ancient English Food Laws.

There were pure food laws in England as long ago as the year 1381, and those who violated them received punishment to fit the crime.

The Guildhall librarian has been exploring an old box of parchments deposited long ago with the corporation by the Poulters company.

Habits are long-lived in the city. Poultry has been sold since the middle of the Fourteenth century at Leadenhall, where the city men today buy a bird to take home in the evening. But nowadays a goose costs more than sixpence. On the other hand, a poulterer who unluckily sells bad pigeons has got to stand in the pillory while the pigeons are burned under his nose.

This happened in 1381 to a "poulter" who sold 16 pigeons "in contempt of the city and deceit of the people for that the same were putrid and an abomination to mankind."—Lincoln Correspondence of the New York World.

The Healthy Eskimo.

It is said that the Eskimos of the remotest north are the healthiest people you can find anywhere. Contact with white folks has, however, brought deterioration and demoralization. The influence of civilization has been bad, and may be worse; it may even result in the extinction of the hardy race. Only when they are left wholly to their own devices are the Eskimos healthy, and this is indeed remarkable, for their devices are few and the hardships of their lives are many.

Recently Dick, age eight, became terribly sick quite suddenly, and for apparently no reason. His mother tried every way to learn what he had been eating that could have caused his illness. First Soldiers' Home.

The Soldiers' home at Washington, the first institution of the kind in the United States, was established in 1851. A tract of land for the purpose, 200 acres in extent, was purchased with a sum of money levied by Gen. Winfield Scott on the City of Mexico during the war with that country. There are now several branches of the national home and state homes in twenty-seven states.

Property in Heart of El Paso Now Worth $3,000,000 in Dispute for Years.

RIVER CAUSES CONTROVERSY

Incorrigibly Vagrant Habits of the Rio Grande Cause Dispute Which Has Remained Unsettled for Sixty Years.

El Paso, Tex.—When a 600-acre tract covered with industrial improvements worth more than $3,000,000 in the heart of a large American city does not know whether it belongs to the United States or Mexico, the situation may presumably offer faint hope to victims of income and excess profits taxation. Otherwise, however, it is fraught with disadvantages which overbalance these largely hypothetical benefits.

At least these are the conclusions reached by the officials of the Santa Fe railroad yards here and the owners of the large packing, stock yard, lumber and milling interests who in the last twenty years have built up, southeast of the El Paso Union station in what is known as the Chamizal district, one of the most thriving and compact industrial centers in the Southwest. Also these are the reasons why a statement recently attributed to Undersecretary of State Fletcher, that in any treaty to precede United States recognition of Mexico the "Chamizal question will be settled and settled right," has pleased several business men of more than local connections as much as any detailed point in the administration's Mexico policy yet revealed.

Sixty-Year-Old Controversy.

The Chamizal controversy, now approaching the age of sixty years, is the result of the incorrigibly vagrant habits of the Rio Grande river, which, flowing out of the New Mexico mountains, begins to form the boundary with Old Mexico a few miles west of El Paso. It is by no means the only dispute arising from the same cause along the 1,500 miles of looped and twisted stream bed between here and Brownsville, Tex., but it is the only one in which anything like so much valuable industrial property is involved in so small an area.

Realizing that the Rio Grande was not to be trusted to keep to its bed, the Mexico and American peace commissioners who fixed the international boundary after the Mexican war in the treaty of Guadelupe-Hidalgo, 1848, agreed that when changes in the river channel came about by accretion, that is, gradually, the boundary should follow the river bed; but that when sudden cutoffs were formed by the river's violently breaking through dry land to make a new course—evulsion, this process is called in the technical jargon of river experts—the old deserted channel should continue to be the line.

This formula would have sufficed, no doubt, if, in addition to its prowling proclivities, the Rio Grande had not developed a sly and deceitful disposition. Waiting until the entire American population of the region 60 years ago—a few soldiers in far-away military outposts—were away in the Civil war, and until the Mexican border garrisons were likewise busy fighting for or against the Austrian usurper Maximilian, the river between 1863 and 1865 deserted its old channel a few blocks below the principal business district of El Paso for a bed approximately a quarter of a mile farther west and south, which, in the main, it still occupies. Chamizal lies between the old bed and the new.

Cause of Controversy.

The controversy hinges on whether this change was accomplished by accretions or by evulsion. The United States' position is that the change, though relatively rapid, came about through gradual alterations of the channel extending over several years and not at all as the result of a sudden break through dry land. Hence, say the Americans, the international boundary according to the 1848 treaty follows the present river channel and the Chamizal zone is American territory. On the other hand, the Mexican government claims that the alterations of the '65s were the result of evulsion, making Chamizal Mexican.

Neither government regarded the controversy as worth an argument until the rapid metropolitan growth of El Paso began 35 years ago. By that time the testimony of the few Mexicans who had witnessed the changes of the '60s was so confused and conflicting as to be of little value. Consequently, the permanent Mexican-American boundary commission, charged with keeping track of the Rio Grande's wanderings, has never been able to reach an agreement on Chamizal.

Snake Finally Killed.

Pueblo, Colo.—J. H. Welsgarber, a telegraph operator, while touring the country in an automobile recently, had an exciting experience with a blue racer snake. The snake, which was 5 feet and a half long, crawled into the car after having bitten into the tire. The car was stopped, but no trace of the snake could be found. Eventually it was found in the battery box, only to be lost again in the mechanism of the machine. When finally found in the dust pan it was killed.

OLD BRITISH ROYAL JEWEL

Stone Once Set in Ring of Edward the Confessor Said to Have Power of Curing Sciatica.

Only a few of the early British royal jewels survive in the present regalia. The oldest of these is the sapphire of Edward the Confessor, which was originally set in his coronation ring.

It was buried with him in his shrine in Westminster abbey, but in 1101 the shrine was broken open and this and other jewels received.

The sapphire is in the cross on the top of the king's state crown. Legend has it that St. John once appeared before the Confessor as a pilgrim, and that the monarch gave him the ring, which was returned later. The stone is reputed to have the power of curing sciatica and rheumatism, but has not been so used recently.

The Black Prince's ruby, as big as a hen's egg, came into British possession in 1367, having been taken by Don Pedro of Castile from the Moorish king of Granada, whom he slew in battle. The Black Prince wore it. Henry V displayed it in his helmet at Agincourt. Richard III, hunchback, wore it at Bosworth field. Today this magnificent gem occupies the place of honor in the front of King George's crown.

Some wonderful pearls in the regalia are said to date from Elizabeth's time, though such age for a pearl is doubted. —London Answers.

ODD BELIEFS OF GAMBLERS

Almost Every Devotee of Chance Has Some Pet Superstition, Some of Them Laughable.

Unusually rich in superstitions are the gambling resorts of Deauville and Monte Carlo.

Not the least inexplicable of these strange faiths is the belief voiced by a Russian at Deauville that eating almonds for dinner is the secret of good luck at the tables.

At Monte Carlo this season a man and woman appeared at the tables every night, and while the man played the woman remained seated nursing a black cat. The man at first won considerably; but later his luck changed.

Amethyst tiepins are popular at Deauville because of their alleged luck-bringing virtues.

To play with the third and fourth fingers of the left hand crossed is another device practiced by one woman. She could give no reason for her faith, except that such manipulation of the fingers brought luck.

Turtle Liked the Music.

The teacher of a school at Manchester, N. H., encouraged her pupils to bring small zoological specimens to school in order to become fully acquainted with them. The resulting collection included several turtles of various species. They were all kept in one inclosure. The teacher says: "It was while we had all the specimens together that I learned that they were affected in some way by music. They appeared to be listening when the music lesson was in progress. The next music period found me in the room watching them. Before the lesson began the turtles were moving slowly about, but the moment the singing commenced every head was up in a listening attitude, and I failed to see a movement of head or foot till the music lesson was ended. What their sensations were, of course I could not tell. It is reasonable, however, to believe that they were pleasant, for had they been otherwise the turtle would have appeared restless."

Marriage.

"It doesn't do to put your husband on a pedestal—the best of them is only a baby in a high chair."

"Marriage is a very difficult pursuit. It is no good to a man who has to do anything else. It is like golf, no good unless you can give your whole time to it—and then you will probably lose to an American."

"If any woman tried her wiles on me she would find me adamant." "Yes, with the accent on the Adam."

"I can say no more. It concerns a lady." "Quite." "No, not quite, but a very charming woman."—From a London Play, "The Trump Card."

Walk on Live Coals.

When a Tamil Hindu recovers from a serious illness he sometimes makes a vow to do something entailing discomfort and pain to himself as a sort of manifestation of gratitude combined with self-sacrifice and self-abasement. These vows take different forms, such as rolling over and over on a hard metalled road, lashing himself or being lashed on the back or wearing a hair shirt, but walking over live coals is the means most commonly chosen by the devotee, this being very often accompanied by other forms of self-torture.

Islands Worth a Visit.

Tahiti is the most important of the Society islands, and from its principal city, Papeete, one may see Moorea island, capped by the stately Mauaroa mountain. With its industry of pearl fishing, the famous society of the Areois, who cultivated the arts and killed new-born babies, and its cult of fire walkers, the Society islands abound in the fascinating and the freakish.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

A Telephone System Must Expand

THERE is no such thing as closing the capital account of a telephone system unless it proposes to go out of business. The telephone system that is not going forward is going backward.

Each new subscriber requires additional plant—a new telephone set, additional central office equipment, in most cases an additional line from the central office to the subscriber's premises.

But these additions cannot wait until the subscriber wants service. To do this would require that applicants wait sometimes for an indefinite period. We must anticipate the public's needs and always maintain a reserve plant—conduits, cables, switchboards, wires.

To meet the requirements for next year and the years to come the money for the extensions must be secured from the investors this year. Our earnings this year, then, will determine whether we can attract the new capital necessary to meet your requirements for service next year.

Bust Shows Two Natures.

The United Service club is one of London's famous clubs in Pall Mall for officers of the twin British services, the navy and the army. Busts of naval and military heroes adorn the hall. The duke of Wellington with his stately and aristocratic look gazes down on members as they pass through the main entrance. Honesty, pride and dignity are written there.

But a head of Lord Nelson at the side is more interesting. Each side of the face is modeled differently, so that the impression of a man of the world is given as you look at the portrait from the left, and of a dreamer as you look at it from the right. In the one case the modeling is firm, in the other soft. Even the eyes, for both are shown, are different. The bust is a replica by the famous English artist, Flaxman, the original of which is in possession of the family.—Christian Science Monitor.

SEEM AWKWARD IN MOVEMENT

Bird Lover Points Out Varying Gaits of Feathered Creatures Seeking Food on Ground.

Watch a blackbird hunting for worms on a lawn; he moves by hopping.

But watch the wagtail darting about on the lawn or following the plow, or hunting down by the streamside—he walks or runs. He glides as smoothly over the rough furrows of the field as if he were skating on thin ice. So graceful are his movements that he seems to be dancing.

Why some birds should thus hop after their prey and others run is a curious problem, observes a writer in Pearson's Weekly. A solution may be found in the different life habits of the hoppers and runners and in the different habits of their prey.

To hop on a lawn after worms may be the best way to disturb and pounce upon them. But it would be better to run after low-flying winged insects.

Walkers and runners as a rule are birds who seek their food on the ground and live chiefly on the ground. Partridges and landrails are famous runners. Rooks, larks, meadow pipits and starlings live much on the ground, and walk and run.

Hoppers, as a rule, are passerines—birds with claws adapted to perching. It is natural for them to hop about trees, and so they hop when they come to ground. There are some exceptions to the hopping habits of tree birds; thus the wood pigeon is a tree bird that walks.

Other birds will not either walk, run or hop if they can help it—like swifts, who rarely touch ground at all.

HASTE IS WASTE IN TROPICS

Northerners There on Business Must Leave All Preconceived Standards at Home.

Who enters the tropics should leave all haste behind. We have a superior way of talking of the land of "manana," quite overlooking the fact that the physiological law of the land is expressed in the "manana" attitude. With the cumulative energy of generations of temperate-zone-born ancestors in our veins, we may maintain our standards of push and speed in the tropics for a time, but that is no reason why we should expect people who have been reared under less favorable climatic conditions to live up to them.

Indeed, it is highly advisable to leave all of our preconceived standards at home. Latin Americans have been long subjected to climatic and other influences which have of necessity profoundly affected them both bodily and mentally. We must remember also that, racially, we are as far apart as were the Conquistadores from the Pilgrim fathers.

Let us therefore accept as a fact that our habits of thought are fundamentally different and give to history, tradition, environment, and heredity their share of praise and of blame for existing conditions.—National Geographic Magazine.

First Aid to Cupid.

Heretofore clotheslines have served two purposes. Obviously, their most frequent use has been to hang clothes on. Their more important service, from a social standpoint, has been the breaking of falls of persons who happen to tumble out of windows. But now comes a new use which promises to supersede the others. A certain young man, and an equally certain young woman, who live in apartment houses on the south side, facing each other across a large yard, have discovered that a clothesline makes a love line by the aid of which all sorts of messages may be sent and received.

After writing a note the sender attaches it to the line, which is manipulated across the yard. After reading and enjoying the contents the receiver writes an answer and sends it to the other side.

Earthquake's Peculiar Effect.

An earthquake that shook India not so long ago was remarkable for the curiously distorting effects it produced upon standing objects. Similar effects have been noticed from other earthquakes, but seldom to so striking an extent. In an official report in the matter it is described how this earthquake twisted a lofty monument at Chatak. The monument was an obelisk of brick, coated with plaster, more than 60 feet tall and 12 feet square at the base. About six feet of the top was broken off and thrown to the south, and nine feet more was thrown to the east. Then a piece 20 feet in height was separated, 28 feet above the ground, and twisted in a direction opposite to the motion of the hands of a watch, but without falling.

Finds Snoring Costly Habit.

A Brooklyn man's snore is costing him $2,000 because he has to take it to Europe with him. The snore is so powerful that he has found it necessary, if his wife was to get any sleep, to occupy a room far apart from hers, in his large residence. The couple are planning a Mediterranean tour and the husband had to arrange for separate stateroom accommodations, for his wife's comfort, so she might sleep on the steamship. This means $2,000 more for the separate charges for this notable snore.—New York Evening Post.

White Shirt Scares Colt; Farmer Dead

Sioux Falls, S. D.—A white shirt he was wearing while taking care of horses and cows is believed to have been directly responsible for the death of Hugo Schroeder, twenty-two years old, son of a Lake county farmer. One of the colts, attracted by the shirt, became frightened and kicked at the young man, striking him in the abdomen and inflicting internal injuries which caused his death some hours later.

TRAIN IS BOON TO SPORTSMEN

"Highball" Makes Nightly Trips Into North Country for Accommodation of Hunters and Others.

Duluth, Minn.—There is a tramp train on the Duluth & Iron Range railroad running up into the north woods that has gone on for year after year, unheeding the advance of progress. The train is known as the "Highball." It makes its nightly flight into the north woods for the accommodation of lumberjacks, sportive fishermen, hunters and seekers of work, picking up as a side issue a parcel of hogs or a herd of sheep.

So the "Highball" wends its merry way almost unheedful of a schedule, for it will drop off a fisherman or a hunter at any hour in the dead of night at any place he chooses to select. Or it may stop at a little cottage just around the curve, where a little woman is nursing back to health a husband with a cough. The "Highball" stops while the crew takes up a collection of butter, eggs and potatoes gathered along the right of way.

WOODS WAGES CUT 55 POT.

Lumbermen Predict Light Season, With Supply of Surplus Timber Still Unsold.

Duluth, Minn.—With lumbermen and woods operators predicting the lightest season in several years for this winter, scale of pay for common labor has been fixed at figures as much as 55 per cent lower than last year.

Common laborers will be paid $26 a month this winter, while skilled men will receive from $30 to $35. Last year the scale was from $65 to $80 a month.

Drastic cuts have also been made in the piecework scale, tiemakers being paid 10 cents a tie and pulpwood cutters 1¾ cents a stick. On their part, contractors will agree to board pieceworkers at 75 cents a day.

Cutters of pulpwood and tie report that some of last winter's cutting still is unsold. So far there has been no official word as to what the price for these woods products will be, but operators are inclined to be pessimistic, fearing that the price will be low.

LACK MIDINETTES IN PARIS

French Girls Turn to Typewriting and Kindred Occupations for Livelihood.

Paris.—There is, alas, a shortage in the ranks of the little midinettes in Paris and there is a gloomy foreboding among the leaders of the wealthy and important syndicate of milliners. Despite the many improvements since the war in the working conditions of these girls, their number is decreasing, or the petite Parisian is turning to typewriting and kindred occupations.

The midinette's life was not always rosy, for she had to pay to be apprenticed, earned little when the apprenticeship was ended and faced enforced idleness when business was bad. So, notwithstanding the gay pictures of her painted by Parisian artists, it is not surprising that the Paris working girl is turning to other vocations.

Dream Leads to Bank Loot.

Sumatra, Mont.—A dream of John Buchanan, a blacksmith, was realized when loot from the Sumatra Bank here, robbed several weeks ago of papers and money to the value of $5,000, was recovered. Buchanan said he had a dream in which he saw the robbery and followed the robbers to a culvert near Myers station, where they buried the loot. The dream was so vivid, he says, that he took his automobile and Percy Steele, a companion, and went to the culvert. The stolen securities were there.

Waited 40 Years to Wed.

Lancaster, Pa.—After forty years, John Hammer of this city and Mrs. Susan Henderson of Mount Hope have become man and wife. More than a generation ago they became engaged but due to parental objection did not marry. Each took a different life partner and now as widower and widow they culminated the romance of their youthful days.

Coal in Lorraine.

Washington.—Large deposits of coal have been discovered in Lorraine, according to information received here. These are near the Saar Basin and surveys show that they contain approximately 5,000,000,000 tons of coal, from which it is said that the French could extract about 10,000,000 tons a year.

The fact that a business man does not get any orders in the mail does not prove that he won't have any tax bills.

Not all the people who are rushing over to Canada, Mexico and Cuba in these times are in search of fine scenery.

The fellow who didn't know it was loaded is again in evidence, but unfortunately he is not the one who intercepts the bullets.

The President having been given a bronze turkey, some one should present him one of those iron dogs to set up on the White House lawn.

The people who want to fight Japan in order to improve trade conditions can have all the profits to be made out of such a war if they will pay the bills.

No more battleships to be constructed for ten years, but there will be plenty of powerful automobiles guaranteed to knock any flivver in the ditch.

The report that the armament conference is making history causes gloom among the students who see a new lesson added to the text-books.

The squirrels, birds, etc., are not much worried about the city sportsman, but they look out when the farmer's boy gets out with his rusty shooting iron.

It has not yet been demonstrated that time and a half pay for overtime induces the railroad man to make extra efforts to get trains in when the same are due.

The question is asked what has become of all the girls that used to be named "Kate?" O, well they are all grown up and their daughters are called Kathrynne.

UNPOPULAR WINTER

Not many poets have written verses in praise of winter. The season of snow, cold rain, high winds and leafless trees is not popular. And yet the community's best work is done in the winter. In summer churches close up or hold sessions with small attendance. Schools and colleges shut down for nearly three months, often more. Civic enterprises are suspended.

But when the chill days of late fall bring winter's tonic into the air the enterprises of progress, education and development reach their climax. People can work better and study harder in cool weather and they have more surplus energy with which to take hold of community projects.

The good old summer time may inspire the sentimentalists and song writers, but if you want to get good things done, you must look to plain, homely, rugged and frequently surly old winter.

THE SPIRIT OF CO-OPERATION

The world's troubles are largely due to lack of co-operation. This is what stirs up the industrial world with a witch's broth of class hostility. And the most conspicuous instance of all is in the relations existing between nations.

Great progress in co-operative spirit has been made during the past 25 years in the business field. At the earlier period business men were hostile toward their rivals and would not act unitedly with them. They have now found it pays to get together and thousands of cities and towns are making splendid progress as the result of this better unity.

The same spirit should be promoted in the international field. The masses of the people have no hostility to other nations. They wish them well, wish to live peaceably with them. But for some reason the statesmen and diplomats of these countries have not been able to adjust international relations on a peace basis, so that the world has been full of wars and threats of wars.

The probable success of the Washington conference in reaching a better adjustment, indicates that the statesmen of these countries are feeling the demand of their constituents for a spirit of co-operation and conciliation. The peoples do not want to fight and they do not want their statesmen to drag them into needless wars.

Many of these hostilities have resulted from the efforts of the political leaders to secure commercial advantages for their respective populations. But the mass of the people have learned that it does not pay to fight wars to get trade. Better make the best deal you can across the council table, just as you do in private business, instead of getting out with great armies and navies to gain these advantages by force.

TURKEY BIRD

It is somewhat significant of American life that the people on holiday celebrations like Thanksgiving and Christmas, have commonly enjoyed lavish feasts of which turkey meat is the substantial foundation. Turkeys are a difficult fowl to raise and the flocks suffer many losses from diease and unfavorable weather. The result is a high price for this favorite meat which custom prescribes for many of our feasts. Nevertheless many people continue to entertain large family parties for the holiday occasions and feed them high on the succulent meat of the great American bird.

The thrifty folks of Europe would never demand anything so costly as a turkey dinner for their frugal feasts. But the American people were brought up in a land of abundance and they do not take kindly to small economies.

Two or three times a year father feels that the traditions of the holidays are more compelling than the suggestions of a lean pocketbook. So the famous old bird again appears, flanked by all the accessories that tradition says must go with the holiday feast.

Lower Freight On Farm Products

The 10 per cent. reduction in carload freight rates for farm products is the best news the farmer has heard for many a day. The population of this country spreads out over a vast area as the result of cheap freightage. Great farming communities have developed a long distance from the population centers as the result of ability to transport commodities for a long distance at a small expense.

When freight rates go up it attacks the foundation of the prosperity of the agricultural states and makes it impossible to deliver their product at a profit. The 10 per cent. reduction on these foodstuffs should result in an accelerated sale thereof, thus enabling the farmers to buy more seed and tools for another spring and hire more labor, which must accomplish general business revival.

Good Health

If you would enjoy good health, keep your bowels regular. No one can reasonably hope to feel well, when constipated. When needed, take Chamberlain's Tablets. They are mild and gentle.

Boy Spears Big Hawk.

Grants Pass, Ore.—Knights who thronged the courts of King Arthur had nothing on Marian Smith, aged nine years, of this city, when it comes to throwing a wicked spear. Marian was playing with some other lads when a huge hawk lit in a nearby tree. He called to his playmates to watch, threw a spear at the bird and brought it to earth, pierced through the neck. The hawk measured 31 inches from tip to tip of its wings.

One Look at Jury Enough for Him

San Francisco.—Mose Hawkins sat quietly in court before Superior Judge Michael Roche. He was on trial for passing a worthless check. A jury of eight men and four women were selected.

"Well, we are ready," said William Hagerty, assistant district attorney.

Hawkins seemed to awaken from a dream.

"Is that the jury?" he asked, looking them over.

He was told that it was.

Hawkins hesitated, and then said:

"Your honor, I have decided to plead guilty."

How Not To Take Cold

Some persons are subject to frequent colds, while others seldom, if ever, have a cold. You will find that the latter take good care of themselves. They take a shower or cold sponge bath every day in a warm room, avoid over-heated rooms, sleep with a window open or partly open, avoid excesses, over eating, becoming over heated and then chilled and getting the feet wet. Then, when they feel the first indication of a cold, they take Chamberlain's Cough Remedy without delay and it is soon over.

Order of Publication

William C. Mudge vs. Florence Pearl Mudge.

No. 3512 Chancery. In the Circuit Court for Somerset County, Maryland.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree divorcing the plaintiff a vinculo matrimonii from the defendant.

The bill states that the plaintiff and defendant were married on the tenth day of December, nineteen hundred and ten, in the city of Hoboken, State of New Jersey, and resided together in the city of New York, State of New York, until the twenty-third day of July, nineteen hundred and eighteen; that although the conduct of the plaintiff toward the defendant has always been kind, affectionate and above reproach, the said defendant without any just cause or reason abandoned and deserted the plaintiff, and has declared her intention to live with him no longer, and that such abandonment has continued uninterruptedly for at least three years, and is deliberate and final, and the separation of the parties beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation; that the plaintiff and defendant have no children born to them from said marriage; that the defendant, Florence Pearl Mudge, is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, when last heard from residing in the city of New York, State of New York.

It is thereupon this 18th day of November, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, ordered by the Circuit Court for Somerset county, in Equity, that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in said Somerset county once in each of four successive weeks before the twentieth day of December, nineteen hundred and twenty-one, give notice to the said non-resident defendant of the object and substance of this bill, warning her to be and appear in this Court, in person or by solicitor, on or before the seventh day of January, nineteen hundred and twenty-two, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree ought not to be passed as prayed.

Woman Auto Tourist Killed

Mrs. Charles Motter, aged 31, of Columbus, Ohio, was killed last Wednesday evening shortly after sundown when a motor car in which she was a passenger became unmanageable, owing to bad brakes, and left the highway, crashing against a tree and turning turtle. With her in the car were her husband, Charles Motter, and her little niece, Virginia Thorne, of Columbus.

The accident occurred near Piney Grove, east of Hancock, Md. Dr. P. E. Stigers of Hancock hurried to the scene, but found Mrs. Motter beyond help. The tourists were motoring to Miami, Fla., from their home in Ohio, accompanied by additional members of their party in another car.

THE HARDWARE QUESTION SOLVED
Do You Need a New Cook Stove

It's a waste of time and energy to try to cook and bake with the old-fashioned cook stove—and, worse still, an actual waste of fuel. The modern kitchen stoves and ranges are marvels of efficiency, economy and convenience in comparison. They make cooking and baking easier, cheaper and more uniform.

We have them in the best makes—for small families and for large—with coal or wood grates—malleable, rust-proof and with the latest inventions and attachments.

We are always glad to show our stock and to point out the features that make ours the best.

Porter president. The other newly elected officers are: R. Mark White, County Treasurer, re-elected; Hardy B. Cullen, Register of Wills, and Charles S. Dryden, Sheriff. They are all Republicans except Mr. Cullen. Teey will not assume the duties of their offices before the first of December.

A Timely Suggestion

This is the season of the year when the prudent and careful housewife replenishes her supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. It is almost certain to be needed before the winter is over and results are much more prompt and satisfactory when it is kept at hand and given as soon as the first indication of a cold appears and before it has become settled in the system. There is no danger in giving it to children as it contains no opium or other harmful drug.

Death Of Z. James Dougherty

Mr. Z. James Dougherty, one of our oldest and most highly respected citizens died at his home on Prince William street yesterday morning at 1.15 o'clock of Bright's disease.

Mr. Dougherty had only been confined to the house for a few days. He was 87 years old and the last survivor of one of the best known families on the Eastern Shore, members of which were the late Robert Dougherty, John Ware Dougherty, George Dougherty, Pitt Dougherty, Hanson H. Dougherty, Mrs. Ann Bowland, Mrs. Jane Wilson, Mrs. Charlotte Ackworth and Mrs. Sallie Rial.

Mr. Dougherty was engaged in the mercantile business in Princess Anne for many years and retired from same in 1914. In politics he was a Democrat.

On December 14th, 1865, Mr. Dougherty married Miss H. Della Henry, who, with one daughter (Mrs. Wm. H. Dashiell), and one son (Mr. Briddell H. Dougherty), survives him. Funeral services will be held in Manokin Presbyterian Church this (Tuesday) afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment was in the church cemetery.

Hog Cholera Near Town

An outbreak of cholera has occurred on the farm of the Princess Anne Academy. A number of hogs have been lost during the past week. Dr. E. J. McLaughlin held a post mortem examination on a hog last Saturday afternoon and found a typical case of the disease. Farmers in this community should keep a close watch on their herd and report at once all cases of sick hogs in order that the necessary precautions may be taken to avoid an outbreak of cholera.

Messrs W. O. Lankford & Son are making preparations to open a shirt factory in the room above the Howard Waller store, near the depot, Princess Anne. When the plant is in full operation there will be employed about 35 women. Owing to the inexperience of most of the people of this vicinity, Mr. Lankford will probably have to get an outside experienced person for forewoman. It is thought the new company will be in operation by December 15th.

PLANS STUDY OF LAND PROBLEMS

Secretary of Agriculture Wallace Names Five Scientists to Make Investigation.

TO BE MOST CAREFUL SURVEY

Consideration Will Be Devoted to Country's Present Crop Production, Home Consumption and Foreign Demand for Products.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Washington.—Secretary Wallace has appointed a committee of five scientists of the Department of Agriculture to consider the entire problem of land utilization, especially with respect to the country's future requirements.

In appointing the committee Secretary Wallace suggested that as the basis of the work to be undertaken careful consideration should be devoted to the country's crop production, home consumption and foreign demand, relating the land now under cultivation to present and near future demands. It seems to the secretary that this study should be followed by a more careful survey and classification than has yet been made of lands which can be brought under cultivation in the future, and the conditions necessary to make it profitable under the plow.

Survey Arid, Swamp and Cut-Over Lands.

The suggested survey would include the arid lands of the West suitable for irrigation, swamp lands which can be reclaimed by drainage, and the cut-over timber lands of the various sections. In studying the cut-over lands consideration will be given to their possibilities both for cultivation and for reforestation.

E. E. Carter, assistant forester, forest service.

At the present time a little less than half the total national area is in farms, and only about one-quarter of the total area is improved land. Many persons, deceived by these facts, assume that there is an unlimited reserve supply of farm land. Such is not the case, however; by far the greater part of the 1,000,000,000 acres not yet in farms probably can never be used for the growing of crops, and that part of the reserve land which may be regarded as potential farm land can be brought into use only at heavy expense for clearing, drainage, irrigation or fertilization.

Per Capita Acreage Decreasing.

Population increases; land area does not. The acreage of improved farm land per capita, for instance, has declined at an ever-increasing rate since 1890. By 1950 the total population, at a normal rate of growth, probably will be about 150,000,000. This would require an addition of 243,000,000 acres of improved land if the present per capita acreage of improved land is to be maintained.

This situation presents the national problem of how best to use drainable, irrigable, cut-over and lands of inferior quality that heretofore have been rejected as unsuitable—whether they should be brought under the plow or reserved temporarily or permanently for forests or grazing.

The rate of expansion of our national area also is an important factor for consideration. Despite the impending demand for a large expansion of the land basis of American agriculture, there are many reasons why we should consider most carefully before encouraging any considerable expansion of land under cultivation during, say, the next three years. The shrinkage in the volume of farm exports, the many indications of a probable increase of agricultural imports into this country, and the present depression in developed agricultural areas raise a serious question as to the wisdom of an immediate policy of stimulating the expansion of farm acreage.

SCHOOL CHILDREN USE DRUGS

Conditions in United States Appalling, Says Former Official of New York City.

Philadelphia.—Sarah Graham Mulhall, former deputy commissioner of the narcotic control board of New York, told the American Humane society at its annual convention that conditions resulting from drug addiction in the United States were "appalling," and that the habit was spreading alarmingly among public and private school children.

"Large numbers of school children in New York, mostly of high school age," she said, "have become addicted to the use of drugs. Peddlers frequently are arrested while handing out packages of narcotics to school children who play 'hookey' in order to make sales at a profit of 25 cents a package. Police records show as many as four children, from twelve to fifteen years of age, arrested in one day for selling drugs."

ROAD TO VOLCANO'S SUMMIT

United States Government Will Aid in Building Highway in Hawaii.

Hilo, Island of Hawaii, T. H.—A road from Kilauea volcano, 4,000 feet above sea level, to the summit of the great active volcano of Mauna Loa, which towers 14,000 feet above the sea, will be constructed soon, with the aid of the federal government, which recently set apart the crater of Kilauea and the surrounding region as the latest National park, according to a letter received here by the Hilo board of trade.

Prof. T. A. Jaggar, Jr., United States government volcanologist on the island, and Lorain A. Thurston, publisher of the Honolulu Advertiser, proposed that the road be built some time ago, and they have enlisted the aid of Stephen Mather, director of the National park service.

BIRDS DIE BY THOUSANDS

Omaha Park Is Littered With the Bodies of Victims of Mysterious Disease.

Omaha, Neb.—Local ornithologists, who have made the study of birds and their ways a life study, are at a loss to explain the mysterious deaths of thousands of blackbirds in the past two days. Thousands of dead birds litter Fontenelle park.

There have been great flocks of the birds flying over the city for three weeks, but only a couple of days ago did they begin dying off in wholesale numbers.

According to persons living near the park, the birds fly to a certain height and then fall dying to the ground. All the dead birds are of the "grackle" variety, and all are males.

Gives Birth to Twentieth Child.

London.—Mrs. Charles Smart of 19 Brownlow road, West Ealing, has given birth to her twentieth child, her first having been born 26 years ago. Charles Smart, her husband, is an amusement caterer. All the children were born singly, and 14 of the 20 survive, the oldest daughter being a married woman with four children of her own.

Manchester Exchange Huge.

Manchester, Eng.—The Royal exchange, recently extended, was opened by King George, Queen Mary and Princess Mary. This gives Manchester the biggest exchange of the kind in the world. The exchange deals chiefly in cotton, and now has accommodation for 12,000 members. The hall alone has a floor space of 8,000 square yards. This is surrounded by offices.

Side Car Used to "Exercise" Pet Dogs

New York.—The motorcycle side-car has a new function. It is that of taking Pekinese pups for an airing. "It does beat the dickens," said one disgusted traffic cop on upper Fifth avenue. "I rode one of those things in France, and here now one comes by me every day with three small dogs in it and a chauffeur riding the bike part. He tells me they're his boss' pet dogs and they get their 'exercise' this way."

WHISTLE BROUGHT HIM FAME

Restaurant Cook, Harry Keynston Jones, Famous as Author of "Rose of No Man's Land."

From out the bustling kitchen of a popular summer resort restaurant near St. Paul, Minn., there issued during the vacation season lilting songs and whistled ditties that sounded so strangely familiar that American Legion service men of the World war decided to investigate. They found the musician to be one Harry Keynston Jones, a five-foot-ten Cockney, also the restaurant cook.

Jones began his musical career as chef of a Winnipeg grenadier regiment during the war. Later he tended the private skillet of Gen. Sir Julian Byng at Vimy Ridge, and more important than that, he wrote "Rose of No Man's Land," the war song that had a long run of popularity. A penny whistle which he bought and played for the prime purpose of amusing his kitchen police caused his rise to music fame, he declared.

In France he was transferred to the officers' mess. There Lieutenant Colonel McRae, who later wrote "In Flanders Fields," heard the penny whistling, and the two became friends. Some time afterward they together turned out the words and music of the No Man's Land song.

Jones, wounded at Cambrai, was invalided back to Canada. After his discharge from the hospital he began a sightseeing tour of the states, depending upon his cooking ability for ready employment. He now has a song with a New York publisher which he hopes to put forth soon.

HEADS WAR DISABLED SCHOOL

Dr. Arthur Davis Dean, Veteran of the World War and Educator of Wide Experience.

Dr. Arthur Davis Dean, recently chosen by the government as school superintendent of all America's war disabled, is himself a veteran of the World war as well as an educator of wide experience and a specialist in vocational training.

During the war, Dr. Dean, a major in the sanitary corps, worked on the physical and mental rehabilitation of the sick and wounded as they were returned to the United States in almost all the large government hospitals of the country. With nine years' experience in vocational education work in New York state, he served as head of the division of vocational schools in the state department of education from 1908 to 1917, when he became professor of vocational education in Teachers' college, Columbia university. He directed the New York state prison survey in 1919 and investigated the possibilities of industrial and agricultural education in Porto Rico for the insular government.

Dr. Dean was born Sept. 15, 1872, at Cambridge, Mass., and was educated at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He is a member of Columbia university post of the American Legion.

ONE-ARMED VET ALMOST WON

The throng of spectators who watched the finish of an exciting sprint during a swimming meet in Madison Square Garden, New York, recently, vigorously applauded the efforts of Ernest Mastros, a little chap who brought up in second place. Their enthusiasm was heightened when the race had finished and they saw Mastros as he was climbing out of the big tank. He had lost his left arm, serving with the American forces in France, and he all but won the event by the sole power of his good right and his abundance of gameness.

However, the winner of the race, William McIntyre, also was wounded in France, the surprised crowd learned later, as was Harold E. Taylor, who finished a close third in the same match. The trio of wounded war veterans are members of the Metropolitan Life post of the American Legion, formed of men and women employees of the life insurance company who served during the World war.

LEGION MAN IS LAWMAKER

Sturgis, South Dakota Legislator, Is Author of Measures in the Interests of Americanism.

The first man on the job in the morning, he further surprised legislative circles by never missing a single roll call during the time the legislature was in session. He was a chaplain in the army, he explained, in which well-known organization a man was either on the dot or ahead of it—or he wasn't!

Carroll D. Erskine, preacher-legislator of Sturgis, S. D., has carried what he learned in his country's service with him, the electorate of his state say. He left after 15 years of Presbyterian ministry on leave of absence to serve as chaplain of the Eighteenth Battalion during the World war, seeing 14 months' service. After the armistice, while stationed at Camp Merritt, N. J., he met all transports at the docks and ministered to wounded men being returned to American hospitals. In appreciation of his work the men presented him a jeweled watch.

In the legislature, Mr. Erskine was author of a bill to insure proper observance of Armistice day, and of another requiring all school teachers to take an oath of loyalty to the Constitution. He is a member of the American Legion in Sturgis, and state chairman of the boy scouts. He was born in Binghamton, N. Y., and educated at Lake Forest college, Illinois.

TO OBTAIN DENTAL SERVICE

Veterans, to Receive Treatment, Must Comply With the Conditions Prescribed.

An outline of the procedure for ex-service men to obtain dental treatment has been prepared by the national service division of the American Legion.

Dental treatment will be furnished by the bureau of war risk insurance to veterans of the World war under the following conditions:

1. Where a person has been awarded compensation for dental disability.

2. When such treatment is necessary for the cure of a condition which resulted from military service and is the reason for which compensation has been awarded.

3. In emergency cases which are immediately necessary for the relief of conditions endangering the life or the patient or causing great pain.

Claimants who have not been awarded dental disability, but feel they should have such due to military service, should immediately file claim in the regular manner; whereupon they will receive an order from the district medical supervisor to report to the nearest dental examiner for examination and such emergency treatment as may be required. Approval of the dental examiner's report must be made by the bureau of war risk insurance.

To receive the benefits of the dental laws, claimants must pursue their claims through the regular channels, as bills contracted outside of the authority of the bureau of war risk insurance will not be paid, except where sufficient evidence is produced that the case was emergency or that the claimant was ignorant of his rights to dental treatment.

MOTHER SEEKS SOLDIER SON

American Legion Searching for James E. Adie, Shell-Shock Victim—Disappeared in February.

Refusing to believe that her son is dead, although she read recently a newspaper account of the burial in Minnesota of a soldier who bore marks of identification identical with those of her son, Mrs. Margaret Adie, Lowell, Mass., has appealed to the American Legion for help in her untiring search.

The boy sought is James E. Adie, a wounded service man of the World war who disappeared on February 27 last while on his way from Lowell to Boston, Mass., where he was to receive a government examination. The former soldier was suffering from a severe attack of shell shock at the time.

With her husband's death since the war, the mother is in straightened circumstances. Her son's government compensation checks have been arriving monthly during his absence, she declares, but they cannot be cashed without his signature.

To Roosevelt's Memory.

A bronze tablet dedicated to the memory of the late Col. Theodore Roosevelt recently was presented the American Legion of Kings County, New York, by the United Spanish War Veterans. The tablet was composed of metals taken from the ill-fated Maine, the Olympia, Dewey's flagship; the Oregon, which made the trip from San Francisco in time to aid in the destruction of Cervera's fleet at Santiago and the old battleships New York and Brooklyn.

IN LIST OF "FIRST" WOMEN

Mary O'Toole, Washington Auxiliary Member, First Female Judge in District of Columbia.

The list of "firsts" to which Miss Mary O'Toole, Washington, D. C., is entitled, indeed places her among the "first" women of America.

In order of recency: Miss O'Toole is, by President Harding's order, judge of the municipal court in Washington, and the first woman judge likewise to perform a marriage ceremony in the District. She was the first woman member of the Washington Chamber of Commerce's board of directors and the first woman member of the board of directors of a District of Columbia bank. She organized and was the first president of the Woman's City club of Washington. She was one of the first woman attorney's in the country.

Miss O'Toole is a native of Ireland, from which, after a high school education and at seventeen years of age, she emigrated to the United States. As secretary to Judge Wheelan Steuben county, New York, she became interested in law and competent as a court reporter. Later she went to New York city, and entered a Wall street firm as a chief clerk, continuing to study law. She joined the government forestry service in Washington to complete her law studies on the side.

Immediately after she joined the Vincent B. Costello post of the American Legion Auxiliary in Washington, the president asked her to become first vice president. She had to decline because of her court duties.

LEGION MAN AS LIFE SAVER

William Heineman of New Jersey Post Rescues Six Men and One Woman From Drowning.

For saving the lives of six men and a woman, all trapped in a treacherous undertow at Rockaway Beach, N. Y., William Heineman, wounded in action during the World war, will be able to wear a Carnegie medal alongside the Croix de Guerre he won.

A length of rope and an automobile tire inner tube made it possible for Heineman to effect the rescue of the woman after a life guard and five other men had failed in their attempts. Swimming out to the woman, the wounded man placed the tire about her neck and she was hauled to the shore. Then Heineman rescued the six men, themselves caught in the undertow and battling for their lives.

Reaching the shore, the young veteran fell exhaused. He refused medical attention, however, and declined to tell anything about himself. He served overseas with the old Sixty-ninth New York, later the One Hundred and Sixty-fifth infantry, Forty-third Division. He is a resident of Greenville, N. J., and belongs to the local post of the American Legion.

TO HAVE ACTRESS FOR BRIDE

Engagement of Charles H. Duell, New York Legion Man, and Lillian Tucker Announced.

The engagement of Charles H. Duell, New York, and Lillian Tucker, artist who appeared last season in the theatrical success, "Three Faces East," has been made known in Paris, where Miss Tucker had been sojourning.

Duell is a son of the late Judge Charles H. Duell of the United States Customs Court of Appeals and a cousin of Elihu Root. He served during the war on the naval destroyer Wilkes, operating from Queenstown. He was a delegate to the first convention of the American Legion at St. Louis and later organized the Yonkers (N. Y.) post of the Legion.

Advises Against Politics.

"The American Legion will never be refused a worthy request," Governor Edward I. Edwards of New Jersey, declared recently in addressing the annual convention of the state order. "I know of no selfish motives within the organization," the executive continued, advising the Legion men to "by all means, keep out of politics, the ruination of every organization."

ONE BRAND-
ONE QUALITY-
One Size Package

All our skill, facilities, and lifelong knowledge of the finest tobaccos are concentrated on this one cigarette—CAMEL.

Into this ONE BRAND, we put the utmost quality. Nothing is too good for Camels. They are as good as it's possible to make a cigarette.

Camel QUALITY is always maintained at the same high, exclusive standard. You can always depend on the same mellow-mild refreshing smoothness—the taste and rich flavor of choicest tobaccos—and entire freedom from cigaretty aftertaste.

And remember this! Camels come in one size package only—20 cigarettes—just the right size to make the greatest saving in production and packing. This saving goes straight into Camel Quality. That's one reason why you can get Camel Quality at so moderate a price.

Such things do not improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons. And their added cost must go onto the price or come out of the quality.

PRINCESS ANNE, MARYLAND

THERE IS VIGOR IN RICH BLOOD

Pepto-Mangan in Liquid or Tablets —a Blood Builder

Vigor and strength have as their base rich red blood. Blood is rich when there are plenty of red corpuscles. They are the tiny red cells which swim in blood and give it its color. Without red corpuscles blood would be white. When overwork, or straining, or illness weakens the blood, it diminishes the number of red cells. Without a sufficient number of red cells the blood becomes watery, the body weak. Vigor and strength fall off, so that physical life diminishes like a fading plant. The physical pleasures of eating and sleeping and exercise lose all attraction. There is no zest in living.

After Gude's Pepto-Mangan has been taken for a while the blood becomes rich with red cells. They help to nourish the entire system. With good blood at work there is a great difference in living. Eating, sleeping and exercise are enjoyed. All druggists sell Gude's Pepto-Mangan.—Advertisement.

Great Men of Culture.

The great men of culture are those who have had a passion for diffusing, for making prevail, for carrying from one end of society to the other, the best knowledge, the best ideas of their time; who have labored to divest knowledge of all that was harsh, uncouth, difficult, abstract, professional, exclusive; to humanize it, to make it efficient outside the clique of the cultivated and learned, yet still remaining the best knowledge and thought of the time, and a true source, therefore, of sweetness and light.—Matthew Arnold.

Restlessness a Universal Trait.

Life in the sea is so much easier than on land, and yet all creatures seem to want to invade the earth. Through millions and millions of years animals have been trying to get out of the sea in order to lead more interesting lives ashore. Our general aquatic ancestry is indicated by the fact that our blood has almost the same degree of saltness as the sea. And the human ear, with its delicate chain of bones, corresponds with the organs of the fish.

Adage Has Been Twisted.

There have been various explanations of the phrase, "Nine tailors make a man," but the second word is a corruption of tellers. A "teller" was in ancient days a stroke of the "passing bell" of the parish church. Three tellers gave notice of the death of a child, six of a woman and nine of a man. When the parishioners would count the maximum number of strokes, their natural remark would be "Nine tellers make a man."

Box for Playthings.

When there is no playroom for the children, take a box any size you want, decorate with cut-out birds and flowers or with the picture of a barn and animals, making a farm yard. Varnish all over. Hinge the cover on, partition inside to fit toys and varnish. Place in son's bedroom and see how he will keep playthings in place.

Real Balm of Gilead Discovered.

The real balm of Gilead is the dried juice of a low shrub, which grows in Syria. It is very valuable and scarce, for the amount of balm yielded by one shrub never exceeds 60 drops a day.

Safer.

Birds Do Valuable Work.

The total number of insect-eating birds in the United States is estimated at more than 4,500,000,000. Each bird may destroy as many as 100 insects a day.

HOLD WOMEN IN SUBJECTION

"Equal Rights" Theory Has No Standing Among Tribes of the African Slave Coast.

Woman is still the inferior sex in Africa. Man still makes her the beast of burden, the salable chattel, and treats her like an ignorant and recalcitrant child. With the Yorubas on the Slave coast, man's chief occupation seems to be to direct and impress women. Among other things, "to prove to the womenfolk that man rises and goes to heaven," says a University of Pennsylvania Museum bulletin, "a man, dressed in the shroud of the dead man, and with a wooden mask of the dead man's face upon him, is placed in a private room with the body. Then, when all the family is assembled in an adjoining room, some one strikes the ground three times with a stick, crying out "Father! Father! Father! answer me!" The "Egun," or man with the corpse, answers in a deep voice, and everybody claps hands and rejoices.

Even the male children are aware that it is the "Egun" who answers; but frail woman is supposed not to know. Woe betide her if she voices any doubts or unbelief about it! She gets a good beating. The "Egun" has developed in many localities of Yorubaland into a kind of bogy whose function it is to spirit away undesirables—busybodies, scolds, scandalmongers. The women are his special providence, although on occasion he will punish a man if that high-and-mighty member of society can ever be thought guilty of any punishable offense! An African woman who threatens an "Egun" with personal violence, or speaks evil of him, is punishable by nothing less than death.

WORLD LOVES PLEASANT MAN

Simple Rules by Which One May Attain Popularity, and Its Concomitant, Power.

Learn to laugh; a good laugh is better than medicine.

Learn how to tell a story; a good story, well told, is as welcome as a sunbeam in a sick-room.

Learn to keep your own troubles to yourself; the world is too busy to care for your ills and sorrows.

Learn to stop croaking; if you cannot see any good in the world, keep the bad to yourself.

Learn to hide your aches and pains under pleasant smiles; no one cares to hear whether you have headaches, earaches, or rheumatism.

You will pass through this world but once.

Any good thing, therefore, that you can do, or any kindness that you can show to any human being, you had better do it now; do not defer or neglect it.

For you will not pass this way again—Montreal Family Herald.

Fleas Have Their Uses.

The next time you are worried by a flea, do not be impatient with it. It has its uses, remarks London Answers.

Glasgow, which justly prides itself on its municipal efficiency, has lately discovered that even small insects may be utilized in the interests of empire. The filters at its sewage purification works become periodically choked with a gelatinous matter, the clearing away of which was very costly. The local authorities have now enlisted large numbers of insects of the flea tribe, and the results are remarkable.

Each of these insects absorbs four pounds per week of this disturbing gelatin, and allows the sewage to be converted into water that possesses crystal clearness.

Acharutes, as they are called, have hitherto been regarded merely as pests. It is fortunate that we have found some useful employment for them at last!

"In the Jug."

"In the jug" is an expression that has all the characteristics of slang but it was adopted into our own patois from that of the Scots.

Jug, in this connection, doesn't mean a vessel, though it is tempting to trace the thought of someone being in jail to the term of "bottled up."

The word itself is derived from the Scottish "joug," a kind of iron yoke or pillory for the head, which years ago was used in the punishment of rogues and criminals. When, years later, a round house of stone was set up in the market place for such offenders, this prison was popularly called "the stone jug." This particular building is supposed to have been the first prison ever constructed on British soil.

Civilization Four Thousand Years Ago.

Excavation at Knossos, Paetos, and other sites in Crete has not merely established the existence of a people whose form of civilization was the earliest in Europe, but has shown much about their daily life, games, amusements; their art, religion, writing—though hardly yet their language; their physical characteristics, dress, and the houses they lived in. A huge palace has been unearthed at Knossos. It has a drainage system that an eminent Italian archeologist has described as "absolutely English," and that certainly anticipates the hydraulic engineering of the Nineteenth century. The men of science engaged in the work estimate the age of their discoveries at 4000 years.

OWNERS CAN GET 1922 TAGS NOW

Applications Being Mailed Out At Rate Of 20,000 Daily During This Month.

To obviate if possible the congestion which in past years has swamped the office force, multiplied the chance for error, and caused delay to the motorist and confusion in the office, Motor Vehicle Commissioner E. Austin Baughman started on Monday of this week the machinery for registering and licensing nearly 150,000 motor vehicles owned in Maryland. Every car must be registered and receive license tags for 1922. Where the motorist co-operates with the Commissioner's force and takes advantage of the early start, registration and actual issuance of the license tags will begin on Thursday, December 1st.

The new 1922 license tags will be blue and white and in sharp contrast to the old ones. The numerals in white will be on a dark blue background. In order that the mails and the office channels may not become clogged either with the outing application blanks or when these are mailed in after being filled in by the applicant, and to forestall as much as possible congestion when the registration certificate and the metal tags are sent out, the application blanks will be released each day until November 28th in blocks of 20,000 daily.

Last year great confusion was caused and much delay resulted through many of the applicants, when they received their blanks, tearing off and retaining the registration coupon. This coupon is useless until it has been returned to the office of Commissioner Baughman and there had stamped upon it the number of the metal license tag for that particular car.

Deputy Automobile Commissioner Schroeder this week pointed out that what the applicant must do with the application blanks before returning them, is:

First, sign the application, second, insert the number of the operator's chauffeur's license card, and third, insert the name of the anti-glare headlight device with which the car is equipped. This information must be written in in ink, and the application be remailed to the office of the Commissioner with the required fee.

"This department would like to impress as firmly as possible upon car owners the saving in time and inconvenience to themselves as well as to this office which will result in immediate remailing of these application blanks. This should be done immediately rather than waiting until the time the applicant would ordinarily wait to apply for tags. Co-operation now will save the rush in the last week of the year. This will save the applicant from having to delay several days into the new year before being able to use his or her car," said Mr. Schroeder.

Mr. Schroeder added that if the instructions are carried out properly and no errors have been made and the proper fee enclosed, the new license plates and the next year's registration card will be mailed out the same day it is received beginning on December 1st. This will give every motorist the entire month of December in which to adjust any errors or mistakes which may have been made in the original application.

It was pointed out by Mr. Schroeder that the habit of a great number of motorists of postponing their application for license until after Christmas Day results in an accumulation of such a rush of work as is physically impossible for the clerical force at the office of the Commissioner to handle. This, even when the force works day and night, as it has had to do for several years past, results in congestion and delays for the applicant. Such a rush also multiplies the chance for errors which it takes further time to straighten out.

WOMEN'S WOES

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Keeping the kidneys well has spared thousands of women much misery. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that is endorsed by people in this locality.

Mrs. Martha J. Tyler, Fairmount, Md., says: "I had kidney complaint and my back ached nearly all the time. I felt dull and had no energy. Headaches were frequent and I was often so dizzy I couldn't keep on my feet. My kidneys acted irregularly and annoyed me considerably. I read of Doan's Kidney Pills helping others and I tried them. They just suited the trouble and relieved the backaches, headaches and dizziness. My kidneys were regulated and I felt stronger and better in every way."

Properly Sized Up.

"Yes," remarked a conceited young bachelor, "I have the greatest admiration for the fair sex, but I never expect to marry—oh, dear, no!" "Indeed," a lady remarked. "Then I am to understand that you not only admire women, but you have a sincere regard for them as well."

Dynamiting the Clams.

The little pholas or boring clam is a great delicacy on the Pacific coast. Its meat is juicy and tender and is excellent in chowder. Consequently, fishermen are not content to dislodge the clams slowly with pick and crowbar. They use dynamite, one blast of which dislodges hundreds of clams, according to the Popular Science Monthly.

The swelling often may be taken out of the head by reducing the income.

Make Your Home Comfortable For Your Wife

TAKE the family washing and ironing, for instance—two of the hardest, most depressing tasks American women have had to endure. The Universal Products plant frees the women of the home for all time from the dreaded "blue Monday."

Here is power for many uses in the home and on the farm—for churning butter, doing the sweeping; the washing and for pumping water, running the dairy machinery—in fact for all the round of duties that take so much time that can nowadays be put to better use.

And there are hours gained for leisure and comfort and grace of living. Bright, cheerful, genial light—evenings pleasanter, the family happier and everybody more comfortable at home.

Universal Products Light and Power keeps workers contented. Its labor-saving economy enables them to actually accomplish more 365 days in the year.

Let us show you this simple, economical plant. It costs less than you think. It produces more than you believe possible. Let us demonstrate some of the 1700 things it will do for you.

YOU Can't Get $50 Worth for $20

¶Occasionally a man will drop in to buy some good clothes of us, and will express himself a bit harshly about the lack of service that he experienced with a suit of the so-called cheap clothes that he had bought elsewhere.

¶This doesn't appear to us to be quite fair to the other fellow—nobody can sell really good clothes at the ridiculous prices which some houses advertise—GOOD clothes can't be made to sell at such prices, and the man who buys them shouldn't expect too much.

"Quality Still Counts"

¶It does seem odd how some people are still hipnotized by a price mark—prices are entirely relative, and if you pay a low price, you will get a low suit. Better spend a bit more and get real clothes.

¶MORRIS' standard of Quality, Fabric and of Tailoring represents the best that the world affords in clothes. The prices for Fall and Winter Suits, Top Coats and Overcoats range from $15.00 upward, with especial values at $25.00 and $30.00.

THE Ford worm-driven, One-Ton Truck with demountable rims and pneumatic tires, are dependable, as well as serviceable. This, probably more than any other factor, accounts for their popularity. There is no evidence so convincing as that which comes from long practical experience. Like the Ford car, the Ford One-Ton Truck—Ford-built throughout—has proven itself. In it are combined the Ford principles of simplicity, with strength, lowest first cost, lowest operating cost, durability.

In the city, on the farm, carrying its loads between cities—everywhere you will find the Ford One-Ton Truck doing duty. Merchants, manufacturers, farmers, have come to know it as the truck of utmost service.

The farmer has discovered that not only for plowing, harrowing, discing, seeding, mowing, reaping or threshing, but a multitude of other uses; cutting wood; feed; grinding feed; churning; washing; furnishing water in the house; making electric light possible in the house and around the barns, so that, as a matter of fact, there is hardly an hour in the day when the Tractor cannot be made a profitable servant. There is ditching to do; there are roads to fix; and so on all down along the line of the enormous calls that constantly face the farmer the Fordson steps in and does the work, shoulders the complete burden of the toil and the hard work, one might almost say "drudgery."
